Fighting Rages In Laos Capital

Anti-Reds Battle To Regain City

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Anti-Communist forces, with the approval of the provisional government, were battling Tuesday night to recapture the leftist - held Laotian capital of Vientiane, the U.S. embassy reported.

The troops, led by rightist Gen. Phoumi Novasan and using American equipment, punched into the Southeast Asian city at 3:20 p.m. Laos time (3:20 a.m. EST) and clashed with Soviet - aided supporters of paratroop Capt. Kong Le who recently set up his own regime in the city.

Commercial telegraph service was disrupted by the fighting, which U.S. Ambassador Winthrop Brown said was raging in the streets. Kong Le's forces were reported to be offering heavy resistance.

King Upholds Anti-Reds

The embassy report coincided with a statement from a high U. S. official calling the new provisional government, supported by Phoumi and headed by anti-Communist Prince Boun Oum, the legitimate government of Laos.

The official said Laotian King Savang Vatthana Tuesday informed the American diplomatic representative at Luang Prabang, the royal capital, that he approves the Boun Oum regime.

One U.S. official said the king's action gave the United States firm grounds for rejecting Russia's charge of improper American interference in the tiny kingdom's internal affairs. He said it means Russia, not the United States, is helping arm an illegitimate regime.

Soviets Charge Interference

The Soviet Union accused the United States in a protest note Tuesday night of interfering in Laotian domestic affairs by supplying arms to Phoumi's forces. The note coincided with a report by the Soviet Tass news agency that Phoumi's soldiers had hurled a two - pronged attack at Vientiane.

A Soviet airlift has been delivering Russian mortars, rifles and ammunition to Kong Le's paratroops and his guerrilla allies since Saturday. Late diplomatic reports Tuesday indicated that Vientiane's airport still was open, but it was not clear whether the arms deliveries were continuing.

SEEKS TO RULE — Antoine Gizenga, former deputy premier to deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba, yesterday proclaimed himself only legitimate ruler of the Congo. He calls the rebel city of Stanleyville his capital. (AP Photofax)

Lumumba Aide Proclaims Self Ruler Of Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—A leftist lieutenant of deposed Premier Patrice Lumumba proclaimed himself Tuesday ruler of the Congo, raising fears of civil war in this troubled land.

From Lumumba's old stronghold of Stanleyville in the northeast Congo, Antoine Gizenga cabled United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold he had assumed the premiership.

The deputy premier in Lumumba's old regime also announced that the capital of the Congo henceforth would be Stanleyville instead of Leopoldville.

Gizenga's proclamation is expected to have little effect in areas beyond his control, but his allies in the Soviet and African blocs are expected to rally to his cause in the United Nations and may extend diplomatic recognition.

It was Gizenga's rebellious regime in Oriental Province that threatened to round up and behead white hostages unless Lumumba was released from army prison in Thysville east of Leopoldville.

This threat was dropped when the United Nations intervened.

President Joseph Kasavubu and Col. Joseph Mobutu, heading the pro-Western regime in Leopoldville ignored the ultimatum. The U.N. mission in the Congo immediately notified foreign diplomats in Leopoldville of Gizenga's challenge to the Congolese government.

Many fear Gizenga's bid for power could start new warfare between Mobutu's army and the provincial government at Stanleyville supported by the Communists. Mobutu boasts strong support in Equator Province, to the west of Oriental Province. He has reinforced his troops in Equator.

Big Laborite Revolt Flares

LONDON (AP)—About 70 Laborite legislators revolted against the party leadership in the House of Commons Tuesday night and helped give the Conservative government a smashing vote of confidence on its defense policies.

It was the biggest party rebellion in Parliament since the late Aneurin Bevan led left-wingers against the leadership eight years ago.

The vote came at the end of a debate on a Labor Party motion criticizing the government for failing to press for "a balanced nuclear strategy in Europe" and relying unduly on the nuclear deterrent.

Many back bench Laborites refused to budge when the time came for them to troop into the division lobbies to record their vote for the motion.

The vote was 318-163 — a whacking majority of 155. Prime Minister Macmillan's government normally commands a Commons majority of about 100.

Record Cold Numbs East After Storm

Relief Expected Tomorrow; Death Toll Exceeds 200

By The Associated Press

Record cold—as low as 28 below zero—benumbed the East Tuesday, compounding the misery of the Atlantic seaboard's worst pre-winter blizzard. The digging out task was monumental and anguishingly slow.

No relief from the deep freeze was in sight before Thursday, the Weather Bureau said. Christmas business losses already were in the multimillions.

A bright sun, replacing snow clouds, mocked the area, the warmth of its rays dissipated in the icy air. However, gale winds subsided after piling up snowdrifts to a depth of nine feet.

Death Count Passes 200

The death toll from the weekend storm passed the 200 mark in 19 states and the District of Columbia. Auto accidents, shipping mishaps, freezing and weather-induced heart attacks contributed their share to the awesome total.

Communities isolated by the storm got their first deliveries of milk and bread since last week. Other food supplies also were moving in once again, averting any threat of famine.

Record low temperatures for the date were listed in Pennsylvania, Maryland, New Jersey, New York and New England. In northwest Pennsylvania, in Jefferson County, the overnight low was -28 degrees. In Wyoming County near Buffalo, N.Y., it was -14.

Pittsburgh had a record -1, New York City 7.4 above zero and Philadelphia, Newark and Boston 8 above.

Snow Trucked Away

The far below freezing temperatures helped preserve mountainous piles of snow against the onslaught of plows, bulldozers and other removal equipment. The only way to get rid of it was to cart it away, since there was no melting.

The combination of snow and cold caused New York's Sanitation Commissioner Paul Scrivane to declare: "This is the toughest snowstorm I've seen in 24 years in the department."

Nevertheless, the giant coastal cities from Washington to Boston began the long pull back to normal. Transit moved again on some semblance of a schedule.

Ike In Hospital For Checkup

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower entered Walter Reed Army Medical Center Tuesday night to conclude a head-to-toe physical examination started last September.

The President's physicians pronounced the 70-year-old Chief Executive in excellent shape after the first series of tests Sept. 15-16.

The President will stay at Walter Reed until sometime Thursday afternoon, the White House said, so the doctors will have ample time to make their examination.

Eisenhower has no symptoms and is not ailing, the White House said.

"He feels fine and just wants to get the yearly examination concluded," said James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary.

Giant U. S. Rocket Poised For Lunar Satellite Shot

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A giant moon rocket stands poised on its pad, ready for another attempt Wednesday to launch the first U. S. lunar satellite.

Scientists made final preparations Tuesday to fire the towering Atlas-Able rocket on the exacting mission of propelling a 388-pound space craft aloft and guiding it into orbit about the moon, some 240,000 miles away.

The space craft, named Pioneer VI, is packed with electronic instruments designed to make the most extensive study ever attempted of lunar environment. They will collect and transmit information on radiation, magnetic fields, micrometeorities and other space properties.

This data is needed before man ventures forth to the moon. If he is not properly protected, deadly radiation would kill him before he got there. And a strong magnetic field could upset a space vehicle's guidance system and send it off course.

The most favorable time for the launching is a five-day period starting now. The chance of success is greater in this period because the paths of the earth and the moon are most closely aligned as they orbit about the sun—and the sun therefore is not in a position to distort the rocket.

If the launching is not accomplished in this time, it will be postponed until the next optimum period, which occurs each 28 days.

The Atlas-Able is designed to push the space craft to the necessary 23,200-mile speed needed to put it on the proper path. Then a "start-and-stop" rocket in the payload will be commanded by ground signal to steer Pioneer VI to the moon.

French Troops Resort To Bullets In Bone Outbreak

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle came home Tuesday night from his Algerian tour and announced he is standing by his home rule policy for the big North African territory, despite rioting there that left 123 dead.

He narrowly missed a new outbreak of rioting by both Algerian Nationalists and Frenchmen in Bone, his takeoff point from Algeria. French troops fired on Frenchmen there for the first time in five days of violence. Seven Algerians and two Frenchmen were killed.

"We have only one policy and it is necessary to follow it. It is the good one." De Gaulle told Cabinet members and deputies greeting him at the airport.

At the same time he dispatched a letter to Louis Joxe, Algerian affairs minister, saying cooperation between the European and Moslem communities is essential.

Cabinet Review Scheduled

"All that I have just seen and heard in the course of my inspection has convinced me of this more firmly than ever," De Gaulle wrote. "To assure this cooperation, and to oppose all whose action tends to prevent it—this is the policy of France."

He called for a full-scale Cabinet review amid reports he plans to fire any ministers not fully behind his policies.

Behind him in Algeria, De Caulle had left word for tough treatment of the leaders in the disorders that began with anti-De Gaulle riots by the Europeans and ended in pro-Nationalist riots by the Moslems. Although he never mentioned the riots while in Algeria, they are believed to have roused him to cold anger.

As De Gaulle flew across the Mediterranean, police rounded up 216 suspected troublemakers in Algiers. European settlers' leaders went underground in their determined campaign to keep Algeria part of France.

Pleads For Understanding

De Gaulle's parting plea to Algeria had been one for understanding between Moslems and Europeans.

"Without this I see only chaos," he told the soldiers who saw him off at the Bone airfield. Algeria's one million Europeans are outnumbered 10-1 by the Moslems, and they feel independence would end their privileged status in Algeria.

Just a few miles away in Bone, Foreign Legionnaires had just put down a European student demonstration, killing two and injuring 40 with submachine gun fire. In another part of the city, police fired on a Moslem mob, killing seven and wounding 12.

U. S. Denies U2s Helping French Algeria Forces

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The Soviet Union charged the United States Tuesday with sending U2 spy planes over rebel-held areas of Algeria to help the French. The United States labeled the accusation a lie.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin made the charge in the U. N. General Assembly's Political Committee, where he threw Moscow's unqualified support behind an Asian-African resolution calling for a U. N. referendum on self-determination in Algeria.

The Soviet position was set forth as Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold came under mounting pressure from the 46-nation Asian-African group to speak out on the latest violence in France's North African territory.

Francis W. Carpenter, spokesman for the U. S. delegation, issued this statement: "The Soviet charge that U. S. U2 planes are being used to carry out reconnaissance in Algeria is a complete fabrication. We reject it categorically."

The United States has not yet spoken in the committee debate. But the U. S. State Department has officially deplored the latest outbreaks, calling them a setback to President Charles de Gaulle's efforts to achieve a peaceful settlement in Algeria.

Zorin told the committee that U. S. advisors and instructors from NATO bases in North Africa were actively taking part in helping the French bomb Algerian rebel troops.

He said the U2 aircraft based in North Africa were conducting aerial photography of rebel-held territory in order to help the French forces. He asserted De Gaulle had the support of the "new fangled holy alliance of NATO" in waging a campaign of slaughter against the Algerian people.

Rusk Visits State Dept.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dean Rusk, top-ranking man in President-elect John F. Kennedy's Cabinet, visited his future office at the State Department Tuesday to begin boning up on the problems he will face.

He met for 40 minutes with veteran diplomat Loy Henderson, deputy undersecretary who is acting as head of the department in the absence of Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, and Undersecretary Douglas Dillon.

Emerging from the session, Rusk told reporters he would not discuss foreign policy issues or comment on the issues. Such remarks should be made only under responsible conditions, he said, meaning the Eisenhower administration is in charge until Jan. 20.

But Rusk talked freely about other subjects. And he told reporters "I expect to be seeing a good deal of you gentlemen in the months ahead."

As the next secretary of state, Rusk clarified two pending questions:

1. The future administration has no immediate plans to raise the number of undersecretaries and appoint a third one.

2. He said Rep. Chester Bowles of Connecticut, whom Kennedy has selected as undersecretary, will be the department's No. 2 official in charge of political affairs.

Ecuador Chief, Angry At U.S., Hails Khrush

QUITO, Ecuador (AP)—President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra, angered by the U. S. position in an old border dispute between Peru and Ecuador, has begun praising Soviet Premier Khrushchev as a great statesman and world leader. His minister of government proposed establishment of relations with Moscow.

Addressing a Guayaquil rally of 50,000 Monday night, Velasco Ibarra hailed Khrushchev's peaceful coexistence line. Following the rally demonstrators hurled rocks through windows at the U. S. consulate building in Guayaquil.

Earlier, a shouting mob destroyed the U. S. consul's private auto in Guayaquil.

Ecuador's current wave of anger—most of it directed at the United States—was touched off by a four-nation decision last week upholding a 1942 treaty that set the boundary between Peru and Ecuador in a disputed area of the headwaters of the Amazon.

Ecuador denounced the treaty as invalid and said the four guarantors supporting it—the United States, Argentina, Brazil and Chile—"did not heed the voice of justice."

Cold Silence Envelops La. Racial Front

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A cold silence—devoid of jeers, taunts or even icy stares—Tuesday enveloped the William Frantz School where nine children, one of them a Negro girl, attended classes.

But contrasted to the 34-degree temperatures in New Orleans, the situation boiled in Baton Rouge where the state legislature fired a new shot in the integration battle.

In the House of Representatives, leaders for Gov. Jimmie H. Davis shoved a bill through to replace the New Orleans School Board. This was the legislature's fourth move to oust the board, though the federal courts have ordered the legislature not to interfere.

Other bills up for consideration, all aimed at preserving segregation in the schools, are directed at the school board and curbing its functions.

Newsmen hustling to Frantz Tuesday morning to cover the arrival of the children under federal marshals' escort found no demonstrators for the first time since the school was integrated Nov. 14.

At McDonogh No. 19, located 20 blocks from Frantz, a chilled handful saw three Negro girls arrive. No white pupils have attended McDonogh since it was integrated.

The State Senate met late Tuesday to consider House-approved action. The bills must be readied for final passage Thursday, when the current 30-day term of the legislature ends. A new session starts Saturday.

Three Children Die In W. Virginia Fire

MADISON, W.Va. (AP) — Three small children were burned to death Tuesday in a fire that destroyed their small frame home near Danville, in Boone County.

The victims were Billy Ray Hager, 5, and his sisters, Patricia Hager, 3, and Nannie Arlene Hager, 2.

Mrs. James Hager, the mother, said she was awakened by the flames and aroused her husband. Both dashed outside into the zero temperature, Mrs. Hager carrying a two-month-old baby and the husband a 7-year-old son.

Hager, 34, a sawmill worker, tried to get back into the flaming structure to bring out the other youngsters but was unable to reach them. He suffered first, second and third degree burns on the hands, neck and back. His wife suffered shock.

Woman Delivers Own Baby In Stalled Car

LANCASTER, Pa. (UPI)—A 27-year-old woman delivered her own baby on the front seat of a snow-bound car in near-zero temperatures Tuesday while her husband prayed.

The father and two neighbors then frantically shoveled, pushed and pulled the car more than five miles to a highway where they were met by a rescue party.

The mother, Mrs. Harry Ross of Ephrata, Pa., and her child were transferred to an ambulance and taken to Ephrata Community Hospital.

The child, a premature boy weighing less than three pounds, was placed in an incubator.

Five Orphans Who Fled Home Lucky To Be Alive

CLAYTON, N. C. (AP) — Five youngsters returned Tuesday to warm beds in the orphanage they ran away from 24 hours before—apparently little the worse for a night they spent huddled in the woods in bitter cold weather.

Several of the nearly 1,500 volunteers who had searched for the children through most of the night figured the children were lucky to be alive.

"I don't see why they didn't freeze to death," said Kenneth Johnson, a carpenter, who found the children—three girls and two boys — huddled together for warmth in the 14-degree weather.

One girl, Shirley Pearson, 13, said they ran away from the Knights of Pythias home because they had been mistreated. She said a matron had whipped her brother, Jimmie, 11, and hit him over the head.

Later, after the children had returned to the home, Shirley said she had not been mistreated.

She said she had no thought of leaving until Tula Faye Tester, 13, another of the runaways, came to the house about a week ago.

"She started talking about it," said Shirley, "and I got it in my head."

"I got homesick" said Tula Faye. "I said I wanted to go home, and Shirley said she wanted to go home, too."

Jimmie Pearson told reporters the spanking he received at Thanksgiving had nothing to do with his leaving. He said he had virtually forgotten about it.

"The girls wanted me to go with them," he said. "I didn't want to leave."

The other two runaways were Dennis Walker, 8 and Nina Walker, 6, half-brother and sister of the Tester girl.

Ford Co. Head Will Give Up $400,000 Job

Kennedy Cabinet Appointee To Sell His Stock Holdings

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy has persuaded Robert S. McNamara, 44, to give up a $400,000-a-year job as president of Ford Motor Co. to serve as secretary of defense.

"I came to the conclusion that personal considerations must be subordinated to the best interests of the United States," McNamara told reporters Tuesday after Kennedy announced the Ford executive had agreed to accept the $25,000-a-year Cabinet post.

Both men were smiling as Kennedy—a year younger than McNamara—made the announcement from the steps of his Georgetown home.

Kennedy said he realized that McNamara—who became president of the giant Ford company only five weeks ago—was making a personal sacrifice. In addition to surrendering a big salary McNamara said he will divest himself of big holdings of Ford stock.

The president-elect chose the occasion to give a strong sendoff to his secretary-designate, whom he said he met for the first time last Thursday.

McNamara Is Republican

Kennedy pledged effective leadership for the nation's all-important military system which he said will be second to none and "so strong it can defend the peace."

McNamara—who described himself as a registered Republican "but I vote as a political independent"—was the fifth of 10 Cabinet appointments to be made so far.

Another may be announced Wednesday, it was indicated after a day which saw high-ranking visitors from organized labor, agriculture and other fields shuttle in and out of the Kennedy home.

In picking a motor company leader to run the immense Defense Department, with its $40 billion budget, Kennedy followed the lead of President Eisenhower. The first secretary of defense in the Eisenhower administration was Charles E. Wilson, then president of General Motors Corp.

Like GM, Ford does a big contract business with the military.

McNamara made it clear he is divesting himself of 24,250 shares of Ford stock and an option on 30,000 more. In addition, he said he is disposing of 100 shares of Scott Paper Co. stock and stepping out as a director of the paper firm.

Wilson's Troubles Recalled

Presumably, these stock sales will cost him heavily in taxes. In getting rid of these holdings, McNamara will be sidestepping difficulties Wilson met after Eisenhower nominated him top man in the Pentagon. The Senate, which considered the nomination, demanded that Wilson divest himself of all stockholdings which might set up a conflict of interest, and Wilson complied.

Asked how long he plans to stay at the helm of the Defense Department, McNamara replied: "I will stay on as secretary of defense as long as my work is satisfactory to the administration."

Kennedy chipped in with a comment that all who accepted appointments should be willing to stay a long time.

Ahead of the announcement of McNamara's selection, Kennedy conferred with AFL-CIO President George Meany, Chairman Harold Cooley, D-N.C., of the House Agriculture Committee and others of influence.

Meany stalked away from the house, refusing to tell newsmen what went on, but it was assumed the still-to-be-filled post of secretary of labor figured in the discussions.

A leading possibility for that job is Arthur Goldberg, the giant labor federation's general counsel.

Herter Presented Belgium's Top Award

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — King Baudouin gave Secretary of State Christian A. Herter Belgium's highest award—the Grand Cordon of the Order of Leopold—Tuesday.

The presentation of an award rarely given a foreigner smoothed over somewhat the rather chilly reception Herter got from the Belgian government on his arrival by plane earlier.

Observers believed the lack of warmth may have been due to some residual resentment over the cordial welcome Herter gave former Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba in Washington last summer.

The most favorable time for the launching is a five-day period starting now. The chance of success is greater in this period because the paths of the earth and the moon are most closely aligned as they orbit about the sun—and the sun therefore is not in a position to distort the rocket.

If the launching is not accomplished in this time, it will be postponed until the next optimum period, which occurs each 28 days.

The Atlas-Able is designed to push the space craft to the necessary 23,200-mile speed needed to put it on the proper path. Then a "start-and-stop" rocket in the payload will be commanded by ground signal to steer Pioneer VI to the moon.

Algeria Riots Continue; De Gaulle Stands Firm

Survive Ordeal

French Troops Resort To Bullets In Bone Outbreak

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle came home Tuesday night from his Algerian tour and announced he is standing by his home rule policy for the big North African territory, despite rioting there that left 123 dead.

He narrowly missed a new outbreak of rioting by both Algerian Nationalists and Frenchmen in Bone, his takeoff point from Algeria. French troops fired on Frenchmen there for the first time in five days of violence. Seven Algerians and two Frenchmen were killed.

"We have only one policy and it is necessary to follow it. It is the good one," De Gaulle told Cabinet members and deputies greeting him at the airport.

At the same time he dispatched a letter to Louis Joxe, Algerian affairs minister, saying cooperation between the European and Moslem communities is essential.

Cabinet Review Scheduled

"All that I have jus' seen and heard in the course of my inspection has convinced me of this more firmly than ever," De Gaulle wrote. "To assure this cooperation, and to oppose all whose action tends to prevent it—this is the policy of France."

He called for a full-scale Cabinet review amid reports he plans to fire any ministers not fully behind his policies.

Behind him in Algeria, De Caulle had left word for tough treatment of the leaders in the disorders that began with anti-De Gaulle riots by the Europeans and ended in pro-Nationalist riots by the Moslems. Although he never mentioned the riots while in Algeria, they are believed to have roused him to cold anger.

As De Gaulle flew across the Mediterranean, police rounded up 216 suspected troublemakers in Algiers. European settlers' leaders went underground in their determined campaign to keep Algeria part of France.

Pleads For Understanding

De Gaulle's parting plea to Algeria had been one for understanding between Moslems and Europeans.

"Without this I see only chaos," he told the soldiers who saw him off at the Bone airfield. Algeria's one million Europeans are outnumbered 10-1 by the Moslems, and they feel independence would end their privileged status in Algeria.

Just a few miles away in Bone, Foreign Legionnaires had just put down a European student demonstration, killing two and injuring 40 with submachine gun fire. In another part of the city, police fired on a Moslem mob, killing seven and wounding 12.

Rusk Visits State Dept.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dean Rusk, top-ranking man in President-elect John F. Kennedy's Cabinet, visited his future office at the State Department Tuesday to begin boning up on the problems he will face.

He met for 40 minutes with veteran diplomat Loy Henderson, deputy undersecretary who is acting as head of the department in the absence of Secretary of State Christian A. Herter, and Undersecretary Douglas Dillon.

Emerging from the session, Rusk told reporters he would not discuss foreign policy issues or comment on the issues. Such remarks should be made only under responsible conditions, he said, meaning the Eisenhower administration is in charge until Jan. 20.

But Rusk talked freely about other subjects. And he told reporters "I expect to be seeing a good deal of you gentlemen in the months ahead."

As the next secretary of state, Rusk clarified two pending questions:

1. The future administration has no immediate plans to raise the number of undersecretaries and appoint a third one.

2. He said Rep. Chester Bowles of Connecticut, whom Kennedy has selected as undersecretary, will be the department's No. 2 official in charge of political affairs.

Ecuador Chief, Angry At U.S., Hails Khrush

QUITO, Ecuador (AP)—President Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra, angered by the U. S. position in an old border dispute between Peru and Ecuador, has begun praising Soviet Premier Khrushchev as a great statesman and world leader. His minister of government proposed establishment of relations with Moscow.

Addressing a Guayaquil rally of 50,000 Monday night, Velasco Ibarra hailed Khrushchev's peaceful coexistence line. Following the rally demonstrators hurled rocks through windows at the U. S. consulate building in Guayaquil.

Earlier, a shouting mob destroyed the U. S. consul's private auto in Guayaquil.

Ecuador's current wave of anger—most of it directed at the United States—was touched off by a four-nation decision last week upholding a 1942 treaty that set the boundary between Peru and Ecuador in a disputed area of the headwaters of the Amazon.

Ecuador denounced the treaty as invalid and said the four guarantors supporting it—the United States, Argentina, Brazil and Chile—"did not heed the voice of justice."

Cold Silence Envelops La. Racial Front

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A cold silence—devoid of jeers, taunts or even icy stares—Tuesday enveloped the William Frantz School where nine children, one of them a Negro girl, attended classes.

But contrasted to the 34-degree temperatures in New Orleans, the situation boiled in Baton Rouge where the state legislature fired a new shot in the integration battle.

In the House of Representatives, leaders for Gov. Jimmie H. Davis shoved a bill through to replace the New Orleans School Board. This was the legislature's fourth move to oust the board, though the federal courts have ordered the legislature not to interfere.

Other bills up for consideration, all aimed at preserving segregation in the schools, are directed at the school board and curbing its functions.

Newsmen hustling to Frantz Tuesday morning to cover the arrival of the children under federal marshals' escort found no demonstrators for the first time since the school was integrated Nov. 14.

At McDonogh No. 19, located 20 blocks from Frantz, a chilled handful saw three Negro girls arrive. No white pupils have attended McDonogh since it was integrated.

The State Senate met late Tuesday to consider House-approved action. The bills must be readied for final passage Thursday, when the current 30-day term of the legislature ends. A new session starts Saturday.

Three Children Die In W. Virginia Fire

MADISON, W.Va. (AP) — Three small children were burned to death Tuesday in a fire that destroyed their small frame home near Danville, in Boone County.

The victims were Billy Ray Hager, 5, and his sisters, Patricia Hager, 3, and Nannie Arlene Hager, 2.

Mrs. James Hager, the mother, said she was awakened by the flames and aroused her husband. Both dashed outside into the zero temperature, Mrs. Hager carrying a two-month-old baby and the husband a 7-year-old son.

Hager, 34, a sawmill worker, tried to get back into the flaming structure to bring out the other youngsters but was unable to reach them. He suffered first, second and third degree burns on the hands, neck and back. His wife suffered shock.

U. S. Denies U2s Helping French Algeria Forces

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) —The Soviet Union charged the United States Tuesday with sending U2 spy planes over rebel-held areas of Algeria to help the French. The United States labeled the accusation a lie.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin made the charge in the U. N. General Assembly's Political Committee, where he threw Moscow's unqualified support behind an Asian-African resolution calling for a U. N. referendum on self-determination in Algeria.

The Soviet position was set forth as Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold came under mounting pressure from the 46-nation Asian-African group to speak out on the latest violence in France's North African territory.

Francis W. Carpenter, spokesman for the U. S. delegation, issued this statement: "The Soviet charge that U. S. U2 planes are being used to carry out reconnaissance in Algeria is a complete fabrication. We reject it categorically."

The United States has not yet spoken in the committee debate. But the U. S. State Department has officially deplored the latest outbreaks, calling them a setback to President Charles de Gaulle's efforts to achieve a peaceful settlement in Algeria.

Zorin told the committee that U. S. advisors and instructors from NATO bases in North Africa were actively taking part in helping the French bomb Algerian rebel troops.

He said the U2 aircraft based in North Africa were conducting aerial photography of rebel-held territory in order to help the French forces. He asserted De Gaulle had the support of the "new fangled holy alliance of NATO" in waging a campaign of slaughter against the Algerian people.

Woman Delivers Own Baby In Stalled Car

LANCASTER, Pa. (UPI)—A 27-year-old woman delivered her own baby on the front seat of a snow-bound car in near-zero temperatures Tuesday while her husband prayed.

The father and two neighbors then frantically shoveled, pushed and pulled the car more than five miles to a highway where they were met by a rescue party.

The mother, Mrs. Harry Ross of Ephrata, Pa., and her child were transferred to an ambulance and taken to Ephrata Community Hospital.

The child, a premature boy weighing less than three pounds, was placed in an incubator.

Five Orphans Who Fled Home Lucky To Be Alive

CLAYTON, N. C. (AP) — Five youngsters returned Tuesday to warm beds in the orphanage they ran away from 24 hours before—apparently little the worse for a night they spent huddled in the woods in bitter cold weather.

Several of the nearly 1,500 volunteers who had searched for the children through most of the night figured the children were lucky to be alive.

"I don't see why they didn't freeze to death," said Kenneth Johnson, a carpenter, who found the children—three girls and two boys — huddled together for warmth in the 14-degree weather.

One girl, Shirley Pearson, 13, said they ran away from the Knights of Pythias home because they had been mistreated. She said a matron had whipped her brother, Jimmie, 11, and hit him over the head.

Later, after the children had returned to the home, Shirley said she had not been mistreated.

She said she had no thought of leaving until Tula Faye Tester, 13, another of the runaways, came to the house about a week ago.

"She started talking about it," said Shirley, "and I got it in my head."

"I got homesick" said Tula Faye. "I said I wanted to go home, and Shirley said she wanted to go home, too."

Jimmie Pearson told reporters the spanking he received at Thanksgiving had nothing to do with his leaving. He said he had virtually forgotten about it.

"The girls wanted me to go with them," he said. "I didn't want to leave."

The other two runaways were Dennis Walker, 8 and Nina Walker, 6, half-brother and sister of the Tester girl.

Ford Co. Head Will Give Up $400,000 Job

Kennedy Cabinet Appointee To Sell His Stock Holdings

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy has persuaded Robert S. McNamara, 44, to give up a $400,000-a-year job as president of Ford Motor Co. to serve as secretary of defense.

"I came to the conclusion that personal considerations must be subordinated to the best interests of the United States," McNamara told reporters Tuesday after Kennedy announced the Ford executive had agreed to accept the $25,000-a-year Cabinet post.

Both men were smiling as Kennedy—a year younger than McNamara—made the announcement from the steps of his Georgetown home.

Kennedy said he realized that McNamara—who became president of the giant Ford company only five weeks ago—was making a personal sacrifice. In addition to surrendering a big salary, McNamara said he will divest himself of big holdings of Ford stock.

The president-elect chose the occasion to give a strong sendoff to his secretary-designate, whom he said he met for the first time last Thursday.

McNamara Is Republican

Kennedy pledged effective leadership for the nation's all-important military system which he said will be second to none and "so strong it can defend the peace."

McNamara—who described himself as a registered Republican "but I vote as a political independent"—was the fifth of 10 Cabinet appointments to be made so far.

Another may be announced Wednesday, it was indicated after a day which saw high-ranking visitors from organized labor, agriculture and other fields shuttle in and out of the Kennedy home.

In picking a motor company leader to run the immense Defense Department, with its $40 billion budget, Kennedy followed the lead of President Eisenhower. The first secretary of defense in the Eisenhower administration was Charles E. Wilson, then president of General Motors Corp.

Like GM, Ford does a big contract business with the military.

McNamara made it clear he is divesting himself of 24,250 shares of Ford stock and an option on 30,000 more. In addition, he said he is disposing of 100 shares of Scott Paper Co. stock and stepping out as a director of the paper firm.

Wilson's Troubles Recalled

Presumably, these stock sales will cost him heavily in taxes. In getting rid of these holdings, McNamara will be sidestepping difficulties Wilson met after Eisenhower nominated him top man in the Pentagon. The Senate, which considered the nomination, demanded that Wilson divest himself of all stockholdings which might set up a conflict of interest, and Wilson complied.

Asked how long he plans to stay at the helm of the Defense Department, McNamara replied: "I will stay on as secretary of defense as long as my work is satisfactory to the administration."

Kennedy chipped in with a comment that all who accepted appointments should be willing to stay a long time.

Ahead of the announcement of McNamara's selection, Kennedy conferred with AFL-CIO President George Meany, Chairman Harold Cooley, D-N.C., of the House Agriculture Committee and others of influence.

Meany stalked away from the house, refusing to tell newsmen what went on, but it was assumed the still-to-be-filled post of secretary of labor figured in the discussions.

A leading possibility for that job is Arthur Goldberg, the giant labor federation's general counsel.

Herter Presented Belgium's Top Award

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — King Baudouin gave Secretary of State Christian A. Herter Belgium's highest award—the Grand Cordon of the Order of Leopold—Tuesday.

The presentation of an award rarely given a foreigner smoothed over somewhat the rather chilly reception Herter got from the Belgian government on his arrival by plane earlier.

Observers believed the lack of warmth may have been due to some residual resentment over the cordial welcome Herter gave former Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba in Washington last summer.

Minuteman Missiles To Be Based On Rail Cars

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP)—Deadly, nuclear-tipped Minuteman missiles, rolling through the countryside on special trains, could be fired within 50 seconds of an alert, an Air Force general said Tuesday.

Maj. Gen. O. J. Ritland of Los Angeles, commander of the Ballistic Missile Division, told a news conference the solid-fuel Minuteman could be launched from any one of thousands of preselected rail sites.

About 150 of the intercontinental missiles will be carried on trains shuttling over the nation's railroads.

Ritland said each train would consist of about 13 cars 70 feet long. Four or five will contain the missiles and their launching equipment. The rest will house the crew and control mechanism.

The missile commander spoke to 50 U.S. rail executives gathered for their first look at a full-scale mockup of a Minuteman launch train. The Boeing Airplane Co. here is prime contractor for Minuteman, which is expected to be in combat readiness in 1962.

Lt. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, head of the Air Research and Development Command, also disclosed at th news conference that barges and freighters were being considered for ocean-going Minuteman launch sites, but he said he thought they might be too expensive compared with trains and underground silos.

Massachusetts Tally Trims Kennedy Edge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Massachusetts came up with its official presidential vote Tuesday, leaving only Illinois and Rhode Island to complete the national count.

Counting official results from 48 states and unofficial totals from the two missing states, Sen. John F. Kennedy's national popular vote plurality over Vice President Richard M. Nixon was down to 113,554 in a total vote of 68,819,348.

The tabulation:

Kennedy	34,220,496
Nixon	34,106,942
Others	491,910

Nixon picked up 1,256 votes in the official Massachusetts count compared with previous unofficial totals. Kennedy, in his home state, polled 1,487,174 to Nixon's 976,750 for a plurality of 510,424.

Boy Risks Life In Fire To Save Baby Brothers

ONTARIO, Ore. (AP)—An 11-year-old boy dashed twice through the flames and carried his two baby brothers to safety from second-floor bedrooms of their burning home here Monday night.

Fire Chief Bob Prahl said the boy, Jerry Davis, ran through flames to reach the babies, and dropped into the arms of his mother, waiting at the bottom of a stairway.

The youth suffered severe burns on his hands, face and ears, but was reported in satisfactory condition.

Prahl gave this account of the rescues:

Jerry walked out the front door of his home and saw flames spewing from an upstairs bedroom window. He shouted to his mother, Mrs. Loren Davis, who herded four other children outside. Then young Davis ran upstairs.

There was a wall of flame at a bedroom door but Davis darted through it and found his brother, Mark, 2, huddled in a corner. He carried the boy to the stairway, dropped him to his mother, then followed them outside. Mrs. Davis counted noses and found that Neil, 4, was missing.

They got back into the house. Mrs. Davis boosted Jerry up to a second-floor bannister, and he went into another bedroom, and found Neil in a corner, surrounded by fire. He dropped Neil to his mother and then jumped down the stairway. All got out safely. Neil and Mark suffered only minor burns.

Prahl said the father, a construction worker, was not at home.

Glittering Ball Honors Belgian Ruler, Fiancee

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The cream of European royalty, brilliant in millions of dollars worth of jewels, made merry Tuesday night at a royal ball celebrating King Baudouin's imminent marriage.

The Belgian king, looking happy indeed, danced across the ballroom with his fiancee, Dona Fabiola de Mora y Aragon. They will wed Thursday

The ball was in the brilliantly illuminated Brussels palace. Two dance bands played from a balcony of the huge room, filled with 600 exquisitely dressed women and their male escorts.

Precious stones glittered from dozens of tiaras, hundreds of beautiful necklaces and other heirloom jewelry.

The affair attracted four queens, 19 princesses and dozens of other titled men and women.

Dona Fabiola wore a diamond and emerald tiara given her by her native Spain. Dressed in yellow satin, with a matching mantle of lace over her shoulders, she looked like a fairy tale princess. On her right wrist she had a ruby bracelet.

But for chic beauty Britain's Princess Margaret was striking. She, too, wore a jeweled tiara, with jewels sparkling from a heavy necklace, bracelet and earrings. Her low-cut lavender dress was stylishly modeled.

Beside her was her husband, Antony Armstrong-Jones, in white tie and tails.

Kings and ex-kings at the ball, in addition to Baudouin, were Leopold II of Belgium, Olaf of Norway, Umberto of Italy, Simeon of Bulgaria and Mihail of Romania. The queens and ex-queens were Juliana of the Neterlands, Marie-Jose of Italy, Anne of Romania and the Belgian queen grandmother, Elisabeth.

'Stink' Suggested As Rallying Cry Against Pollution

WASHINGTON (AP)—The word "stink" was suggested Tuesday as a rallying cry to get more help from the public in the battle against pollution of the nation's lakes, rivers and streams.

The suggestion was made at a national conference on water pollution problems called by the Public Health Service, whose head, Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney has described the problems "a national disgrace."

The impact of the word "stink" in describing water pollution was put forth by R. G. Lynch, a columnist for the Milwaukee Journal, and an authority on conservation, water and wildlife resources.

Then Mrs. Arthur E. Whittemore of Hingham, Mass., director of the League of Women Voters of the United States, suggested the word be used by community groups to rally public support in the pollution control fight. She was commenting on Lynch's speech.

Lynch said a public sense of urgency is needed to intensify the fight against water pollution, adding:

"Some people think it (stink) is not a nice word. To me it is a working word; it has impact. Nice words, like nice guys, as Leo Durocher once said, don't win."

Home "Zoo" Death Probed

NEW YORK (AP) — A Park Avenue elevator operator—an eccentric who disdained his job as well as his own name and liked to pass himself off as "Roland Rolando, animal researcher"—was found dead Tuesday in his zoo-like Manhattan apartment. A giant jungle snake was slithering along the floor.

The cause of his death was as much of a mystery to police as was his off-the-job activities with jungle life.

The left ear of the man, identified by police as Fritz Schmaltz, 57, appeared to have been chewed by some animal.

Patrolman Matthew Stiasty, armed with an ax, had to kill the snake, a 14-foot python, before Schmaltz' body could be removed to a morgue. He apparently had been dead several days.

Also in Schmaltz' West 83rd Street apartment were a second python, a boa constrictor, a king snake, a two-foot alligator, four turtles, two cats, a tankful of tropical fish, six parakeets, a collection of butterflies and a second tank containing a piranha, a small voracious fish known as the "maneater of the Amazon."

Lipscomb was sentenced to death after his conviction of the rape-murder of three Baltimore women. Cummings was sentenced to life in prison for the fatal shooting of Inez F. White. Both were tried in Baltimore Criminal Court.

'Stink' Suggested As Rallying Cry Against Pollution

WASHINGTON (AP)—The word "stink" was suggested Tuesday as a rallying cry to get more help from the public in the battle against pollution of the nation's lakes, rivers and streams.

The suggestion was made at a national conference on water pollution problems called by the Public Health Service, whose head, Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney has described the problems "a national disgrace."

The impact of the word "stink" in describing water pollution was put forth by R. G. Lynch, a columnist for the Milwaukee Journal, and an authority on conservation, water and wildlife resources.

Then Mrs. Arthur E. Whittemore of Hingham, Mass., director of the League of Women Voters of the United States, suggested the word be used by community groups to rally public support in the pollution control fight. She was commenting on Lynch's speech.

Lynch said a public sense of urgency is needed to intensify the fight against water pollution, adding:

"Some people think it (stink) is not a nice word. To me it is a working word; it has impact. Nice words, like nice guys, as Leo Durocher once said, don't win."

Home "Zoo" Death Probed

NEW YORK (AP) — A Park Avenue elevator operator—an eccentric who disdained his job as well as his own name and liked to pass himself off as "Roland Rolando, animal researcher"—was found dead Tuesday in his zoo-like Manhattan apartment. A giant jungle snake was slithering along the floor.

The cause of his death was as much of a mystery to police as was his off-the-job activities with jungle life.

The left ear of the man, identified by police as Fritz Schmaltz, 57, appeared to have been chewed by some animal.

Patrolman Matthew Stiasty, armed with an ax, had to kill the snake, a 14-foot python, before Schmaltz' body could be removed to a morgue. He apparently had been dead several days.

Also in Schmaltz' West 83rd Street apartment were a second python, a boa constrictor, a king snake, a two-foot alligator, four turtles, two cats, a tankful of tropical fish, six parakeets, a collection of butterflies and a second tank containing a piranha, a small voracious fish known as the "maneater of the Amazon."

Appeals Court Affirms Murder Convictions

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Court of Appeals Tuesday affirmed the first-degree murder convictions of Nathaniel Lipscomb and Arbie R. Cummings.

Lipscomb was sentenced to death after his conviction of the rape-murder of three Baltimore women. Cummings was sentenced to life in prison for the fatal shooting of Inez F. White. Both were tried in Baltimore Criminal Court.

Connellsville Bank Patrons On Crying Jag

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa. (UPI)—One after the other they rushed out of the Connellsville Bank Monday—24 persons in all.

Some were hatless and coatless and all were crying unashamedly in the sub-freezing temperature.

The strange exodus was caused by a malfunction in the bank's burglar alarm system, which accidentally discharged tear gas into the bank, driving 15 employes and nine patrons outdoors.

A janitor turned up a huge fan and cleared the fumes after the alarm system was disconnected. The employes and patrons reentered the bank—but with red eyes and runny noses.

Hoffa Probe Delayed By Senate Probers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate racket investigators Monday postponed until Jan. 10 a renewed inquiry into the activities of Teamster President James R. Hoffa because of the unavailability of certain "vital witnesses."

In announcing the action, the subcommittee also said some members wanted the delay because they could not be on hand to question the scrappy teamster boss Tuesday, when the inquiry originally was supposed to start.

Hoffa is due to be arraigned in Florida on Friday on federal charges that he misused union funds in a Florida land deal. However, committee sources said the inquiry would have started Tuesday if it had not been for the other factors.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—Memo to Santa's helpers:

"Don't stock up on toys capable of causing unnecessary accidents resulting in death, injury or disease."

The memo's from the Accident Prevention Committee of the American Academy of Pediatrics.

The experts are concerned because the academy's file of tragic accidents—avoidable through the selection of safe toys—grows fatter every year around Christmas.

"In the guidance of the choice of toys, several important principles should be considered," the committee told United Press International.

"Children do not only love and become attached to toys, but will also tear, break, throw, mouth and bite them. They will also place small parts of toys into the nose, mouth or ears."

The pediatricians urge the choice of toys which are sturdy and will not come apart easily. They ban toys with sharp edges.

"And if toys are made of plastic material," the committee said, "be sure that they are not flimsy and break into small bits which may be inserted into nose, mouth or ears.

"Toys should be of sufficient size so that they cannot be swallowed or aspirated, thus snuffing out the life of a little one. Parts of all toys should be securely attached, not like the eyes of some Teddy Bears which are secured with prongs that do not hold.

"Toys which are made of cast iron are too heavy. The small child needs these like a hole in the head, which they are liable to give him."

The experts consider some stuffed toys objectionable because they become dirty and can carry harmful germs—but most of all because they can become allergenic and may cause eczema, hay fever and asthma in some children.

"Statistics have shown that about 10 per cent of the population is potentially allergic," the committee said. "If children prefer soft or cuddly toys, these should be made of orlon or terry cloth and stuffed with foam rubber.

"They should be furnished with a zipper so that the inside of the toy can be removed and the outside washed and sterilized periodically."

Toys with sharp edges—if accidentally left by Santa—should be rounded off so they cannot cause cuts or gashes. And watch out for screws which can be loosened and land in a windpipe. If the toys cannot be made safe, retire them at once.

The experts also warn against trying to make your toy dollars stretch beyond the limits of safety.

"Ask yourselves whether the toys are made with flammable material," the committee said.

"Are they made of lead or painted with lead for possible candidates of lead poisoning? Are they so flimsy that they will fall apart soon?

"Are they cheap because they don't meet standards of safety?"

But even safe toys can cause accidents. The committee said children should be trained—by example—to stow away their toys in their rightful places and not leave them scattered all over the room and stairs where they can cause serious falls.

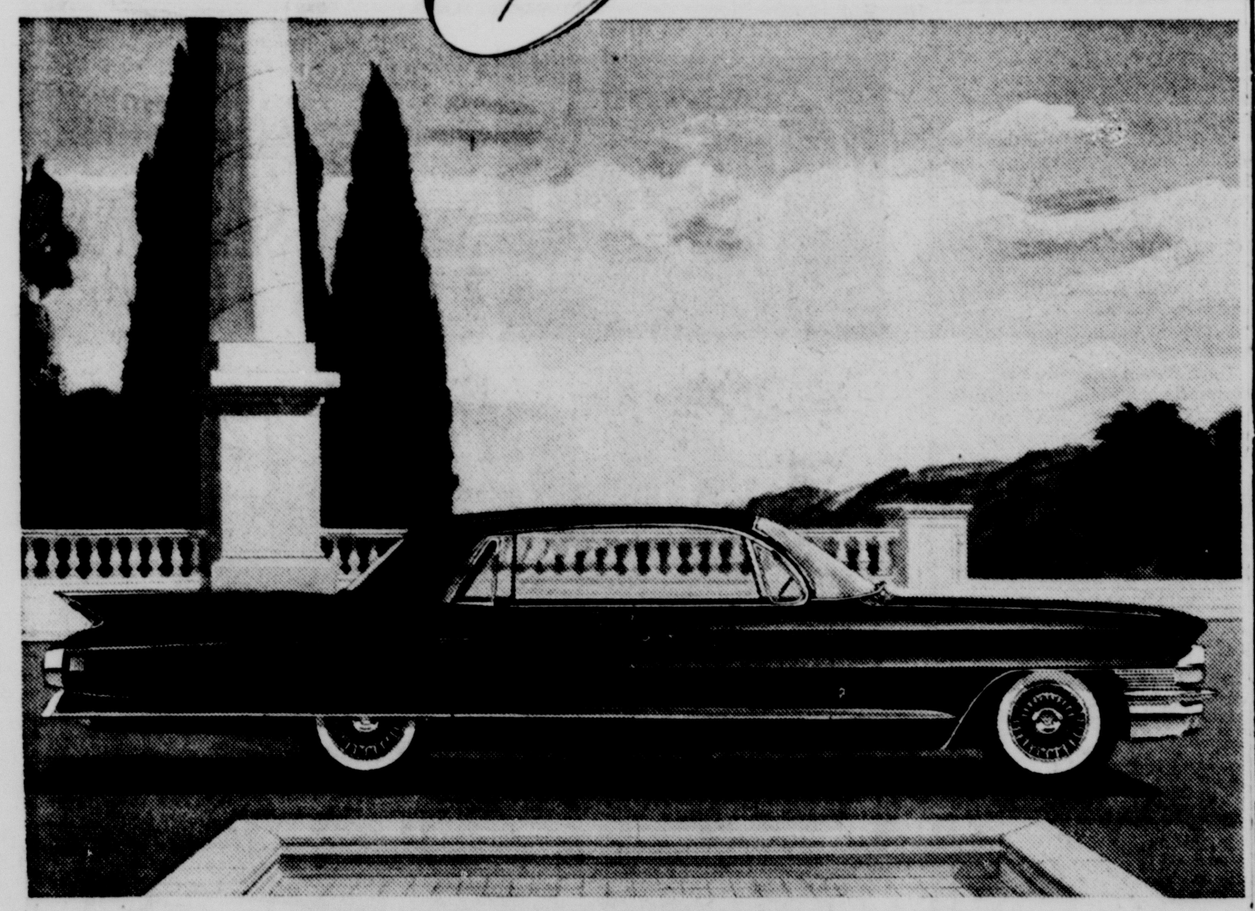
Cadillac



World's easiest way to say "Quality"!

In any company—in any land—there is one word that is instantly recognized and understood.

The word is "Cadillac"—and the meaning, of course, is "quality".

And it is understandable, we think, that Cadillac should have become a part of the universal vocabulary.

For its devotion to excellence has been of such a degree—and of such a tenure—that the car has become the world-wide symbol of everything good and desirable in a manufactured product.

This truth has never been more beautifully expressed than it is in the current Cadillac.

Inspiring to look at . . . thrilling to drive . . . rewarding to own—it is truly the master achievement of motordom's master builders.

And Cadillac has imposed on its construction the most rigid standards and restrictions ever placed over the assembly of a motor car.

More than fourteen hundred separate inspections now guard the quality and goodness of every Cadillac—and the results of this crusade for perfection can be seen . . . and felt . . . and sensed.

Here is superb craftsmanship in every body line . . . skillful tailoring and magnificent workmanship in every interior . . . and wonderful solidity and quietness in every mile of ride.

Don't you owe yourself a personal appraisal of this 1961 "car of cars"?

Your Cadillac dealer will provide the car and the keys for a demonstration at any time.

We know you'll agree that it says "quality" with an eloquence all its own.

Trial Of Potomac Pact Suit Set For Dec. 28

BALTIMORE (AP)—The trial of a case aimed at blocking the new Maryland-Virginia Potomac River Compact was set Tuesday for Dec. 28.

Judge Anselm Sodaro announced the date in he Baltimore Circuit Court case resulting from the attempts of Southern Maryland watermen to prevent the agreement from becoming effective.

Approved by the Maryland and Virginia legislatures, favored in a referendum by Maryland voters, and still requiring ratification by Congress, the pact would set up a bi-state commission to regulate fishing and conservation in the Maryland-owned Potomac River.

After the compact was endorsed in the Maryland referendum, attorney Hyman Pressman went to court on behalf of the protesting watermen.

He contended the referendum was not adequately advertised and that the compact itself contains an unconstitutional provision under which Marylanders could be tried in Virginia courts if charged with violating conservation laws in the river.

Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert asked the court to throw out Pressman's suit.

The watermen's attorney has conducted out-of-court interrogation of Maryland Gov. J. Millard Tawes and Secretary of State Thomas B. Finan in preparation for the Dec. 28 courtroom arguments on the case.

The new compact was adopted to replace the historic Compact of 1785 between Maryland and Virginia. The old agreement, giving Virginians fishing rights in the Maryland river, was declared invalid by the Maryland legislature on grounds that Virginia failed to cooperate in the prosecution of conservation law violators from that state.

Virginia asked the United States Supreme Court to declare the old compact still in effect. The high court has withheld a decision pending attempts to reach an out-of-court settlement.

Maryland Briefs

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) — A U.S. commissioner hearing for two men charged with receiving up to $100,000 worth of airplane parts stolen from the Air Force has been postponed until Dec. 19.

Monday the hearing was postponed to Dec. 14. Tuesday it was postponed again, with weather and highway conditions again causing the change in dates.

Dennis Ronley Conner, 37, and Donald R. Owens, 32, both of La Plata, are accused of receiving parts stolen from the Aero Club, operated by the Air Force at Rose Valley Airport near Friendly.

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Governor Tawes Tuesday postponed a meeting of trial magistrates scheduled for Wednesday to discuss Maryland's new point system for traffic violations.

The meeting has been rescheduled for next Tuesday at noon in Carvel Hall Hotel here.

Snow conditions forced the postponement.

BALTIMORE (AP)—The heavy snow may have had something to do with the motive involved in a break-in at a Baltimore service station.

Police reported Tuesday that $50 in cash was taken in the burglary, along with $257 worth of tire chains, snow tires and batteries.

SALISBURY (AP) — The year-old ranch home of the family of Victor J. Stephens was gutted by fire Tuesday. The loss included all of the family's Christmas presents.

Damage was estimated at $15,000 not including the loss of furniture and appliances. Stephens said the loss was fully covered by insurance.

BALTIMORE (AP) — State employes who missed work because of the snow storm that swept Maryland may be granted excused leave under some circumstances, says Wayne W. Ransom, assistant commissioner of personnel.

Ransom said discretion on the matter rests with individual department heads. Alternatives to excused leave, he said, were charging the time lost to an employe's annual leave or docking the worker for the time lost.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both Rep. Thomas F. Johnson, D-Md., and his Republican challenger in the Nov. 8 election, Edward T. Miller, spent one dollar less than they received during the campaign.

Reports filed by the candidates in Maryland's 1st District campaign showed: Johnson — $9,340 in contributions and $9,339 in expenditures; Miller — $7,365 in contributions and $7,364 in expenditures.

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The State Association of County Commissioners has postponed its meeting scheduled here Wednesday.

Robert Lovelace, executive secretary of the commissioners' organization, announced the postponement. No new date was set for the meeting which was to have been held in Carvel Hall.

Weather conditions caused the postponement.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The number of persons treated at Maryland mental hospitals increased slightly but the average resident population of the institutions during the last five years has declined, the State Department of Mental Hygiene reports.

Kurt Gorwitz, the department's chief of statistics, said the figures reflect "not only the new wonder drugs and more modern methods of treatment, but also the devotion to patient well-being and rehabilitation exhibited by much of the hospital personnel."

Pencil makers estimate that pencils still do about 9 per cent of U. S. writing jobs.

Icy Grip On Maryland Due To Ease Today; Death Toll 23

By The Associated Press

The Weather Bureau forecasts rising temperatures in Maryland beginning Wednesday afternoon with hopes for a break in the icy grip a pre-winter storm placed on the state.

The coldest temperatures of the season were expected across Maryland overnight before the rising trend in the mercury readings were due.

While the icy grasp held firm, the state's death toll from effects of the frigid cold rose to at least 23.

The dead included one traffic fatality, four persons who died of exposure, 17 felled by apparent heart attacks brought on by exertion, and one man found dead under his overturned tractor off a road near Sharpsburg.

Sunny skies cheered the outlook across the state Tuesday, but brought no warmth to persons who had to be out in the cold.

Winds which accompanied the clearing skies complicated recovery from the storm which dumped upward of 15 inches of snow on Maryland Sunday and Monday.

Highways that had been cleared in the wake of the initial snowfall were drifted over by the blowing snow, and driving conditions remained hazardous.

Major highways in the state were kept clear, but some county and secondary roads were closed until weary crews could complete the cleanup made necessary by the heavy drifting.

Despite driving conditions, schools across the state began reopening after a two-day holiday caused by the storm.

Worcester and Somerset county schools reopened Tuesday.

All public and Catholic schools in Baltimore City and Baltimore County, both elementary and high, were to resume classes Wednesday. However, no transportation was offered in county public schools and in the city there was to be no transportation for handicapped children at the public schools Wednesday

Temperatures touched zero in Western and Central Maryland sections early Wednesday, and were expected to dip to 10 degrees below zero before Thursday morning in Garrett and Allegany counties. Temperatures of five below were forecast during the night in Eastern sections of the state, with early morning lows not above 10 degrees over zero even in the sections of the state.

By Wednesday afternoon, however, the Weather Bureau said temperatures up to the 30 mark might be expected, with decreasing winds. Small craft warnings had been displayed in bay sections, with gale warnings up along Atlantic Coastal sections Tuesday night.

The first fatal traffic accident reported in the state since the cold grip set in happened on the Baltimore-Washington Expressway Tuesday.

Anthony V. Bahor, a 27-year-old Baltimore County resident who lives at Arbutus, was killed when he was struck by a car while he was stopped along the highway to place chains on his tires.

The driver of an approaching car noticed Bahor, an engineering aide at the Westinghouse plant near Friendship Airport, standing at the rear of his parked auto. The approaching motorist applied his brakes, but his car went into a skid and struck Bahor.

Other deaths included Gail W. Hamner, 58, who died while shoveling snow at his Colesville, Md., home; Mary L. Green, 60, Chapel Oaks, also stricken while shoveling snow, and John Shimp, 24, Sharpsburg farmer, whose body was discovered Tuesday beneath his overturned tractor.

Shimp had driven the tractor to a neighbor's, and was returning home when it apparently went off the road in the snow. The cause of his death was not immediately determined.

State Employes Will Seek Boost In Wages

BALTIMORE (AP)—A proposal to give about half of the state's 22,000 employes a raise in pay was approved Tuesday by their organization.

However, D. Worthington Pearre, executive secretary of the Maryland Classified Employes Association, said it had not decided yet whether to renew its request for an across-the-board raise for everyone.

The employes had sought unsuccessfully increases of 7 and 10 per cent in the past two Legislatures.

Gov. Tawes already has endorsed the plan to grant increases on a selective basis. It was recommended by the Commissioner of Personnel at an estimated cost of $1 million.

It is estimated that used houses account for three-fourths of the annual residential sales in the United States.

Trial Of Potomac Pact Suit Set For Dec. 28

BALTIMORE (AP)—The trial of a case aimed at blocking the new Maryland-Virginia Potomac River Compact was set Tuesday for Dec. 28.

Judge Anselm Sodaro announced the date in he Baltimore Circuit Court case resulting from the attempts of Southern Maryland watermen to prevent the agreement from becoming effective.

Approved by the Maryland and Virginia legislatures, favored in a referendum by Maryland voters, and still requiring ratification by Congress, the pact would set up a bi-state commission to regulate fishing and conservation in the Maryland-owned Potomac River.

After the compact was endorsed in the Maryland referendum, attorney Hyman Pressman went to court on behalf of the protesting watermen.

He contended the referendum was not adequately advertised and that the compact itself contains an unconstitutional provision under which Marylanders could be tried in Virginia courts if charged with violating conservation laws in the river.

Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert asked the court to throw out Pressman's suit.

The watermen's attorney has conducted out-of-court interrogation of Maryland Gov. J. Millard Tawes and Secretary of State Thomas B. Finan in preparation for the Dec. 28 courtroom arguments on the case.

The new compact was adopted to replace the historic Compact of 1785 between Maryland and Virginia. The old agreement, giving Virginians fishing rights in the Maryland river, was declared invalid by the Maryland legislature on grounds that Virginia failed to cooperate in the prosecution of conservation law violators from that state.

Virginia asked the United States Supreme Court to declare the old compact still in effect. The high court has withheld a decision pending attempts to reach an out-of-court settlement.

Maryland Briefs

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) — A U.S. commissioner hearing for two men charged with receiving up to $100,000 worth of airplane parts stolen from the Air Force has been postponed until Dec. 19.

Monday the hearing was postponed to Dec. 14. Tuesday it was postponed again, with weather and highway conditions again causing the change in dates.

Dennis Ronley Conner, 37, and Donald R. Owens, 32, both of La Plata, are accused of receiving parts stolen from the Aero Club, operated by the Air Force at Rose Valley Airport near Friendly.

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Governor Tawes Tuesday postponed a meeting of trial magistrates scheduled for Wednesday to discuss Maryland's new point system for traffic violations.

The meeting has been rescheduled for next Tuesday at noon in Carvel Hall Hotel here.

Snow conditions forced the postponement.

BALTIMORE (AP)—The heavy snow may have had something to do with the motive involved in a break-in at a Baltimore service station.

Police reported Tuesday that $50 in cash was taken in the burglary, along with $257 worth of tire chains, snow tires and batteries.

SALISBURY (AP) — The year-old ranch home of the family of Victor J. Stephens was gutted by fire Tuesday. The loss included all of the family's Christmas presents.

Damage was estimated at $15,000 not including the loss of furniture and appliances. Stephens said the loss was fully covered by insurance.

BALTIMORE (AP) — State employes who missed work because of the snow storm that swept Maryland may be granted excused leave under some circumstances, says Wayne W. Ransom, assistant commissioner of personnel.

Ransom said discretion on the matter rests with individual department heads. Alternatives to excused leave, he said, were charging the time lost to an employe's annual leave or docking the worker for the time lost.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both Rep. Thomas F. Johnson, D-Md., and his Republican challenger in the Nov. 8 election, Edward T. Miller, spent one dollar less than they received during the campaign.

Reports filed by the candidates in Maryland's 1st District campaign showed: Johnson — $9,340 in contributions and $9,339 in expenditures; Miller — $7,365 in contributions and $7,364 in expenditures.

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The State Association of County Commissioners has postponed its meeting scheduled here Wednesday.

Robert Lovelace, executive secretary of the commissioners' organization, announced the postponement. No new date was set for the meeting which was to have been held in Carvel Hall.

Weather conditions caused the postponement.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The number of persons treated at Maryland mental hospitals increased slightly but the average resident population of the institutions during the last five years has declined, the State Department of Mental Hygiene reports.

Kurt Gorwitz, the department's chief of statistics, said the figures reflect "not only the new wonder drugs and more modern methods of treatment, but also the devotion to patient well-being and rehabilitation exhibited by much of the hospital personnel."

Pencil makers estimate that pencils still do about 9 per cent of U. S. writing jobs.

Icy Grip On Maryland Due To Ease Today; Death Toll 23

By The Associated Press

The Weather Bureau forecasts rising temperatures in Maryland beginning Wednesday afternoon with hopes for a break in the icy grip a pre-winter storm placed on the state.

The coldest temperatures of the season were expected across Maryland overnight before the rising trend in the mercury readings were due.

While the icy grasp held firm, the state's death toll from effects of the frigid cold rose to at least 23.

The dead included one traffic fatality, four persons who died of exposure, 17 felled by apparent heart attacks brought on by exertion, and one man found dead under his overturned tractor off a road near Sharpsburg.

Sunny skies cheered the outlook across the state Tuesday, but brought no warmth to persons who had to be out in the cold.

Winds which accompanied the clearing skies complicated recovery from the storm which dumped upward of 15 inches of snow on Maryland Sunday and Monday.

Highways that had been cleared in the wake of the initial snowfall were drifted over by the blowing snow, and driving conditions remained hazardous.

Major highways in the state were kept clear, but some county and secondary roads were closed until weary crews could complete the cleanup made necessary by the heavy drifting.

Despite driving conditions, schools across the state began reopening after a two-day holiday caused by the storm.

Worcester and Somerset county schools reopened Tuesday.

All public and Catholic schools in Baltimore City and Baltimore County, both elementary and high, were to resume classes Wednesday. However, no transportation was offered in county public schools and in the city there was to be no transportation for handicapped children at the public schools Wednesday.

Temperatures touched zero in Western and Central Maryland sections early Wednesday, and were expected to dip to 10 degrees below zero before Thursday morning in Garrett and Allegany counties. Temperatures of five below were forecast during the night in Eastern sections of the state, with early morning lows not above 10 degrees over zero even in the sections of the state.

By Wednesday afternoon, however, the Weather Bureau said temperatures up to the 30 mark might be expected, with decreasing winds. Small craft warnings had been displayed in bay sections, with gale warnings up along Atlantic Coastal sections Tuesday night.

The first fatal traffic accident reported in the state since the cold grip set in happened on the Baltimore-Washington Expressway Tuesday.

Anthony V. Bahor, a 27-year-old Baltimore County resident who lives at Arbutus, was killed when he was struck by a car while he was stopped along the highway to place chains on his tires.

The driver of an approaching car noticed Bahor, an engineering aide at the Westinghouse plant near Friendship Airport, standing at the rear of his parked auto. The approaching motorist applied his brakes, but his car went into a skid and struck Bahor.

Other deaths included Gail W. Hamner, 58, who died while shoveling snow at his Colesville, Md., home; Mary L. Green, 60, Chapel Oaks, also stricken while shoveling snow, and John Shimp, 24, Sharpsburg farmer, whose body was discovered Tuesday beneath his overturned tractor.

Shimp had driven the tractor to a neighbor's, and was returning home when it apparently went off the road in the snow. The cause of his death was not immediately determined.

State Employes Will Seek Boost In Wages

BALTIMORE (AP)—A proposal to give about half of the state's 22,000 employes a raise in pay was approved Tuesday by their organization.

However, D. Worthington Pearre, executive secretary of the Maryland Classified Employes Association, said it had not decided yet whether to renew its request for an across-the-board raise for everyone.

The employes had sought unsuccessfully increases of 7 and 10 per cent in the past two Legislatures.

Gov. Tawes already has endorsed the plan to grant increases on a selective basis. It was recommended by the Commissioner of Personnel at an estimated cost of $1 million.

It is estimated that used houses account for three-fourths of the annual residential sales in the United States.

NEW YORK (AP)—Standard & Poor's Corp., an investment advisory service, said Monday in its annual forecast that 1961, like 1958 and 1954, will be a period of business recession.

But it added present indications are that the dip will be less in duration and extent than either of the preceding postwar declines.

"It will be a year of mixed forces, with those making for decline dominant in the early months and those making for recovery taking the upper hand in the second half," Standard & Poor's said.

"Our current view is that industrial production a year hence will be higher than it now is, that the full-year drop will be small, and that the value of all goods and services (gross national product) for the full year will rise slightly."

The firm lists the major recessional influences as a drop in capital investment in plant and equipment, moderate inventory correction and a resulting short-lived dip in consumer buying of goods.

Shearson, Hammill & Co. says a factor that suggests the stock market will remain quite selective is the probability that, while sales in many currently depressed industries will come back to the high levels of 1959, profit margins will probably fail to do so.

"Consequently," it says, "we believe that new commitments should be confined to stocks of companies whose favorable earnings prospects for 1961 are clearly defined."

"During the November-December action, the ability of the market to attract support so promptly after minor dips may be interpreted as highly constructive, and a further effort to break upward through 615 on the Dow Jones industrial average may be made," comments Investors Research Co.

"Although recent favorable action does not rule out the possibility of some correction after the close of the year, the huge flow of capital currently being reinvested is evidence of a firm undertone which can provide the foundation for a major improvement in the market in 1961."

Hadassah To Honor Founder

A program commemorating the 100th anniversary of the birth of its founder will be given by Cumberland Chapter of Hadassah at its meeting today at 8:15 p.m. in B'er Chayim Vestry.

Final plans will also be made for the shopper's luncheon which the chapter is sponsoring Monday from 11 a.m. until 2 p.m. in the Temple Vestry.

Mrs. Harvey Dezen is in charge of the program marking the birth of Henrietta Szold, founder of Hadassah, the women's Zionist organization of America, and one of the founders of Youth Aliyah, which is the international agency for the rescue, relief and rehabilitation of Jewish children and youths.

For her work with these organizations and with many others in the field of health, education and social welfare, Miss Szold was recognized before her death in 1944 as one of the hundred great American women. She was born and reared in Baltimore where she started her career of philanthropic and social work by founding the first adult evening school in the United States to help Americanize European immigrants.

Refreshments will be served by a committee with Mrs. Samuel Schwab, chairman, Mrs. Paul Steinberger, Mrs. Richard Winer and Mrs. Morton Winer.

Attention Focused On Fireplace At Christmas

By JOYCE SCHULLER

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Yule log, children's stockings and years of tradition all combine to focus attention on the fireplace come Christmas. What better time to invest in some handsome fireplace equipment?

Screens, brass or black, now come ready-made in recessed as well as free-standing models and don't require professional installation. For those with a taste for the more unusual, there are screens bordered in mosaic, decorated with metal cutouts of trees or flowers or centered with a huge brass star.

Firesets remain generally traditional in shape, but a few of the black wrought iron ones now include such strikingly modern pieces as sharply triangular shovels and brushes.

Among the new log baskets is a brown leather one with a brass frame, trimmed with wood.

Most andirons still have the look of jumbo antique brass candlesticks, but a few now have modern curves and, in keeping with the recent revival of Federalists furniture, others are topped with the Federalist eagle.

For the hearth beside the fireplace, there's a wide choice of styles in brass coal pails. Try filling one with dried aromatic pine cones for the holiday season.

There's an even greater variety of ways to dress up the fireplace from above, with pottery mugs, metal tankards, cuckoo or other ornate clocks on the mantel, or placques, prints or crests on the wall over the fireplace.

A stunning new candelabra, designed especially for the mantel, has a wooden log-type base. It comes in two sizes, one for three candles and a larger one for seven candles.

Foot-long fireplace matches, conversation pieces in themselves, will look even more decorative in one of the new stamped brass matchboxes, about three times the size of the ordinary wooden boxes that hold penny matches.

Fireplace brooms, too, have gone decorative, with multicolored bristles in harvest or holiday color combinations. They're a bit impractical, but add a nice touch of whimsy to the hearth.

Cresap Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will meet today at 2:30 p. m. in the community room of Central YMCA. Mrs. Marshall Twigg and Mrs. Ralph VanNewkirk will be hostesses. Miss Ruth Clauson, regent, will preside. Members are to bring Christmas stockings for children at the Blue Ridge School in Virginia sponsored by the DAR. There will be a program and a tea will conclude the meeting.

Magistrate Gives Views On Charges

Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt of the local Trial Magistrates Court yesterday wrote the Allegany County Board of Commissioners about a complaint which was brought before the commissioners by Sheriff Paul C. Haberlein on November 15 concerning the release on bond of prisoners in the county jail.

Weatherholt stated that the sheriff alleged that he had refused to fix bond for prisoners desiring their release when he (Weatherholt) was called on the phone.

"The sheriff also allegedly stated that I had issued instructions to other magistrates concerning the acceptance of bond," Weatherholt stated.

It is a little difficult to understand why the sheriff decided to use the Board of County Commissioners as a public sounding board to make a personal attack on me and to attempt to discredit the work being done in the lower court," the magistrate added.

Weatherholt said that for many years it had been the practice at the sheriff's office to accept bond posted there for release of prisoners.

"This was no doubt a great convenience for magistrates who did not wish to be bothered after court hours which are set by law from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. except Saturday when the court closes at noon," he added.

"Legal authorities advise me there is nothing in the law which permits a sheriff or any of his deputies to accept bond. Furthermore, the wording on the very warrants which lead to arrest and incarceration states, 'and bring him before me, the subscriber or some other justice of the peace of said state and county, to be dealt with according to law, whereof fail not, and have you then and there this warrant,'" Weatherholt stated.

Weatherholt stated that the law clearly gives the sheriff instructions to bring the prisoner before a sitting magistrate and the warrant says nothing about "calling a magistrate on the telephone and asking him to come to the county jail."

The magistrate then listed some cases in which he has either granted bond or else withheld bond depending on the circumstances in the case.

Weatherholt said he has concluded that there is some underlying cause why the sheriff used the County Board of Commissioners as a sounding board to make "a personal attack on me."

"I can only guess at this, and assume that the attack was a political one, inasmuch as I was the agent and manager for the Democratic candidate for sheriff in the last political campaign.

"It might also stem from the fact that I objected to the sheriff and his deputies accepting cash bond, for which I am responsible and which I cannot, under the law or under the terms of my surety bond, authorize any other unauthorized person to handle, except at my own personal risk.

"I might conclude by saying that much of Sheriff Haberlein's attack seems to charge me with 'failure to serve over and beyond the call of duty.' But even this charge is false, because I have held night court on 11 occasions to keep defendants and witnesses from losing a day's work. I have been called out during all hours of the night by the city and state police to issue warrants in emergencies."

Meeting Canceled

The meeting scheduled today at Annapolis of the State Association of County Commissioners has been canceled due to weather conditions.

County To Get Refund On Fire Insurance

James D. Reinhart, of the M. D. Reinhart Insurance Company, today informed the Allegany County Board of Commissioners that the county will get a refund on some of its pre-paid fire insurance and also get an immediate refund of $960 on some fire insurance renewed as of December 1.

Reinhart said that the refund results from the watch and clock program of fire prevention at the Court House and also good 'housekeeping' by janitors at the building.

The county board was told that further reduction of the fire insurance premiums will result through continued improvement in the county's program of fire protection in various buildings.

Commissioner John J. Rowan said that discussions are underway for employment of an insurance consultant to advise the board on its program of insurance coverage.

The board met with Henry Duke, local insurance consultant, today to discuss such a program.

McNamara Is Ex-Prof

DETROIT (AP)—Robert S. McNamara, selected by President-elect John F. Kennedy to be secretary of defense, is a former college professor who learned the automobile business with mathematical precision.

He appeared on the automotive scene in 1946 with the postwar reorganization of Ford Motor Co. and climaxed his rise to the top by being named president of Ford one month ago.

His first job at Ford was to establish a planning control department. In rapid succession he became controller, assistant general manager of Ford Division, vice president and general manager of Ford Division, group vice president in charge of car and truck divisions and then president.

McNamara, 44, is one year older than Kennedy. He was a Kennedy contemporary at Harvard where he received a master's degree in business administration in 1939.

From 1940 to 1943 he was an assistant professor of business administration at Harvard. As a consultant to the War Department he helped plan a statistical control program which later was applied to the whole complicated logistics operations of the Air Force.

McNamara professes to be a political independent. He contributed to the successful 1958 senatorial campaign of Democrat Philip Hart of Michigan. This year he contributed to the unsuccessful bid for governor by Republican-Liberal Paul Bagwell.

Legislators Hear Data On Teachers' Program

The legislative program of the Maryland State Teachers Association was presented to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners and county legislators Monday at an Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club meeting conducted by the legislative committee of the Allegany County Teachers Association.

The proposals are sponsored jointly by the state teachers and the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Mrs. Frederick Bull, chairman of the state PTA legislative committee, told of the need for more and better teachers and outlined the financial support program as backed by the two state groups. Harry Hendrickson, MSTA representative, supported the remarks of Mrs. Bull and discussed support for the state teachers colleges and salary schedules at those institutions. He also told of opposition to the Warfield Commission report which calls for the merger of teacher colleges at Frostburg, Towson and Salisbury with the University of Maryland.

Financial aid for schools as proposed by the James Committee of the legislature would be helpful, said Mrs. Bull, but she pointed out the James program does not go far enough and tends to keep the burden of education support on the counties. She noted that while state aid to schools has increased in dollars, it is lower percentage-wise than in 1947.

Hendrickson said: "We are not just asking for more pay for teachers. We want the whole program improved. The teachers association is concerned with a full education program just as are the bar and medical associations for their specific groups."

Mrs. Bull praised the voting record on education matters of Allegany County legislators and both speakers pointed to the importance of good teachers in any system of education.

Pointing out that Maryland ranks tenth in per capita income but 37th in per capita expenditures for education, Mrs. Bull asserted that "Children are being cheated. The public wants better education and is willing to pay for it."

The James committee proposes additional state aid for education totaling over $6.6 million while the MSTA program calls for a figure of $11.7 million. The minimum salary would be raised from $3,200-$5,300 to $3,600-$5,700 under the James plan while under the MSTA program the minimum salary range would be from $4,000 to $6,000.

The current scale in Allegany County is $3,800-$5,900. Under the James plan an average salary increase of $204 per teacher would be provided while under the MSTA program the average increase would be $509.

The MSTA program also calls for greater construction and general help than does the James plan.

Also attending Monday night's meeting were Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools, and members of the Allegany County Board of Education.

Chemically speaking, there is no difference between cane sugar and beet sugar. They are both sucrose, of identical composition.

Planning Commission Meets December 29

Commissioner John T. Mason announced yesterday that the County Planning Commission will meet Thursday, December 29, at 7:30 p. m. at the Court House to discuss the proposed new school building program.

The Allegany County Board of Education has proposed an outlay of approximately $5 million for new facilities and the planning group will delve into the matter, Mason said.

Mason is a member of the Planning Commission as the representative of the County Board of Commissioners.

Magistrate Gives Views On Charges

Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt of the local Trial Magistrates Court yesterday wrote the Allegany County Board of Commissioners about a complaint which was brought before the commissioners by Sheriff Paul C. Haberlein on November 15 concerning the release on bond of prisoners in the county jail.

Weatherholt stated that the sheriff alleged that he had refused to fix bond for prisoners desiring their release when he (Weatherholt) was called on the phone.

"The sheriff also allegedly stated that I had issued instructions to other magistrates concerning the acceptance of bond," Weatherholt stated.

It is a little difficult to understand why the sheriff decided to use the Board of County Commissioners as a public sounding board to make a personal attack on me and to attempt to discredit the work being done in the lower court," the magistrate added.

Weatherholt said that for many years it had been the practice at the sheriff's office to accept bond posted there for release of prisoners.

"This was no doubt a great convenience for magistrates who did not wish to be bothered after court hours which are set by law from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. except Saturday when the court closes at noon," he added.

"Legal authorities advise me there is nothing in the law which permits a sheriff or any of his deputies to accept bond. Furthermore, the wording on the very warrants which lead to arrest and incarceration states, 'and bring him before me, the subscriber or some other justice of the peace of said state and county, to be dealt with according to law, whereof fail not, and have you then and there this warrant,'" Weatherholt stated.

Weatherholt stated that the law clearly gives the sheriff instructions to bring the prisoner before a sitting magistrate and the warrant says nothing about "calling a magistrate on the telephone and asking him to come to the county jail."

The magistrate then listed some cases in which he has either granted bond or else withheld bond depending on the circumstances in the case.

Weatherholt said he has concluded that there is some underlying cause why the sheriff used the County Board of Commissioners as a sounding board to make "a personal attack on me."

"I can only guess at this, and assume that the attack was a political one, inasmuch as I was the agent and manager for the Democratic candidate for sheriff in the last political campaign.

"It might also stem from the fact that I objected to the sheriff and his deputies accepting cash bond, for which I am responsible and which I cannot, under the law or under the terms of my surety bond, authorize any other unauthorized person to handle, except at my own personal risk.

"I might conclude by saying that much of Sheriff Haberlein's attack seems to charge me with 'failure to serve over and beyond the call of duty.' But even this charge is false, because I have held night court on 11 occasions to keep defendants and witnesses from losing a day's work. I have been called out during all hours of the night by the city and state police to issue warrants in emergencies."

Meeting Canceled

County To Get Refund On Fire Insurance

James D. Reinhart, of the M. D. Reinhart Insurance Company, today informed the Allegany County Board of Commissioners that the county will get a refund on some of its pre-paid fire insurance and also get an immediate refund of $960 on some fire insurance renewed as of December 1.

Reinhart said that the refund results from the watch and clock program of fire prevention at the Court House and also good 'housekeeping' by janitors at the building.

The county board was told that further reduction of the fire insurance premiums will result through continued improvement in the county's program of fire protection in various buildings.

Commissioner John J. Rowan said that discussions are underway for employment of an insurance consultant to advise the board on its program of insurance coverage.

The board met with Henry Duke, local insurance consultant, today to discuss such a program.

McNamara Is Ex-Prof

DETROIT (AP)—Robert S. McNamara, selected by President-elect John F. Kennedy to be secretary of defense, is a former college professor who learned the automobile business with mathematical precision.

He appeared on the automotive scene in 1946 with the postwar reorganization of Ford Motor Co. and climaxed his rise to the top by being named president of Ford one month ago.

His first job at Ford was to establish a planning control department. In rapid succession he became controller, assistant general manager of Ford Division, vice president and general manager of Ford Division, group vice president in charge of car and truck divisions and then president.

McNamara, 44, is one year older than Kennedy. He was a Kennedy contemporary at Harvard where he received a master's degree in business administration in 1939.

From 1940 to 1943 he was an assistant professor of business administration at Harvard. As a consultant to the War Department he helped plan a statistical control program which later was applied to the whole complicated logistics operations of the Air Force.

McNamara professes to be a political independent. He contributed to the successful 1958 senatorial campaign of Democrat Philip Hart of Michigan. This year he contributed to the unsuccessful bid for governor by Republican-Liberal Paul Bagwell.

Legislators Hear Data On Teachers' Program

The legislative program of the Maryland State Teachers Association was presented to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners and county legislators Monday at an Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club meeting conducted by the legislative committee of the Allegany County Teachers Association.

The proposals are sponsored jointly by the state teachers and the Maryland Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Mrs. Frederick Bull, chairman of the state PTA legislative committee, told of the need for more and better teachers and outlined the financial support program as backed by the two state groups. Harry Hendrickson, MSTA representative, supported the remarks of Mrs. Bull and discussed support for the state teachers colleges and salary schedules at those institutions. He also told of opposition to the Warfield Commission report which calls for the merger of teacher colleges at Frostburg, Towson and Salisbury with the University of Maryland.

Financial aid for schools as proposed by the James Committee of the legislature would be helpful, said Mrs. Bull, but she pointed out the James program does not go far enough and tends to keep the burden of education support on the counties. She noted that while state aid to schools has increased in dollars, it is lower percentage-wise than in 1947.

Hendrickson said: "We are not just asking for more pay for teachers. We want the whole program improved. The teachers association is concerned with a full education program just as are the bar and medical associations for their specific groups."

Mrs. Bull praised the voting record on education matters of Allegany County legislators and both speakers pointed to the importance of good teachers in any system of education.

Pointing out that Maryland ranks tenth in per capita income but 37th in per capita expenditures for education, Mrs. Bull asserted that "Children are being cheated. The public wants better education and is willing to pay for it."

The James committee proposes additional state aid for education totaling over $6.6 million while the MSTA program calls for a figure of $11.7 million. The minimum salary would be raised from $3,200-$5,300 to $3,600-$5,700 under the James plan while under the MSTA program the minimum salary range would be from $4,000 to $6,000.

The current scale in Allegany County is $3,800-$5,900. Under the James plan an average salary increase of $204 per teacher would be provided while under the MSTA program the average increase would be $509.

The MSTA program also calls for greater construction and general help than does the James plan.

Also attending Monday night's meeting were Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools, and members of the Allegany County Board of Education.

Chemically speaking, there is no difference between cane sugar and beet sugar. They are both sucrose, of identical composition.

Planning Commission Meets December 29

Commissioner John T. Mason announced yesterday that the County Planning Commission will meet Thursday, December 29, at 7:30 p. m. at the Court House to discuss the proposed new school building program.

The Allegany County Board of Education has proposed an outlay of approximately $5 million for new facilities and the planning group will delve into the matter, Mason said.

Mason is a member of the Planning Commission as the representative of the County Board of Commissioners.

Snowfall Causes Havoc With Yule Mail

Snow is associated with the delivery of Christmas gifts by Santa Claus, but the heavy fall over the weekend has raised havoc with the delivery of Christmas letters and packages.

Postmaster Thomas F. Conlon said a tremendous backlog of parcel post has built up at Baltimore, with delivery to this area delayed because of bad road conditions.

There are ordinarily two truckloads of parcel post trucked here daily from Baltimore, but none arrived yesterday and frantic phone calls disclosed the fact that delivery was impossible at the time.

The first truck delivery in about 40 hours arrived here just before noon today, Conlon said, adding that with the resumption of such delivery an added burden will be placed on the clerk and carrier force here.

The first extra window service of the holiday season was available to the public over the weekend, with postal spokesmen stating that few people availed themselves of the service, principally because of the bad weather.

Total cancellations through yesterday amounted to 261,300, well below the 310,800 for the same period last year. Mail today began to assume holiday proportions, Conlon said, and it is expected that the day-by-day comparison will equal the 1959 figure by tomorrow.

Conlon also pointed out that Cumberland is fortunate in having railroad delivery of mail in addition to the truck service, explaining that cities of comparable size, such as Wheeling and Morgantown, W. Va., depend entirely on motor delivery of parcel post.

Penn. Digs Out As Temperature Dips

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Subfreezing temperatures, dipping to as much as 28 below zero, gripped Pennsylvania Tuesday as cities and communities worked to open all roads and bring transportation, industrial and other facilities back to normal after a crippling snowstorm.

Headway was being made in cleaning up from the two-day storm which began Sunday and deposited up to 15 inches of snow in Philadelphia and tied the state in a knot. Most of the main roads were reopened by Tuesday morning.

Twenty deaths were attributed to the storm.

Begging was so rampant in Paris in the 1650s that its streets were "worked" daily by some 40 thousand professional beggars.

The Board of Zoning Appeals of the City of Cumberland will meet in the City Hall, Cumberland, Maryland, Thursday, December 15, 1960, at 8:00 p. m., to hear the following appeals:

Mrs. Louise Eror, 410 Decatur Street, Cumberland, Maryland, who has made application to build a 34' x 28' one-story brick veneer dwelling on Lots Nos. 29 and 30 Moran Avenue, Moran Addition, Residential "A" Zoning District; said dwelling to have concrete block foundation and composition shingle roof; said premises owned by the applicant.

Remodeling Scheduled At Court House

Plans and specifications have been prepared for remodeling of a large room in the basement of the Court House for use of two county agencies.

Commissioner John T. Mason told the board that the plans include new lighting and a dropped ceiling. The quarters will be used for the new County Planning Commission and the Sanitary Commission as a meeting place.

Bids will be asked in the near future for the remodeling work.

Meanwhile, the voting machines which have been housed in the basement at the Court House, will be stored in a new structure being planned for the lot at the Franklin Street county garage property.

Mason said the voting machine building will be of concrete block and be heated and ventilated. It will contain 2,500 square feet of space. There will be 103 machines stored in the new structure.

The foundation excavation is being dug and as soon as the weather conditions improve the concrete block will be laid.

Bids Being Sought For CD Radios

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday approved a request by William G. Barger, director of the county Civil Defense organization, to secure bids on radio equipment for the CD program.

Barger said that 50 per cent of the cost of the radio equipment will be paid by the federal government and that the balance is on hand in the current Civil Defense budget of his organization.

Bids will be received Wednesday, January 4, by the county commissioners' office. Specifications may be obtained from James G. Stevenson, clerk to the county commissioners.

County Changes Procedure On Fox Bounties

In a move to tighten up the system of paying bounties on foxes the Allegany County Board of Commissioners passed a resolution for a new method of handling these payments.

Effective Thursday all persons who have killed foxes will have to bring the pelt to the Court House where James G. Stevenson, clerk to the commissioners, will place an appropriate mark on the pelts and make the bounty payment.

For many years the county paid the bounties on foxes after the various magistrates in the county had inspected the pelts and signed a form listing the number of foxes and the amount of the bounty.

For each fox killed in the county the payment is $3. Foxes are predators and the bounty payments are devised to eliminate as many of the animals as possible. Foxes prey on rabbits, quail, wild turkeys and other small game.

Stevenson has not yet decided what type marker he will use to designate that a bounty has been paid on the foxes.

Temperatures In W. Virginia Fall Below Zero

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — Record cold weather sent temperatures tumbling below zero in parts of West Virginia Tuesday, but very little snow was added to large amounts that fell Sunday and Monday.

Charleston and Parkersburg reported record low readings for the date. The 2 below zero in Parkersburg was the coldest since a reading of minus 3 on Jan. 5, 1959. The previous low for Dec. 13 was 6 in 1917.

The record for the date in Charleston had been 8 above, set in 1955, until Tuesday morning's 3 above.

Flat Top near Beckley reported the lowest early Tuesday temperature — 3 below zero. Beckley had 2 below and Bluefield 1 below.

Other lows included Morgantown 2, Chapmanville 4, and Martinsburg and Elkins 5.

Wind caused drifting of heavy snow in the mountainous areas. Martinsburg had 10 inches of snow on the ground Tuesday, with gusts up to 36 miles per hour. Eastern Panhandle counties had 8 to 13 inches of snow on the ground.

Most state roads were icy in spots and driving was hazardous. Snow forced schools to close in Berkeley, Jefferson, Morgan and Taylor counties.

Today there are 180,000 Protestants in Taiwan attending 1,478 churches representing some 60 different denominations.

Uruguay won its independence from Spain in the early 1800s.

The Veternary service has been part of the U. S. Army since 1792.

W. E. Burchett Will Head W. Va. State Police

By BILL BARRETT

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Former State Police Supt. William E. Burchett was named by Gov.-elect W. W. Barron Tuesday to succeed Col. Hazen H. Fair as head of the West Virginia Department of Public Safety effective Jan. 16.

Barron also named Truman Gore, Clarksburg businessman, as director of the Department of Finance and Administration. Gore will succeed Henry L. Ash who announced his resignation six months ago to return to Salem College as a teacher.

Both appointments were announced at a press conference held by Barron Tuesday afternoon.

In making the announcement Barron said they gave him much "pleasure and satisfaction because I feel both of these gentlemen will serve our state with distinction and honor."

Burchett served full terms as head of the State Police under former governors Clarence Meadows and Okey Patteson. He was reappointed to a third term by Gov. William C. Marland, but resigned three months later following a disagreement with Marland over department policies.

Member Of County Court

Gore, president of the Gore Hotel, Inc., and active in real estate, security investments and insurance, is a member of the Harrison County Court. He was appointed earlier this year to fill the unexpired term of the late Frank Mills. Earlier he served as chief deputy sheriff in charge of the tax office in Harrison County.

Barron repeatedly said during the election campaign one of his first acts would be to remove Fair as State Police superintendent. There had been speculation in recent weeks that he would choose either Burchett or H. Clare Hess of Mannington, also a former superintendent, for the job.

United Press International learned that Fair has submitted his resignation to Gov. Cecil H. Underwood effective Jan. 16. However, Fair would not comment on this action. Underwood was not available for comment.

Veteran members of the State Police privately lauded Burchett's appointment. Fair also joined in. He said Barron had made "an excellent choice" and added he felt Burchett was "well qualified and would make a good superintendent."

Sees Challenge In Job

Gore has been active in Harrison County political circles but has not been a part of state government before. However, he said the appointment was a challenge to him and he would give his best in the job.

Gore, a Clarksburg native, attended West Virginia Wesleyan and graduated from the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce at Philadelphia. He is 50 years old.

Burchett is 62, a former member of the State Senate and one-time sheriff of Mingo County.

Fair was a controversial figure in the Underwood administration. Democratic members of the Legislature continually criticized his handling of the department and its activities.

He is also under indictment in Kanawha County for false swearing before a grand jury. His trial is scheduled Jan. 9. It resulted from testimony given by Fair during a grand jury investigation of an alleged embezzlement of funds within the department by a civilian employe.

W. E. Burchett Will Head W. Va. State Police

By BILL BARRETT

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Former State Police Supt. William E. Burchett was named by Gov.-elect W. W. Barron Tuesday to succeed Col. Hazen H. Fair as head of the West Virginia Department of Public Safety effective Jan. 16.

Barron also named Truman Gore, Clarksburg businessman, as director of the Department of Finance and Administration. Gore will succeed Henry L. Ash who announced his resignation six months ago to return to Salem College as a teacher.

Both appointments were announced at a press conference held by Barron Tuesday afternoon.

In making the announcement Barron said they gave him much "pleasure and satisfaction because I feel both of these gentlemen will serve our state with distinction and honor."

Burchett served full terms as head of the State Police under former governors Clarence Meadows and Okey Patteson. He was reappointed to a third term by Gov. William C. Marland, but resigned three months later following a disagreement with Marland over department policies.

Member Of County Court

Gore, president of the Gore Hotel, Inc., and active in real estate, security investments and insurance, is a member of the Harrison County Court. He was appointed earlier this year to fill the unexpired term of the late Frank Mills. Earlier he served as chief deputy sheriff in charge of the tax office in Harrison County.

Barron repeatedly said during the election campaign one of his first acts would be to remove Fair as State Police superintendent. There had been speculation in recent weeks that he would choose either Burchett or H. Clare Hess of Mannington, also a former superintendent, for the job.

United Press International learned that Fair has submitted his resignation to Gov. Cecil H. Underwood effective Jan. 16. However, Fair would not comment on this action. Underwood was not available for comment.

Veteran members of the State Police privately lauded Burchett's appointment. Fair also joined in. He said Barron had made "an excellent choice" and added he felt Burchett was "well qualified and would make a good superintendent."

Sees Challenge In Job

Gore has been active in Harrison County political circles but has not been a part of state government before. However, he said the appointment was a challenge to him and he would give his best in the job.

Gore, a Clarksburg native, attended West Virginia Wesleyan and graduated from the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce at Philadelphia. He is 50 years old.

Burchett is 62, a former member of the State Senate and one-time sheriff of Mingo County.

Fair was a controversial figure in the Underwood administration. Democratic members of the Legislature continually criticized his handling of the department and its activities.

He is also under indictment in Kanawha County for false swearing before a grand jury. His trial is scheduled Jan. 9. It resulted from testimony given by Fair during a grand jury investigation of an alleged embezzlement of funds within the department by a civilian employe.

An Unwelcome Alternative

A deadline set by a joint committee of steel management and labor, hashing over the work rules of the industry, went unmet on November 30.

The committee was to have finished its work and issued a report by that date. The committee has not quit, however, just because it has passed the deadline that was originally set for it. It will continue to operate and hopes to have some solid recommendations by the time the steel contracts come up for renewal in 1962.

The question of work rules is becoming a central one in many labor negotiations. Management wants to be able to allocate its work force in the way that will provide the most economical and efficient operation. Labor fears that such allocation may result in lost jobs.

Because the issue is so highly charged emotionally, attempts to settle it at the bargaining table, with a contract at stake, tend to wind up unsatisfactorily.

So the approach taken in the steel industry may mark somewhat of a turning point in labor-management relations. There is, of course, some of the bargaining table atmosphere present at any such meetings. But the pressure of an imminent strike or termination of a contract is off.

It is all to the good when management and labor can sit down at the same table and seek mutual understanding on an issue that is very much in contention. That is the way labor problems should be handled.

The alternative could be government intervention—and neither side wants that.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

The Argument Of Growth

The argument of growth is specious unless one considers facts. The growth advocates use the steel industry as an example of the lack of growth because presently this industry works, they say, at about 55 per cent of capacity. This is taken to mean that the United States is standing still, or even worse, has gone backwards.

In 1938, the United States had an ingot capacity of 80,000,000 tons; in 1960, the ingot capacity is 148,000,000 tons. This enormous increase is due to the fact that steel capacity was increased to meet war conditions, to supply not only the United States but all its allies, including Soviet Russia. Subsequent to World War II, the United States not only supplied its own needs, its allies' needs, but also its former foes, and some of the so-called neutral nations. In addition the United States assisted some countries such as Soviet Russia, Brazil and India to establish modern steel plants.

Thus, this country built up competitors for steel, which is not unusual. The British have done the same by the sale of textile machinery to their competitors until the British lost a market that had been exclusively theirs.

What has actually happened to the United States is that it owns a competent stand-by plant to be used as necessity requires. It is not to be expected that if we help bring competing plants into existence those plants will not sell steel in competition with us. Nevertheless, in 1938, production amounted to 31,750,000 tons, which was about 39.6 per cent of capacity, whereas in 1960, the American plants are producing 100,000,000 tons of steel which is 65 per cent of capacity. (The 1960 figures are estimates based on 10 months.)

The reason 1938 is taken for comparison is that it was the last non-war year. In 1939, World War II was at first imminent and then occurred. Thus, it was the beginning of an unusual period during which the demands upon the United States were extraordinary and remained so for many years.

In 1938, the steel industry employed 360,000 persons; in 1960, 465,000.

During the campaign, the argument of growth was given an altogether false over-emphasis. The figures which I here provide establish that growth has taken place. However, a market for 100 per cent of production does not exist and cannot, with reason, be expected to exist. What is to become of the stand-by plant and equipment is a social and political problem. Analyses of other industries will establish that stand-by plants exist in practically all of them that have to do with war. These stand-by plants cannot be employed to monopolize the steel market of the world without damaging other countries to such a degree that we damage ourselves.

There is an old argument that if goods are produced, they will be consumed, that there is no limit to consumption. While this was discussed at great length, pro and con, during the Depression, it has been established by experience that the limit to consumption is price. No nation can afford to purchase more than it can afford to pay for in some manner. Even the give-away programs involved political payments which are often resented more than high-price money payments. When commodities are exchanged among countries with a relatively similar standard of living, price is not as great a factor as when the competition is in a low standard of living market.

For instance, in such a market, the United States Steel Corporation would find it difficult to compete profitably against the Skoda Works of Czechoslovakia, because the U.S. wage and tax cost puts a high price on goods, whereas Skoda need only put a political price on goods which means that they can be given away for nothing if political purpose so dictates. When we speak of American goods outpricing themselves in world markets, we do not include commodities which receive a subsidy out of the taxpayers' earnings through military or economic aid.

However, this load cannot continue because it is beginning to stifle enterprise and forces upon us a cartelization of production and exchange. Economic operations are very complex because they involve many persons, places and techniques. To simplify them by assuming that short-cuts will achieve what step-by-step methods cannot is an error. If the United States stockpiled steel as it does wheat, our poverty would increase.

Catching Up With The Greased Pig Again

De Gaulle's Mission: A Study In Leadership

By Joseph Alsop

TLEMCEN, Algeria

In the bleak main square of Ain Temouchent, in bitter cold weather, the people sullenly waited. Earlier, a tiny, lonely band of students had tried to raise a banner with the legend, "Long live de Gaulle." A dozen furious women had torn the calico into tatters while the rest of the crowd growled.

Now the crowd vented its anger in hoarse chants of "Algerie Francaise." Once there was a threatening movement into the cordoned empty space around the Hotel de Ville, which was only halted by strong reserves of security police. The French settlers, who own the big, rich farms around the town, had brought in their well controlled farm workers to show de Gaulle just what they thought of his grandiose gamble for peace in Algeria.

Within the half-besieged Hotel de Ville, meanwhile, the high officials accompanying de Gaulle on his Algerian tour milled about in helpless gloom, while the General himself serenely went through his prescribed routine of meetings with local leaders, an address to the city, counsellors and so on and on.

Suddenly, as the routine ended, there was a stir of anguished protest among the high military officers, prefects and ministers of state. Brushing them all aside, the enormous, pale, aging, terrifying and glorious figure appeared on the Hotel de Ville's high steps. De Gaulle was going to confront the crowd.

The crowd itself, as though momentarily intimidated, lapsed into an amazed silence. In this breathless hush, the tall old man strode towards the people. Half blind without his glasses, he cannoned heavily into an intervening lamp post. But he gathered himself again and reached the crowd's fringes, where he began to shake hands with perfect unconcern. Two old bearded Muslims bent low to kiss the proffered hand.

Around de Gaulle himself, a melee quickly formed, a chalk-faced security officers, and high officials who had hastened to follow their chief, and people in the crowd pressing forward to greet him. In his immediate vicinity, the curious hush still reigned.

But elsewhere in the crowd the growling chant of "Algerie Francaise" began again, with a redoubled fury. From behind their carefully marshalled workmen, several French farm owners, faces contorted with anger, broke into the open and rushed towards the confused melee surrounding de Gaulle.

With heart in mouth, one helplessly recalled the extremists' pamphlet of the day before, lauding "The example of Bonnier la Chappelle" the assassin of Admiral Darlan. But de Gaulle had accomplished his purpose. He turned again towards the Hotel de Ville, still walking slowly and calmly, but now surrounded by many followers.

One who followed was a stocky farmer shouting curses. Suddenly a young colonel, one of the many army officers with little sympathy for de Gaulle's Algerian gamble, had had enough of this. Moved, one supposed, by simple admiration for an act of naked courage, the colonel rounded on the cursing farmer and roared at him, "Vive de Gaulle!" Whereat the man fell back, comically abashed, as de Gaulle once more entered the Hotel de Ville.

This sequence of events, with its drama and its tension which no description can convey, occupied hardly more than ten minutes altogether. Yet it told more about de Gaulle's Algerian journey, I think, than all the generous, nobly phrased yet sternly resolute speeches he has been making along the way.

Those ten minutes at Ain Temouchent told, first of all, everything one needed to know about the venom of the opposition which de Gaulle must overcome in this unhappy Algeria. One may be shocked by this opposition's open appeals to illegality. One may deplore its irrationality, its rejection of all political realism. But one must sympathize, none the less, with these French men and women of Algeria who believe their whole deep rooted way of life is now at stake. De Gaulle's own sympathy is plain, in everything he does.

What else, meanwhile, was told by those ten minutes in the square? Above all, I believe, they told why de Gaulle can hope to win his great gamble in Algeria, despite the heavy odds against him. Living through those ten minutes, one felt at every instant, with incomparable intensity, the majestic power of de Gaulle's matchless courage combined with the special human grandeur that is his alone.

That statement is not sentimental mush, either. What de Gaulle did at Ain Tomauchent was a gesture, you may say, but it was a gesture with easily observable and far reaching practical effects.

The gesture told the opposition that this man would not be frightened or turned aside from his purpose. You could se it on their faces. Of them, de Gaulle said wearily, later on: "There were some who cried out — — which is useless!"

Perhaps more important still, this gesture spoke volumes to those who must work with de Gaulle to realize his great gamble. That young colonel, with his sudden access of enthusiasm for a brave leader, surely had his own special significance, in this situation in which the French army is the finally controlling factor. And surely there was significance too, in the visible emotions of the men of far higher rank, who first protested and then followed de Gaulle towards the crowd.

Among these principal human instruments of de Gaulle's policy, after all, there have been natural doubts about his gamble. Their increase of resolve, their strengthened confidence in de Gaulle's leadership, were all but visible and tangible. One of them, the able and wise Minister for Algeria, Louis Joxe, put the point sharply and well when he remarked: "Courage becomes easy when one is with de Gaulle."

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

INAUGURATION—Plans for the gala events that will take place for John F. Kennedy's inauguration are somewhat amorphous. But one thing is certain. There'll be no repeat of the GOP effort to sell license plate mementoes bearing profiles of their victorious candidates.

The suggestion that similar plates be produced with Kennedy's and Johnson's likenesses on them has been turned down flat. It seems that persons of the "other" political party attend inaugurations, too, but they don't want to be saddled with that kind of souvenir.

Result: the 1961 souvenir tags will bear the date and an unfurled American flag—something everyone can buy and save regardless of political affiliation.

JACKIE—The new first lady-to-be, Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy, plans to bring a scintillating social era into the White House, in contrast to the retiring, privacy-seeking Mamie Eisenhower.

Jackie is going to resume the practice of holding weekly press conferences for the newshens of the Washington press corps. The last first lady to do so was Eleanor Roosevelt. Neither Mrs. Truman nor Mrs. Eisenhower would permit the press to have regular access to their affairs, both taking the view that their private lives were their own, and their husbands, not themselves, had been elected to office.

But Jackie is bubbling with all kinds of plans. She's going to bring all forms of American culture into the White House: use it to show that America is not the crass, materialistic place it is pictured in other parts of the world.

She's going to keep an official journal, too. Perhaps it will be published one day. If it is, it should be a material addition to public knowledge about the doings in the most exalted and most demanding position in the United States—the presidency.

The Multiple Aspects Of Arteriosclerosis

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Research on arteriosclerosis is now at an all-time high. We have learned how to slow up the process and there is evidence that the condition is reversible. But we do not know how to prevent hardening of the arteries, possibly because it is a disease of many causes that has a varying effect on different pepole.

In some, there is a strong hereditary factor. We can't get new grandparents but in the future, hereditary patterns may be changed through the use of certain chemicals, sperm selection, or radiation.

Others will develop arteriosclerosis earlier than usual because of high blood pressure. The early recognition of hypertension and the use of a good remedy will help this group.

The tension factor is mentioned frequently, including the overuse of tobacco and alcohol. Stress is difficult to avoid and comes in many guises. It could play an important role but more research in this field is needed before we have the answer. The same can be said of exercise, which seems to reduce the tendency toward hardening of the arteries.

There is no doubt that sex enters the picture and women are favored. They have something that discourages arteriosclerosis, possibly their sex hormones.

Evidence continues to mount that the saturated or animal fats in too great quantity are detrimental. Many authorities suggest a decrease in the proportion of these fats to the liquid vegetable fats along with a general reduction in both. The sensible approach is to avoid extremes and continue a balanced diet that maintains normal weight.

(Dr. Van Dellen will send leaflet on arteriosclerosis, if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request).

TOMORROW: Back to nature.

HEART VALVE INFECTION

R. P. writes: Please explain subacute bacterial endocarditis.

REPLY

This disease involves previously damaged heart valves. Bacteria invade the edges of the valves, producing small inflammatory growths. The micro-organisms also poison the blood (septicemial) and, prior to penicillin, the outlook was almost always fatal.

VASCULAR ACCIDENT

Mrs. S. writes: My husband had a stroke, which the doctor described as an accident to the brain. Please tell me if this is so.

REPLY

A stroke is considered an accident of nature in which a blood vessel ruptures or is obstructed by a clot. The outcome depends upon the area of the brain involved.

WANTS TO QUIT

H. C. S. writes: How can I get out of the habit of drinking whisky and beer?

REPLY

Have your liver tested if drinking is a habit of long standing. The results may give you a good reason to switch to root beer.

QUININE

J. H. writes: Is quinine of value in Meniere's disease?

REPLY

No, and this drug may increase the ringing noises in the head.

To the limit of space questions pertinent to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Western Politicos Hope To Cut Eastern Bankers' Grip On Cabinet

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — For twenty years, no administration in Washington, whether Republican or Democratic, has been without a representative of one of three top Wall Street firms in a top position. The three Eastern banking firms which lead this charmed government life are:

1. Dillon, Read and Company, which floated around $1 billion of American investors' money into pre-war Germany, much of it going to build up Hitler, all of it defaulted.

2. Brown Brothers Harriman, which had vast investments in pre-war Poland, the Baltic states, plus a steamship line to Germany before the war.

3. The Chase Manhattan Bank, the biggest source of short-term credits to Germany after World War I, all of them defaulted.

Representatives from these companies have occupied such key positions as Secretary of Defense, head of the World Bank, Under Secretary of State, some serving with great ability. But it's an axiom in politics that the man who controls the job of Secretary of Defense and its 40 billion budget, plus the man who runs the Treasury, which sets interest rates for big and little business; plus the Secretary of State, and the head of the World Bank, really control the economy and foreign policy of the USA.

And these key jobs have been passed around between bankers from these three Wall Street firms.

Two Western Bankers

Last week, two Westerners called on President-elect Kennedy to try to reverse the hold of Eastern bankers on the top jobs in his cabnet. They were Gov. Edmund "Pat" Brown and Sen. Clair Engle, both of California. They proposed to Kennedy that he appoint as Secretary of the Treasury George Killion of San Francisco, head of the American President Steamship Lines, or Jesse Tapp of San Francisco, No 2 officer of the Bank of America.

"I can't appoint Killion," reacted the President-elect. "He's a Catholic."

"He's no Catholic," replied the governor of California. Himself a Catholic, Brown appreciated the fact that Kennedy did not want to appoint too many Catholics to high position in his cabinet.

The three proceeded to discuss the qualifications of Killion who served as finance director of the State of California, later was treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, is now head of one of the biggest U.S. steamship lines, and chairman of Loew's Tneatres; also the qualifications of Jesse Tapp who came to Washington as an agricultural assistant to Henry Wallace during the New Deal, later handled all surplus commodities, now is second in command of the Bank of America, largest bank in the world.

Kennedy expressed friendly interest in both men said he would like to have them in his administration. But he stated quite frankly that he leaned toward Douglas Dillon, now Under Secretary of State, because of Dillon's knowledge of the dollar drainage.

Kennedy had recently come from a private session with President Eisenhower, during which Ike expressed grave concern over the dollar shortage, urged the incoming President to act on it immediately. So Kennedy said he was thinking of transferring Dillon to the Treasury Department for the time being.

Here is the rollcall of officials from the three sacred cow Eastern banking firms which have held key positions influencing the economy of the nation:

1. Brown Brothers Harriman: Averell Harriman was Secretary of Commerce in the Truman administration at the same time his former banking partner, Robert Lovett, both from Brown Brothers Harriman, was Under Secretary of State and Secretary of Defense. Both did excellent jobs. It was paradoxical and somewhat embarrassing that their former banking firm was being prosecuted by the Justice Department in one of the biggest antitrust cases in history while they were serving in government.

Lovett was asked by Kennedy to be Secretary of Defense, but declined because of health

2. Dillon, Read: James V. Forrestal, senior executive of Dillon, Read, was an assistant to FDR, then Under Secretary of the Navy, Secretary of the Navy, and Secretary of Defense

C. Douglas Dillon, another senior executive of Dillon, Read, was an excellent ambassador to France for Eisenhower, then transferred to the State Department when Amory Houghton of Corning Glass coveted the Paris embassy. Dillon contributed to Ike in 1952 and 1956, backed Nixon both financially and emotionally in 1960.

Dillon, Read was also under prosecution by the Justice Department on a charge of investment banking monopoly. It was investigated by the Senate earlier on the charge of bribing the Finance Minister of Bolivia in 1928 in connection with the flotation of the $21,000,000 munitions loan which touched off the Chaco War with Paraguay.

These are matters which most Americans don't know but which had deep impact in Latin America, still handicap our relations there.

3. The Chase Manhattan Bank's representatives in government include Eugene Black, now the able head of the World Bank, and board chairman John J. McCloy. Before he joined the bank, McCloy was Assistant Secretary of War, head of the World Bank, high commissioner to Germany. He was a dedicated public servant.

The argument of Governor Brown and Senator Engle was not that these Eastern bankers were not honest and able, but that representatives of companies whose property was seized by the Soviet or which have heavy investments in Germany, or who represent big business, may not have the fresh and unbiased outlook of a banker from the West. If they went wrong in backing Germany in the pre-Hitler era their judgment could be wrong again.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

He fights time and so he sits uneasily in luxury. The house on Deer Run, in Miami Springs, is bright and sexy, with deep pile white rugs and lavendar seminudes on the wall of the bar and gay chairs designed by the man who has no patience. His name is Mr. William Hartack and, for the fourth time, he is Jockey of the Year.

Most jockeys look like boys with the heads of old men, but Mr. Hartack has blue eyes, a thick pelt of dark shiny hair, a small iron body and features that 150 girls find attractive enough to make him worth a try. Most of the girls who make the pilgrimage to Deer Run are beautiful and wear pants as tight as an extra layer of skin.

The sports writers do not like William. They call him tough and insolent. He is. He is a perfectionist who gets on a horse to fight the clock and he has no time for tact. They say that he is not a picture rider. He isn't. On a hard run, his hips should be on a level with his head. Instead, Hartack, bounces, his arms flap, and he switches the whip from one hand to the other by passing it through his teeth.

He isn't a picture rider, but he rides more winners than anybody else. He has been in about 10,000 races and he has won about 2,700. This year he won more than 300, and that beats Gomez and Shoemaker, the runners-up. A few years ago, his mounts won $3,000,000 in one season. At the age of 27, he earns somewhere around $200,000 a year, owns the house on Deer Run, a Cadillac and a Jaguar, a big wardrobe, a farm, some municipal bonds, and is going to build a motel near the Miami Airport.

I spoke to him about the girls. He looked down at his hands. He doesn't smile easily. "I like kids," he said. "Some day I'll get married." He let it go at that. He didn't mention his charities: the boys' soft-ball teams, the bowling teams, the den mother feeling he has for youngsters.

When he dismounts from a loser, the trainer and the owner wait for him. "What happened?" they say. Tact tells a jockey to excuse the horse and the trainer by saying that the horse was bumped, or dirt was kicked in his face, or he lugged in at the wrong time. Hartack stands for brutal truth. "The reason we lost," he says, "is that the horse didn't have it." Outfits like Calumet and Frank Merrill do not use Hartack. Once, in the tack room, he said to a trainer: "Why do you put me on slow horses?"

He doesn't like racing writers either. "I don't know five men in the sports field who tell the truth," he says, "because they don't know the truth." He keeps a bale of bad notices about himself. When he feels himself getting into an uncomfortably good mood, he opens the clippings and starts reading about how awful he is.

"When these writers approach me," he says, "they don't stand a chance. The writers I like are men I never met: Harold Weissman and Gene Ward are two."

His mother was killed in a car accident when he was 5. His father worked hard loading, by hand, in the coal mines of Pennsylvania. Today he has his father on a beautiful farm. There is a story—and that's all it is — that if he catches his father working, he stops his allowance. There is a sister Evelyn, 29, and married, and a sister Maxine, 20, and engaged.

I asked him if he had a special pride in anything he has ever done. "Yes," he said. The grin came up and he wiped it off. "I once entered a jumping race at Monmouth and won it. The horse was Mielaison. It's good I won it, I guess, or else I'd still be trying."

Most jockeys believe that horses are stupid animals. Hartack disagrees. "Some are. Some have racing intelligence. There was one named Pet Bully. He wasn't great, but he could pace himself and that's intelligent. If he found himself out in front, he would slow down; when he felt another horse closing in from behind, Pet Bully would open up."

Once he was in Chicago on a horse named Mighty Moment. Hartack was sitting easy in third place when the bridle came off in his hands. The bit came out. "The whole thing fell in my lap. Some other jocks went by and I yelled: 'Look. No hands.'

"Mighty Moment finished five lengths behind the winner. One race later, he ended 15 lengths in back.

"The trainer said to me: 'What do you think is the matter?' I said: 'Run him without a bridle.'"

When Mr. Hartack loses—which is three-quarters of the time—he is mad. Not moody. Mad. "I'm mad at one of three things," he says. "Me. The horse. Or the trainer. If the trainer does his work properly, and the horse does his part, I must do mine."

He is sensitive. He is unpopular. He is unreasonable. He is tough. He is honest. He is a champion...

An Unwelcome Alternative

A deadline set by a joint committee of steel management and labor, hashing over the work rules of the industry, went unmet on November 30.

The committee was to have finished its work and issued a report by that date. The committee has not quit, however, just because it has passed the deadline that was originally set for it. It will continue to operate and hopes to have some solid recommendations by the time the steel contracts come up for renewal in 1962.

The question of work rules is becoming a central one in many labor negotiations. Management wants to be able to allocate its work force in the way that will provide the most economical and efficient operation. Labor fears that such allocation may result in lost jobs.

Because the issue is so highly charged emotionally, attempts to settle it at the bargaining table, with a contract at stake, tend to wind up unsatisfactorily.

So the approach taken in the steel industry may mark somewhat of a turning point in labor-management relations. There is, of course, some of the bargaining table atmosphere present at any such meetings. But the pressure of an imminent strike or termination of a contract is off.

It is all to the good when management and labor can sit down at the same table and seek mutual understanding on an issue that is very much in contention. That is the way labor problems should be handled.

The alternative could be government intervention—and neither side wants that.

These Days

The Argument Of Growth

The argument of growth is specious unless one considers facts. The growth advocates use the steel industry as an example of the lack of growth because presently this industry works, they say, at about 55 per cent of capacity. This is taken to mean that the United States is standing still, or even worse, has gone backwards.

In 1938, the United States had an ingot capacity of 80,000,000 tons; in 1960, the ingot capacity is 148,000,000 tons. This enormous increase is due to the fact that steel capacity was increased to meet war conditions, to supply not only the United States but all its allies, including Soviet Russia. Subsequent to World War II, the United States not only supplied its own needs, its allies' needs, but also its former foes, and some of the so-called neutral nations. In addition the United States assisted some countries such as Soviet Russia, Brazil and India to establish modern steel plants.

Thus, this country built up competitors for steel, which is not unusual. The British have done the same by the sale of textile machinery to their competitors until the British lost a market that had been exclusively theirs.

What has actually happened to the United States is that it owns a competent stand-by plant to be used as necessity requires. It is not to be expected that if we help bring competing plants into existence those plants will not sell steel in competition with us. Nevertheless, in 1938, production amounted to 31,750,000 tons, which was about 39.6 per cent of capacity, whereas in 1960, the American plants are producing 100,000,000 tons of steel which is 65 per cent of capacity. (The 1960 figures are estimates based on 10 months.)

The reason 1938 is taken for comparison is that it was the last non-war year. In 1939, World War II was at first imminent and then occurred. Thus, it was the beginning of an unusual period during which the demands upon the United States were extraordinary and remained so for many years.

In 1938, the steel industry employed 360,000 persons; in 1960, 465,000.

During the campaign, the argument of growth was given an altogether false over-emphasis. The figures which I here provide establish that growth has taken place. However, a market for 100 per cent of production does not exist and cannot, with reason, be expected to exist. What is to become of the stand-by plant and equipment is a social and political problem. Analyses of other industries will establish that stand-by plants exist in practically all of them that have to do with war. These stand-by plants cannot be employed to monopolize the steel market of the world without damaging other countries to such a degree that we damage ourselves.

There is an old argument that if goods are produced, they will be consumed, that there is no limit to consumption. While this was discussed at great length, pro and con, during the Depression, it has been established by experience that the limit to consumption is price. No nation can afford to purchase more than it can afford to pay for in some manner. Even the give-away programs involved political payments which are often resented more than high-price money payments. When commodities are exchanged among countries with a relatively similar standard of living, price is not as great a factor as when the competition is in a low standard of living market.

For instance, in such a market, the United States Steel Corporation would find it difficult to compete profitably against the Skoda Works of Czechoslovakia, because the U.S. wage and tax cost puts a high price on goods, whereas Skoda need only put a political price on goods which means that they can be given away for nothing if political purpose so dictates. When we speak of American goods outoricing themselves in world markets, we do not include commodities which receive a subsidy out of the taxpayers' earnings through military or economic aid.

However, this load cannot continue because it is beginning to stifle enterprise and forces upon us a cartelization of production and exchange. Economic operations are very complex because they involve many persons, places and techniques. To simplify them by assuming that short-cuts will achieve what step-by-step methods cannot is an error. If the United States stockpiled steel as it does wheat, our poverty would increase.

De Gaulle's Mission: A Study In Leadership

By Joseph Alsop

TLEMCEN, Algeria

In the bleak main square of Ain Temouchent, in bitter cold weather, the people sullenly waited. Earlier, a tiny, lonely band of students had tried to raise a banner with the legend, "Long live de Gaulle." A dozen furious women had torn the calico into tatters while the rest of the crowd growled.

Now the crowd vented its anger in hoarse chants of "Algerie Francaise." Once there was a threatening movement into the cordoned empty space around the Hotel de Ville, which was only halted by strong reserves of security police. The French settlers, who own the big, rich farms around the town, had brought in their well controlled farm workers to show de Gaulle just what they thought of his grandiose gamble for peace in Algeria.

Within the half-besieged Hotel de Ville, meanwhile, the high officials accompanying de Gaulle on his Algerian tour milled about in helpless gloom, while the General himself serenely went through his prescribed routine of meetings with local leaders, an address to the city, counsellors and so on and on.

Suddenly, as the routine ended, there was a stir of anguished protest among the high military officers, prefects and ministers of state. Brushing them all aside, the enormous, pale, aging, terrifying and glorious figure appeared on the Hotel de Ville's high steps. De Gaulle was going to confront the crowd.

The crowd itself, as though momentarily intimidated, lapsed into an amazed silence. In this breathless hush, the tall old man strode towards the people. Half blind without his glasses, he cannoned heavily into an intervening lamp post. But he gathered himself again and reached the crowd's fringes, where he began to shake hands with perfect unconcern. Two old bearded Muslims bent low to kiss the proffered hand.

Around de Gaulle himself, a melee quickly formed, a chalk-faced security officers, and high officials who had hastened to follow their chief, and people in the crowd pressing forward to greet him. In his immediate vicinity, the curious hush still reigned.

But elsewhere in the crowd the growling chant of "Algerie Francaise" began again, with a redoubled fury. From behind their carefully marshalled workmen, several French farm owners, faces contorted with anger, broke into the open and rushed towards the confused melee surrounding de Gaulle.

With heart in mouth, one helplessly recalled the extremists' pamphlet of the day before, lauding "The example of Bonnier la Chappelle" the assassin of Admiral Darlan. But de Gaulle had accomplished his purpose. He turned again towards the Hotel de Ville, still walking slowly and calmly, but now surrounded by many followers.

One who followed was a stocky farmer shouting curses. Suddenly a young colonel, one of the many army officers with little sympathy for de Gaulle's Algerian gamble, had had enough of this. Moved, one supposed, by simple admiration for an act of naked courage, the colonel rounded on the cursing farmer and roared at him, "Vive de Gaulle!" Whereat the man fell back, comically abashed, as de Gaulle once more entered the Hotel de Ville.

This sequence of events, with its drama and its tension which no description can convey, occupied hardly more than ten minutes altogether. Yet it told more about de Gaulle's Algerian journey, I think, than all the generous, nobly phrased yet sternly resolute speeches he has been making along the way.

Those ten minutes at Ain Temouchent told, first of all, everything one needed to know about the venom of the opposition which de Gaulle must overcome in this unhappy Algeria. One may be shocked by this opposition's open appeals to illegality. One may deplore its irrationality, its rejection of all political realism. But one must sympathize, none the less, with these French men and women of Algeria who believe their whole deep rooted way of life is now at stake. De Gaulle's own sympathy is plain, in everything he does.

What else, meanwhile, was told by those ten minutes in the square? Above all, I believe, they told why de Gaulle can hope to win his great gamble in Algeria, despite the heavy odds against him. Living through those ten minutes, one felt at every instant, with incomparable intensity, the majestic power of de Gaulle's matchless courage combined with the special human grandeur that is his alone.

That statement is not sentimental mush, either. What de Gaulle did at Ain Tomauchent was a gesture, you may say, but it was a gesture with easily observable and far reaching practical effects.

The gesture told the opposition that this man would not be frightened or turned aside from his purpose. You could se it on their faces. Of them, de Gaulle said wearily, later on: "There were some who cried out — — which is useless!"

Perhaps more important still, this gesture spoke volumes to those who must work with de Gaulle to realize his great gamble. That young colonel, with his sudden access of enthusiasm for a brave leader, surely had his own special significance, in this situation in which the French army is the finally controlling factor. And surely there was significance too, in the visible emotions of the men of far higher rank, who first protested and then followed de Gaulle towards the crowd.

Among these principal human instruments of de Gaulle's policy, after all, there have been natural doubts about his gamble. Their increase of resolve, their strengthened confidence in de Gaulle's leadership, were all but visible and tangible. One of them, the able and wise Minister for Algeria, Louis Joxe, put the point sharply and well when he remarked: "Courage becomes easy when one is with de Gaulle."

INAUGURATION—Plans for the gala events that will take place for John F. Kennedy's inauguration are somewhat amorphous. But one thing is certain. There'll be no repeat of the GOP effort to sell license plate mementoes bearing profiles of their victorious candidates.

The suggestion that similar plates be produced with Kennedy's and Johnson's likenesses on them has been turned down flat. It seems that persons of the "other" political party attend inaugurations, too, but they don't want to be saddled with that kind of souvenir.

Result: the 1961 souvenir tags will bear the date and an unfurled American flag—something everyone can buy and save regardless of political affiliation.

JACKIE—The new first lady-to-be, Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy, plans to bring a scintillating social era into the White House, in contrast to the retiring, privacy-seeking Mamie Eisenhower.

Jackie is going to resume the practice of holding weekly press conferences for the newshens of the Washington press corps. The last first lady to do so was Eleanor Roosevelt. Neither Mrs. Truman nor Mrs. Eisenhower would permit the press to have regular access to their affairs, both taking the view that their private lives were their own, and their husbands, not themselves, had been elected to office.

But Jackie is bubbling with all kinds of plans. She's going to bring all forms of American culture into the White House: use it to show that America is not the crass, materialistic place it is pictured in other parts of the world.

She's going to keep an official journal, too. Perhaps it will be published one day. If it is, it should be a material addition to public knowledge about the doings in the most exalted and most demanding position in the United States—the presidency.

The sports writers do not like William. They call him tough and insolent. He is. He is a perfectionist who gets on a horse to fight the clock and he has no time for tact. They say that he is not a picture rider. He isn't. On a hard run, his hips should be on a level with his head. Instead, Hartack, bounces, his arms flap, and he switches the whip from one hand to the other by passing it through his teeth.

He isn't a picture rider, but he rides more winners than anybody else. He has been in about 10,000 races and he has won about 2,700. This year he won more than 300, and that beats Gomez and Shoemaker, the runners-up. A few years ago, his mounts won $3,000,000 in one season. At the age of 27, he earns somewhere around $200,000 a year, owns the house on Deer Run, a Cadillac and a Jaguar, a big wardrobe, a farm, some municipal bonds, and is going to build a motel near the Miami Airport.

I spoke to him about the girls. He looked down at his hands. He doesn't smile easily. "I like kids," he said. "Some day I'll get married." He let it go at that. He didn't mention his charities: the boys' soft-ball teams, the bowling teams, the den mother feeling he has for youngsters.

When he dismounts from a loser, the trainer and the owner wait for him. "What happened?" they say. Tact tells a jockey to excuse the horse and the trainer by saying that the horse was bumped, or dirt was kicked in his face, or he lugged in at the wrong time. Hartack stands for brutal truth. "The reason we lost," he says, "is that the horse didn't have it." Outfits like Calumet and Frank Merrill do not use Hartack. Once, in the tack room, he said to a trainer: "Why do you put me on slow horses?"

He doesn't like racing writers either. "I don't know five men in the sports field who tell the truth," he says, "because they don't know the truth." He keeps a bale of bad notices about himself. When he feels himself getting into an uncomfortably good mood, he opens the clippings and starts reading about how awful he is.

"When these writers approach me," he says, "they don't stand a chance. The writers I like are men I never met: Harold Weissman and Gene Ward are two."

His mother was killed in a car accident when he was 5. His father worked hard loading, by hand, in the coal mines of Pennsylvania. Today he has his father on a beautiful farm. There is a story—and that's all it is — that if he catches his father working, he stops his allowance. There is a sister Evelyn, 29, and married, and a sister Maxine, 20, and engaged.

I asked him if he had a special pride in anything he has ever done. "Yes," he said. The grin came up and he wiped it off. "I once entered a jumping race at Monmouth and won it. The horse was Mielaison. It's good I won it, I guess, or else I'd still be trying."

Most jockeys believe that horses are stupid animals. Hartack disagrees. "Some are. Some have racing intelligence. There was one named Pet Bully. He wasn't great, but he could pace himself and that's intelligent. If he found himself out in front, he would slow down; when he felt another horse closing in from behind, Pet Bully would open up."

Once he was in Chicago on a horse named Mighty Moment. Hartack was sitting easy in third place when the bridle came off in his hands. The bit came out. "The whole thing fell in my lap. Some other jocks went by and I yelled: 'Look. No hands.'

"Mighty Moment finished five lengths behind the winner. One race later, he ended 15 lengths in back.

"The trainer said to me: 'What do you think is the matter?' I said: 'Run him without a bridle.'"

When Mr. Hartack loses—which is three-quarters of the time—he is mad. Not moody. Mad. "I'm mad at one of three things," he says. "Me. The horse. Or the trainer. If the trainer does his work properly, and the horse does his part, I must do mine."

He is sensitive. He is unpopular. He is unreasonable. He is tough. He is honest. He is a champion...

The Multiple Aspects Of Arteriosclerosis

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Research on arteriosclerosis is now at an all-time high. We have learned how to slow up the process and there is evidence that the condition is reversible. But we do not know how to prevent hardening of the arteries, possibly because it is a disease of many causes that has a varying effect on different pepole.

In some, there is a strong hereditary factor. We can't get new grandparents but in the future, hereditary patterns may be changed through the use of certain chemicals, sperm selection, or radiation.

Others will develop arteriosclerosis earlier than usual because of high blood pressure. The early recognition of hypertension and the use of a good remedy will help this group.

The tension factor is mentioned frequently, including the overuse of tobacco and alcohol. Stress is difficult to avoid and comes in many guises. It could play an important role but more research in this field is needed before we have the answer. The same can be said of exercise, which seems to reduce the tendency toward hardening of the arteries.

There is no doubt that sex enters the picture and women are favored. They have something that discourages arteriosclerosis, possibly their sex hormones.

Evidence continues to mount that the saturated or animal fats in too great quantity are detrimental. Many authorities suggest a decrease in the proportion of these fats to the liquid vegetable fats along with a general reduction in both. The sensible approach is to avoid extremes and continue a balanced diet that maintains normal weight.

(Dr. Van Dellen will send leaflet on arteriosclerosis, if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request).

TOMORROW: Back to nature.

HEART VALVE INFECTION

R. P. writes: Please explain subacute bacterial endocarditis.

REPLY

This disease involves previously damaged heart valves. Bacteria invade the edges of the valves, producing small inflammatory growths. The micro-organisms also poison the blood (septicemial) and, prior to penicillin, the outlook was almost always fatal.

VASCULAR ACCIDENT

Mrs. S. writes: My husband had a stroke, which the doctor described as an accident to the brain. Please tell me if this is so.

REPLY

A stroke is considered an accident of nature in which a blood vessel ruptures or is obstructed by a clot. The outcome depends upon the area of the brain involved.

WANTS TO QUIT

H. C. S. writes: How can I get out of the habit of drinking whisky and beer?

REPLY

Have your liver tested if drinking is a habit of long standing. The results may give you a good reason to switch to root beer.

QUININE

J. H. writes: Is quinine of value in Meniere's disease?

REPLY

No, and this drug may increase the ringing noises in the head.

To the limit of space questions pertinent to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

A man home from his first European vacation — Paris, Rome, and London in nine days — boasted to his bar mates, "And plus everything else, I learned to speak French. Get a load of this. New Manufacturing Corporation Will Begin Operations In Keyser Location Early In January

KEYSER, W. Va. — Frederick Pittera, chairman of the board of Spectronics Corporation, today announced through the Mineral County Chamber of Commerce the location of a new industry in Keyser.

Spectronics Corporation, formerly located in Boston, is in production of precision ophthalmic and photographic lenses from a new glass-like material. The company holds secret processes and patents for the manufacture of lenses for use in eyeglasses, microscopes, cameras and a wide variety of other optical applications.

Spectronics Corporation has been reorganized as a West Virginia corporation, whose principal purposes will be the manufacture, design, development and sales of optical lenses, optical systems, microscope, telescope, astronomical and photographic light filters and elements.

The corporation's basic developments include a process for the rapid manufacture of ophthalmic lenses (eyeglass lenses) and photographic light filters from a new plastic substance developed by Dr. Harold Salisbury and Arthur I. Bodkins of Boston.

By use of the Spectronic system the new glass-like lenses are cast in an electronically controlled furnace resulting in a new lens indistinguishable from glass, clearer than glass, harder than any optical plastic thus far developed, lighter than glass, and shatterproof.

The secret processes for which patents are pending involve the casting of precision lenses with the optical refractions "cast in", thus eliminating the usual expensive process of grinding, surfacing and polishing as is the case in the manufacture of conventional eyeglass lenses.

Initially Spectronics Corporation will be housed in the Tiger Tractor plant here, utilizing approximately half of the manufacturing space now occupied by the tractor firm. Four truckloads of the corporation's machinery will arrive at the Keyser facilities by Thursday.

Within six months, the operation is expected to occupy new quarters, estimated at approximately 20,000 square feet, with the construction of an addition to the Tiger Tractor plant.

Dr. Salisbury, director of engineering and research for Spectronics Corporation, his wife and two children have arrived at Keyser and have rented the home owned by Willard Gortner. Arthur I. Bodkins, president of the corporation, is expected to arrive within the week and has already made plans to establish his residence in Keyser by the end of December.

It is expected that initial operations will require approximately four male employes and ten female employees with production commencing early in January.

The new corporation's general offices will be located at 500 Fifth Avenue, New York.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South

Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ace of ♠

By reading declarer's mental processes in the auction, East in today's hand was able to build up a picture of his holding which enabled him to bring about the defeat of a slam contract. The deal was played in a recent tournament and was subject to considerable variations of treatment.

The bidding is given as it transpired at a couple of tables. South's slam bid was completely unjustified in light of North's warning penalty double of five spades.

At one table, West opened the ace of spades upon which East discarded a heart. West continued with the queen of spades with the idea of having partner ruff out dummy's king. Declarer of course did not share his idea and played low from dummy, ruffing in his own hand.

He then drew the trumps, winning the third round in dummy. Upon the king of spades a diamond was shed. Declarer now faced the problem of disposing of the ten of hearts. If he chose to play East for both the queen and jack he must take two finesses. He could lead from dummy at this point and, assuming an honor came up, he could reenter dummy with the king of diamonds to come thru again.

But declarer instead decided he could bring in the hand on a squeeze. He returned to his hand with a diamond and ran the last two clubs, discarding two hearts from dummy. He then led a diamond to the king in dummy, forcing West to reduce to three cards. In order to beat dummy's seven of spades, West was forced to hold on to the ten, so that he let go a heart. Declarer, thereupon, led hearts and picked up the suit.

At another table, East brought about defeat of the contract in a spectacular manner. When the ace of spades was led, East read his partner for an eight card suit, reasoning that South could hardly contract for slam with two losing spades in his hand. In the hope that West was void of diamonds, he ruffed the ace of spades and returned a diamond.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A word of advice from "Beat" whose fiancee has insomnia.

If you think you're "Beat" now, just wait till you're married to the girl. She's not an insomniac, she's a nocturnal. Webster defines nocturnal as "one whose energy peak is reached at night — the opposite of diurnal."

I'm a diurnal who tried living with a nocturnal. It won't work. He came home at all hours, wanted to eat when they do in Madrid (11 p.m.). He insisted on seeing the late shows, and encouraged people to drop in after the theater, after meetings, and after parties. He was fresh as a daisy at 3 a.m. I was propping my eyes open with toothpicks.

At 7:30 in the morning he might just as well have been on the moon. The alarm clock didn't phase him. I had the job of pulling him out of bed and getting him off to work.

After 15 years of it I called it quits. Now I'm married to a diurnal like myself. He starts the arguments early and winds them up at a reasonable hour so we both get plenty of rest.—HAPPY NOW

DEAR HAPPY: Mother nature agrees. She dose not mate a hoot-owl with a lark. During courtship it's wise to learn whether or not the beloved is a morning-whistler or a night-crawler. Later is too late.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother-in-law is causing me great embarrassment. She hates TV and will not have a set in her home. When her husband was living he enjoyed TV so she put up with it for his sake. He died last year and the first thing she did was give away the set.

My husband and his brothers would do anything for their mother but she's very independent and won't let them do much. They want to buy her a new TV set just for appearances sake — even if she never turns it on — just so the neighbors can see the antenna. They feel it's a reflection on the whole famliy if their mother is the only one on the block who doesn't have TV. What do you think?—DAUGHTER-IN-LAW

DEAR D. I. L.: I say your husband and his brothers should save their money and quit being foolish. If their mother doesn't want a TV set that should settle it.

The absence of an antenna does not always indicate that the family can't afford an idiot box. Sometimes it means the family doesn't care to paralyze its eyeballs watching 55 hours of nonsense in order to catch one worthwhile program.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 16 and having a big argument with my mother. She said to write to you and whatever you say will be it.

When a boy I don't want to go with calls for a date I say, "I'm sorry but I already have a date for that night." My reasoning is that if someone else calls, and I DO want to go, I'm protected. The boy's feelings are not hurt and I can go with fellows I like.

Mom says this is lying and I should come right out and say "I don't have a date but I don't care to go with you." In my opinion this is cruel. Mom says it's better than lying. What do you say?—MARY M

DEAR MARY: There is no need to lie, nor is it necessary to cut a kid to ribbons. Just say "I'm terribly sorry but I can't go with you." No further explanation is called for. If he presses for information ask him if he's with the F.B.I. and keep it light and painless.

CONFIDENTIAL TO CONFUSED: You can't carry the weight of the world on your shoulders, nor force "Help" on people. Keep yourself afloat and don't let others ruin your life.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD — At the clip they're going—the John Mills family could jolly well take over the bloomin' industry. From London, where they have recently returned from Hollywood, comes news of the Mills clan which should delight the tax collectors.

Having coasted long enough on his honors of winning the Venice Festival Frize as "Best Actor" in "Tunes of Glory," John Mills is returning to work in "Flame of the Street" for J. Arthur Rank. His leading lady will be Sylvia Sims whom American fans saw in "Expresso Bongo."

As for his daughter Haley Mills, who enchanted us in Disney's "Pollyanna," she, too, starts a new film. The talented 14-year-old will star in "Whistle Down the Wind" a novel written by her mother, Mary Mills. Some family!

At the Laurence Harvey-Jimmy Woolf soiree, Peter Glenville told me that Dolores Hart will not be back in time for "Summer and Smoke" which started Monday.

He said Hal Wallis has signed an 18-year-old beauty by the name of Patricia Tiffin. She's a former model, brunette, and really beautiful. Dolores, said Peter, would probably have been a little too old. Imagine Dolores too old for anything!

Speaking of "Summer and Smoke," Geraldine Page, who plays one of the top roles, telephoned Tennessee Williams to ask him to come out while they are filming his play. She was in "Summer and Smoke" on the stage.

Two of our friends, Gilbert Roland and Ricardo Montalban, will be missing around Hollywood after the first of the year. They've signed with George Montgomery for top roles in "Samar", George's first picture for Warner Brothers under his new contract, and he's up to his neck getting ready to leave for Manila.

Last year when George was making "The Steel Hook" in the Philippines, I was with Dinah Shore at the Tom Mays' New Year's party. She was so unhappy because George's call didn't come through and he was unable to reach her. This year George said he would put in a New Year's call to her the minute he arrives in Manila.

And still another possible nominee for an Oscar is Maria Schell who gives an unforgettable performance in "Cimarron." I enjoyed seeing Edna Ferber's story, the 1960 version, because it's a love story, a glorified western, and it's entertaining and interesting. I am fed up with these movies on perversion, homosexuality and unnecessary violence, a distorted picture of our great country.

Glenn Ford's Yancy has much more force than that of Richard Dix, whom I remember in the original movie version. MGM has a goodie, and if I know my pictures, it will make money.

One of my first Christmas cards came from Clara Bow, and on it she writes: "Not to Taylor, nor to Bardot, but to Monroe I mentally threw the 'It Girl' tag a few years ago. She and Jean Harlow are the only women I've seen who possessed the flesh impact that people said I had on the silver screen. What do you think, Louella?"

Then in a P.S., my friend of many years, the "It Girl" adds: "Last July I was 53 years old. My 21-year-old son George married this last June, and I'll be a grandma this coming March."

It just doesn't seem possible that Clara, whom I first met when she was 17, is now 53. She is married to Lt. Gov. Rex Bell of Nevada.

Be as relaxed about giving a party as about going to one!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The Successful Holiday Hostess

We've been talking about Christmas parties in a class at the Powers School, and two points were agreed on. First, that the hostesses who give the best parties have as much fun as everyone else, and second, that they use so much imagination. The votes were a landslide for simple planning, decoration, and refreshments that are full of ideas, not to the elaborate and formal affairs.

Thoughtful members of the class feel that the big Christmas party is less appropriate to the season than the smaller one where the group can draw into a closer circle of warmth and friendship. A tree trimming party for six to ten persons is a favorite, where the hostess supplies sprakling materials for the guests to turn into tree ornaments of their own design. This brings out unexpected talents to the delight of everybody and insures a happy bustle of shared activity. Another favorite is the party which includes a good accompanist — and it can be a guitar as well as on a piano — so everyone can carol together.

Congenial guests come predisposed toward making your party a success, inspired as they are now with the spirit of the holidays. It's simply up to you to match their high spirits — to be as happy and relaxed about giving a party as you would be about going to one. You will be if you don't invite too many of them to strain the service you can offer or the space you have, and if preparations are made well in advance to include imaginative touches of your own. And you women are wonders at those imaginative touches. One trip through the Christmas-bright stores to see what's available and you have twice as many ideas as you need.

Hans Conried Considers Himself Serious Actor

By JOE ST. AMANT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Hans Conried is dissatisfied with his public image (as they say on Madison Avenue). Most people think of him as a comic television personality, but he thinks of himself and wants to be considered as an actor.

Conried, wispy-haired master of many dialects, has appeared in many TV shows, but before the advent of the screen to the living room, he was a success as a man of many voices on radio.

He's appeared on TV on the "Danny Thomas Show," the "U.S. Steel Hour," "Playhouse 90," "Alcoa Hour," the "Bob Hope Show" "Hallmark Hall of Fame," and many others.

Appears With Paar

But he dates his popularity from a chat with Jack Paar on Paar's TV show a few years back.

"After 25 years in my profession trying to perfect myself as an actor," Conried said in a UPI interview, "I suddenly become a celebrity because I belched on the "Jack Paar Show."

He did not actually belch, but that Conried's way of describing the repartee between him and Paar.

What do you have to have to get on the Paar show, he was asked.

"A minimum of talent and a maximum of guts," was his reply.

Conried's talents have so many facets that his true personality does not emerge—which probably means he is truly an actor. In person, he is mildly serious, on the cynical side and obviously intelligent.

Likes Summer Stock

He took a flyer at summer stock in the East this year and found it to his liking. The play was "Not in the Book," an English comedy by Arthur Watkyns.

"Why don't they have it out here on the coast?" he asked. "I'm looking for another booking next summer. It's become part of my income."

He's also tried lecture tours—and he finds them lucrative and amusing. He will appear before numerous women's clubs and at some colleges next spring.

Conried, who is not a European as he seems, but was born in Baltimore, has a wife and four young children. They live in a Hollywood Hills home.

"I'll do almost anything in an acting way," he said wryly, "even private parties if you have a 7½ size lampshade."

TOGETHERNESS

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"His and Hers" hospital beds were the order of the day recently when TV star Anthony Eisley and his wife Judith checked into St. Joseph's Hospital.

The handsome detective of the "Hawaiian Eye" series underwent an appendectomy while Mrs. Eisley was in another ward giving birth to their third child, a boy.

The bidding:

West	North	East	South
4 ♠	Pass	Pass	5 ♣
5 ♠	Double	Pass	6 ♣
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Ace of ♠

By reading declarer's mental processes in the auction, East in today's hand was able to build up a picture of his holding which enabled him to bring about the defeat of a slam contract. The deal was played in a recent tournament and was subject to considerable variations of treatment.

The bidding is given as it transpired at a couple of tables. South's slam bid was completely unjustified in light of North's warning penalty double of five spades.

At one table, West opened the ace of spades upon which East discarded a heart. West continued with the queen of spades with the idea of having partner ruff out dummy's king. Declarer of course did not share his idea and played low from dummy, ruffing in his own hand.

He then drew the trumps, winning the third round in dummy. Upon the king of spades a diamond was shed. Declarer now faced the problem of disposing of the ten of hearts. If he chose to play East for both the queen and jack he must take two finesses. He could lead from dummy at this point and, assuming an honor came up, he could reenter dummy with the king of diamonds to come thru again.

But declarer instead decided he could bring in the hand on a squeeze. He returned to his hand with a diamond and ran the last two clubs, discarding two hearts from dummy. He then led a diamond to the king in dummy, forcing West to reduce to three cards. In order to beat dummy's seven of spades, West was forced to hold on to the ten, so that he let go a heart. Declarer, thereupon, led hearts and picked up the suit.

At another table, East brought about defeat of the contract in a spectacular manner. When the ace of spades was led, East read his partner for an eight card suit, reasoning that South could hardly contract for slam with two losing spades in his hand. In the hope that West was void of diamonds, he ruffed the ace of spades and returned a diamond.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A word of advice from "Beat" whose fiancee has insomnia.

If you think you're "Beat" now, just wait till you're married to the girl. She's not an insomniac, she's a nocturnal. Webster defines nocturnal as "one whose energy peak is reached at night — the opposite of diurnal."

I'm a diurnal who tried living with a nocturnal. It won't work. He came home at all hours, wanted to eat when they do in Madrid (11 p.m.). He insisted on seeing the late shows, and encouraged people to drop in after the theater, after meetings, and after parties. He was fresh as a daisy at 3 a.m. I was propping my eyes open with toothpicks.

At 7:30 in the morning he might just as well have been on the moon. The alarm clock didn't phase him. I had the job of pulling him out of bed and getting him off to work.

After 15 years of it I called it quits. Now I'm married to a diurnal like myself. He starts the arguments early and winds them up at a reasonable hour so we both get plenty of rest.—HAPPY NOW

DEAR HAPPY: Mother nature agrees. She dose not mate a hoot-owl with a lark. During courtship it's wise to learn whether or not the beloved is a morning-whistler or a night-crawler. Later is too late.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My mother-in-law is causing me great embarrassment. She hates TV and will not have a set in her home. When her husband was living he enjoyed TV so she put up with it for his sake. He died last year and the first thing she did was give away the set.

My husband and his brothers would do anything for their mother but she's very independent and won't let them do much. They want to buy her a new TV set just for appearances sake — even if she never turns it on — just so the neighbors can see the antenna. They feel it's a reflection on the whole famliy if their mother is the only one on the block who doesn't have TV. What do you think?—DAUGHTER-IN-LAW

DEAR D. I. L.: I say your husband and his brothers should save their money and quit being foolish. If their mother doesn't want a TV set that should settle it.

The absence of an antenna does not always indicate that the family can't afford an idiot box. Sometimes it means the family doesn't care to paralyze its eyeballs watching 55 hours of nonsense in order to catch one worthwhile program.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm 16 and having a big argument with my mother. She said to write to you and whatever you say will be it.

When a boy I don't want to go with calls for a date I say, "I'm sorry but I already have a date for that night." My reasoning is that if someone else calls, and I DO want to go, I'm protected. The boy's feelings are not hurt and I can go with fellows I like.

Mom says this is lying and I should come right out and say "I don't have a date but I don't care to go with you." In my opinion this is cruel. Mom says it's better than lying. What do you say?—MARY M

DEAR MARY: There is no need to lie, nor is it necessary to cut a kid to ribbons. Just say "I'm terribly sorry but I can't go with you." No further explanation is called for. If he presses for information ask him if he's with the F.B.I. and keep it light and painless.

Preston Green Tops Lion Quint With 17 Points

Undefeated Petersburg experienced difficulty in racking up win number three, a 55-44 Potomac Valley Conference victory over Piedmont High School's visiting Lions.

The veteran Vikings quickly jumped off to a 12-2 lead and by intermission had a 14-point advantage, 28-14. Piedmont had only two less field goals than the winners, but Petersburg converted 19 free throws to the Lions' 12.

All but eight of the Vikings' points were scored by the trio of Louie Alt, Ernie Nelson and Harold Michael, who canned 18, 16 and 13, respectively. Preston Green tallied 17 and Vince Fagan was right behind with 16 for the losing Lions, whose record now stands at 2-2.

Twenty-four personal fouls were plastered on the Piedmont quint. Four of the five starters had four personals apiece called against them.

West Virginia Edges Spiders

Mountaineers Post 3d Victory, 75-72

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia defeated Richmond 75-72 Tuesday night in a Southern Conference basketball game after almost blowing a 15-point lead.

The Mountaineers were in front 69-54 after the midway point in the second half but saw that margin narrowed to 73-70 with just over three minutes to play.

Amid some boos from a partisan crowd of about 5,000, West Virginia went into a "freeze" for some two minutes before calling a timeout with 1:46 left to play.

Nick Visnic, senior guard, scored after the game resumed to put the Mountaineers out of reach as they won their second in three conference starts. They now are 3-2 overall.

Sophomore Rod Thorn led West Virginia with 16 points. However, it was the hot shooting of 6-foot-6 junior Paul Miller of Logan, W. Va., that sparked the Mountaineers in the second half. He got all of his 13 points in the final 20 minutes.

"Blinky" Palermo Clams Up At Senate Boxing Hearings

Liston Is Advised To Shake Leeches; Carbo Will Appear

By MICHAEL POSNER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Frank (Blinky) Palermo, alleged to be the underworld's acting czar of the fight game, Tuesday refused to answer 11 questions fired at him by Senate boxing investigators.

Chairman Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., of the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee promptly announced plans to recommend that the Philadelphia numbers king be cited for contempt of Congress.

During his 45-minute appearance, the stumpy witness answered only questions concerning his age (55) and marital status (married, five children). He then was excused, subject to recall at any time.

Liston Testifies

Palermo was followed to the stand by Charles (Sonny) Liston, a burly cotton picker-turned-boxer who now is leading contender for the world's heavyweight title.

The investigators have charged that behind the scenes, Liston is under the three-cornered control of Palermo, convicted boxing manipulator Frankie Carbo and underworld figure John J. Vitale of St. Louis.

Among other things, Palermo refused to tell investigators whether he knew Liston; how long he had been in boxing, and if he had other interests; whether he knew several boxers or had been associated with them, and whether he was aware of the scope of the hearing.

His lawyer, Morton Witkin of Philadelphia, was turned down earlier on his request that Palermo be excused from testifying on grounds it might be prejudicial to his upcoming trial in California.

Palermo, Carbo and Truman Gibson, former president of the defunct International Boxing Club, have been indicted in California on conspiracy and other charges involving the purses of former welterweight champion Don Jordan.

The subcommittee has presented testimony indicating that Palermo was heir-apparent to Carbo's undercover control of boxing, and that he took the reins when Carbo was imprisoned in New York for dabbling illegally in the game.

Carbo To Appear

Carbo was being brought here from Rikers Island prison in New York City and is to be one of Wednesday's witnesses.

Under questioning, Liston denied that Palermo, Carbo and Vitale manage his business behind the scenes. He admitted, however, that he never saw his present manager — Joseph (Pep) Barone of Allentown, Pa. — until the day he signed a contract with him two years ago.

At the end of his appearance, Kefauver told Liston he saw a lot of "good" in him and would like to see him get a title fight, but added: "Shake off the Palermos, the Vitales, and some of these people who have leeched themselves on you."

"I Don't Write"

Asked about the fact that police once found Palermo's telephone number on a slip in his pocket, Liston replied: "I don't write."

Denying any connection with Carbo, Palermo and Vitale, the fighter said: "I'd have to be making a million dollars a month to take care of them people." Asked whether the three had divided up his contract two years ago and still control it, he replied: "Not that I know of."

Packers Could Take Title By Beating Rams

Green Bay Is Site If Playoff Needed

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — The Green Bay Packers announced Tuesday that if a playoff game between the Packers and the Baltimore Colts or the San Francisco 49ers is necessary to decide the National Football League's Western Conference title, it will be played at Green Bay's Municipal Stadium Monday, Dec. 26.

Kickoff time for the nationally televised playoff would be 1:06 p. m.

The Packers currently lead the Baltimore Colts by a full game with one to play. Green Bay has clinched at least a tie for the title.

If the Packers win or tie at Los Angeles Saturday they will take the title regardless of what the Colts do. However, a Packer defeat coupled with a Baltimore victory over San Francisco would leave them tied.

Detroit could force its way into a three-way deadlock if it beats Chicago Sunday and Green Bay loses. Also a Green Bay-Detroit two-way tie could result if the Packers lose, the Lions win and the Colts play a tie at San Francisco. A Green Bay-Detroit playoff game would be in Detroit.

Any three-way playoff would result in a complicated situation with one team drawing a bye and then playing the survivor Jan. 1. That would mean the NFL championship game, now set for Dec. 26, could be pushed back as far as Jan. 8.

Preston Green Tops Lion Quint With 17 Points

Undefeated Petersburg experienced difficulty in racking up win number three, a 55-44 Potomac Valley Conference victory over Piedmont High School's visiting Lions.

All but eight of the Vikings' points were scored by the trio of Louie Alt, Ernie Nelson and Harold Michael, who canned 18, 16 and 13, respectively. Preston Green tallied 17 and Vince Fagan was right behind with 16 for the losing Lions, whose record now stands at 2-2.

West Virginia Edges Spiders

Mountaineers Post 3d Victory, 75-72

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia defeated Richmond 75-72 Tuesday night in a Southern Conference basketball game after almost blowing a 15-point lead.

The Mountaineers were in front 69-54 after the midway point in the second half but saw that margin narrowed to 73-70 with just over three minutes to play.

Amid some boos from a partisan crowd of about 5,000, West Virginia went into a "freeze" for some two minutes before calling a timeout with 1:46 left to play.

Nick Visnic, senior guard, scored after the game resumed to put the Mountaineers out of reach as they won their second in three conference starts. They now are 3-2 overall.

Sophomore Rod Thorn led West Virginia with 16 points. However, it was the hot shooting of 6-foot-6 junior Paul Miller of Logan, W. Va., that sparked the Mountaineers in the second half. He got all of his 13 points in the final 20 minutes.

"Blinky" Palermo Clams Up At Senate Boxing Hearings

By MICHAEL POSNER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Frank (Blinky) Palermo, alleged to be the underworld's acting czar of the fight game, Tuesday refused to answer 11 questions fired at him by Senate boxing investigators.

Chairman Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., of the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee promptly announced plans to recommend that the Philadelphia numbers king be cited for contempt of Congress.

During his 45-minute appearance, the stumpy witness answered only questions concerning his age (55) and marital status (married, five children). He then was excused, subject to recall at any time.

Liston Testifies

Palermo was followed to the stand by Charles (Sonny) Liston, a burly cotton picker-turned-boxer who now is leading contender for the world's heavyweight title.

The investigators have charged that behind the scenes, Liston is under the three-cornered control of Palermo, convicted boxing manipulator Frankie Carbo and underworld figure John J. Vitale of St. Louis.

Among other things, Palermo refused to tell investigators whether he knew Liston; how long he had been in boxing, and if he had other interests; whether he knew several boxers or had been associated with them, and whether he was aware of the scope of the hearing.

His lawyer, Morton Witkin of Philadelphia, was turned down earlier on his request that Palermo be excused from testifying on grounds it might be prejudicial to his upcoming trial in California.

Palermo, Carbo and Truman Gibson, former president of the defunct International Boxing Club, have been indicted in California on conspiracy and other charges involving the purses of former welterweight champion Don Jordan.

The subcommittee has presented testimony indicating that Palermo was heir-apparent to Carbo's undercover control of boxing, and that he took the reins when Carbo was imprisoned in New York for dabbling illegally in the game.

Carbo To Appear

Carbo was being brought here from Rikers Island prison in New York City and is to be one of Wednesday's witnesses.

Under questioning, Liston denied that Palermo, Carbo and Vitale manage his business behind the scenes. He admitted, however, that he never saw his present manager — Joseph (Pep) Barone of Allentown, Pa. — until the day he signed a contract with him two years ago.

At the end of his appearance, Kefauver told Liston he saw a lot of "good" in him and would like to see him get a title fight, but added: "Shake off the Palermos, the Vitales, and some of these people who have leeched themselves on you."

"I Don't Write"

Asked about the fact that police once found Palermo's telephone number on a slip in his pocket, Liston replied: "I don't write."

Denying any connection with Carbo, Palermo and Vitale, the fighter said: "I'd have to be making a million dollars a month to take care of them people." Asked whether the three had divided up his contract two years ago and still control it, he replied: "Not that I know of."

Highlanders Edge Valley Quint, 48-44

Stuck And Gonder Spark Southern To First Victory

Southern High School's Highlanders pulled out a 48-44 victory over the winless Valley Black Knights last night at Oakland.

The hard-earned triumph was the first in three starts for the Garrett Countians who, after playing touch-and-go with Valley for three and one-half periods, went ahead to stay with 4:18 left on a field goal by veteran guard Dick Stuck.

Stuck was joined in the backcourt last night by Lindsay Gonder, a junior playing his first varsity game for the Highlanders. Stuck paced the winners with 15 points, while Gonder, hitting from outside, collected 14 and Ron Colaw added 11.

Taking high scoring honors for the evening, however, was the Knight's Wayne Johnson, who tossed in eight fielders and converted four free throws in as many attempts for 20 points. Danny Young tallied 11.

Packers Could Take Title By Beating Rams

Green Bay Is Site If Playoff Needed

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — The Green Bay Packers announced Tuesday that if a playoff game between the Packers and the Baltimore Colts or the San Francisco 49ers is necessary to decide the National Football League's Western Conference title, it will be played at Green Bay's Municipal Stadium Monday, Dec. 26.

Kickoff time for the nationally televised playoff would be 1:06 p. m.

The Packers currently lead the Baltimore Colts by a full game with one to play. Green Bay has clinched at least a tie for the title.

If the Packers win or tie at Los Angeles Saturday they will take the title regardless of what the Colts do. However, a Packer defeat coupled with a Baltimore victory over San Francisco would leave them tied.

Detroit could force its way into a three-way deadlock if it beats Chicago Sunday and Green Bay loses. Also a Green Bay-Detroit two-way tie could result if the Packers lose, the Lions win and the Colts play a tie at San Francisco. A Green Bay-Detroit playoff game would be in Detroit.

Any three-way playoff would result in a complicated situation with one team drawing a bye and then playing the survivor Jan. 1. That would mean the NFL championship game, now set for Dec. 26, could be pushed back as far as Jan. 8.

Washington, Los Angeles Clubs Pick Players Today

Each Tosser Chosen Will Cost $75,000

Senators, Angels To Select 28 Each From List Of 120

By MILTON RICHMAN

BOSTON (UPI) — The new Washington and Los Angeles clubs dip into the bottom of the American League barrel for players Wednesday in the hope of coming up with two "respectable" teams for a rag-tag collection made up chiefly of unproven youngsters and veterans past their prime.

First choice will be determined by the toss of a coin, and the selections from an official list of 120 players will begin in the office of American League President Joe Cronin at 10:15 a.m. EST Wednesday. The player selection was postponed one day due to a storm.

Neither club would give any hint as to its choices but such players as Bobby Shantz and Bob Cerv of the New York Yankees; Gene Woodling of the Baltimore Orioles; Ken Aspromonte and Johnny Klippstein of the Cleveland Indians; Willie Tasby of the Boston Red Sox, and Eddie Yost of the Detroit Tigers were expected to be among the first chosen.

Managers Will Choose

General Manager Ed Doherty and Manager Mickey Vernon will pick the players for the new Washington club, which is headed by Lt. Gen. Elwood (Pete) Quesada, while the choices for the Los Angeles club, owned by cowboy singer Gene Autry and former Stanford football star Bob Reynolds, will be made by General Manager Fred Haney and newly-named Manager Bill Rigney.

Both Vernon and Haney had to get most of their information second - hand, regarding the A.L. players they will have to choose from. Vernon, a one-time Washington first baseman, wound up his active career with Milwaukee in 1959 and was a coach with Pittsburgh last season. Haney was a TV baseball broadcaster last year after quitting as Milwaukee manager at the end of 1959.

Following Wednesday's selection of players by the American League's two new clubs, they will be permitted to engage in inter-league deals, exactly like the 16 other major league teams, until the Dec. 15 deadline.

Will Cost $2,100,000

Each player selected Wednesday will cost $75,000 and since the two new A.L. clubs must buy 28 players apiece, each will have to pay a total of $2,100,000.

In addition, the Los Angeles and Washington clubs will be permitted to draft one player off the farm roster of each A.L. club for prices ranging up to $25,000 a ball player.

Los Angeles and Washington will begin selecting from a master list to which each of the other eight A.L. clubs have named 15 players. No more than seven players may be chosen from any one club.

Each of the new teams must pick at least 10 pitchers, two catchers, six infielders and four outfielders. After that each club can choose players irrespective of position.

Cronin, who will act as referee, said only the players chosen by Los Angeles and Washington will be made public. The others on the list will not be identified. That's so they won't feel "unwanted" when they remain with their old clubs.

Alumni To Honor Beall Champions

Beall High School's championship football, soccer and cross country teams will be honored at a fried chicken dinner sponsored by the Beall Alumni Association Thursday at 6:30 p. m., at the school cafeteria.

Dr. Albert Cook will be the toastmaster and Kenneth Babcock, athletic director of Frostburg State Teachers College, will be the speaker.

Beall won the W.M.I. Soccer League title, the P.V.C. and Allegany county cross country championships and the P.V.C. football crown this year.

Mountaineer Frosh Win Over Richmond

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — The unbeaten West Virginia University freshman basketball team turned back the University of Richmond Frosh 87-82 Tuesday night for its fourth consecutive victory.

Bob Camp, 6-foot-9 Charleston product, led the Little Mountaineers with 20 points. Tom Lowry and Mike Barger followed with 19 each. Bill Maphis had 12 and Jay Deitz 10 for West Virginia.

However, Richmond's Bill Burton had 26 points to lead all scorers. John Telepo added 15, Bill Hoag 12 and Buddy Crone 11 for the Spiders.

Baumann Has Best Average In American

Chicago Southpaw's 2.68 ERA Is Lowest

BOSTON (UPI)—Four pitchers who average a mere 25 years of age claimed the American League's major mound honors in 1960.

Frank Baumann, 27 - year old left-handed fast-baller of the Chicago White Sox, compiled a 2.68 earned run average that made him the league's most effective pitcher.

Jim Coates, skinny-as-a-rail 28-year old New York Yankee righthander, had a 13-3 won-lost record and an .813 percentage that ranked him No. 1 in that department.

Chuck Estrada, 22, of the Baltimore Orioles and Jim Perry, 24, of the Cleveland Indians each won 18 games to share the lead in that category. It marked only the second time in AL history that no pitcher won 20 games.

NFL Championship Game Is Sellout

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia Eagles Tuesday announced that the National Football League championship game is sold out and they are not accepting any more mail orders for tickets.

The Eagles, who have already sewed up the Eastern Division title, will meet the yet-to-be determined Western Conference winner here at Franklin Field.

The championship game is scheduled for Dec. 26 unless a playoff is necessary in the Western Conference, which would push the title game back to a later date.

An Eagles spokesman said the club is already oversubscribed in ticket orders.

THIS STOPPED COLTS — The Rams' quarterback, Billy Wade, is on his 66-yard ramble for a TD here, a score which upset the Baltimore Colts, two-time champs in the NFL. It was the first time in 48 games that Johnny Unitas of the Colts failed to throw a touchdown pass. Game was played before 75,461 in Los Angeles.

Freed Denies Beer-Drinking Rampage Story

U.S. Netmen Charged With Rowdy Tactics

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — Three members of the vanquished United States Davis Cup team left for home Tuesday, leaving their captain behind to deny reports that they went on a beer-drinking rampage at Perth.

A writer for the Sydney Sun, Ernie Christensen, charged that the Yanks smashed windows and hurled beer bottles against the walls of their dressing room in a wild demonstration after their loss to Italy Monday in the interzone final.

"The guys did engage in a little rough-house but the only damage was two small holes in the fibreboard wall which would cost about one pound ($2.24) to fix," said David Freed, the U.S. captain.

"The whole thing was blown out of proportion," he added. "As a matter of fact, when we arrived in Perth, I had to ask the officials to clean out our dressing room. It was a mess."

Chuck McKinley of St. Louis, Bernard (Tut) Bartzen of Dallas, and Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., were the first U.S. players to depart for home. They left Sydney by plane Tuesday afternoon.

It was learned the other two members of the American squad —Barry Mackay of Dayton, Ohio and Earl Buchholz of St. Louis— might accept offers to turn professional "within the next 24 hours."

Kid Berg Is Broke, Gold Belt For Sale

LONDON (UPI) — Jack (Kid) Berg, one of the greats of the British ring, is broke. Tuesday one of his treasured possessions—an American trophy—goes on sale at Christie's auction rooms.

Berg, British and European lightweight champion in the 1930's puts up a "gold belt" awarded him by the National Boxing Association of America when he won the world junior welterweight championship in 1931. The belt is valued at 650 pounds ($1,820).

The British battler earned more than 300,000 pounds ($840,000) from 258 fights. Monday he said he had lost most of his fortune.

Berg hopes someone with an interest in boxing will buy the belt for competition in Britain.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The major league baseball map still has a curious shape despite the recent expansion moves adding four new clubs by 1962.

According to 1960 cenus figures, the nation's 13 largest cities all will have teams within two years with two clubs each in the three cities boasting the largest populations—New York, Chicago and Los Angeles.

That's as it should be. But thereafter, things get a trifle hazy.

Two cities still without a promise of major league baseball are larger than Pittsburgh, home of a valuable National League franchise as well as the current world championship.

Texans Have Beef

Six cities outside projected major league boundaries are bigger than Cincinnati and nine are larger than Kansas City.

Any expansion may be better than no expansion at all but the by-passed natives of Dallas-Fort Worth have a beef coming after recent moves failed to give them major league baseball.

The '60 census shows Dallas is America's 14th largest city with a population of 679,684. That puts Dallas two notches up the list from Pittsburgh, seven ahead of Cincy and 13 up on Kansas City.

Add the population of nearby Fort Worth to the Dallas total and the combination rises to more than a million or larger than 12 of the 17 cities on the major league map for 1962.

New Orleans Heads Pittsburgh

The new census also ranks New Orleans ahead of Pittsburgh, San Antonio, Tex., San Diego, Seattle and Buffalo are ahead of Cincinnati, Memphis, Denver, Atlanta and Indianapolis, as well as the others listed above, out-rank Kansas City.

The National League, which stole a march on its rival in 1957 with a two-club move to California, proceeded in orderly fashion with its current expansion by returning a club to New York in 1962 and adding Houston, a boom town that leaped from 14th in 1950 to seventh in population in 1960.

A hopeful group from Dallas-Fort Worth made a pitch at one of the numerous American League Expansion meetings but failed.

Forecasts Additional Expansion

Clubowners voted to switch Cal Griffith's club from Washington to Minneapolis-St. Paul and added new ones in Los Angeles and Washington. It took a hot debate with the National League to make those moves stick but stick they did.

Commissioner Ford Frick forecast additional expansion soon but this winter's hassle over territorial rights is likely to make them all think twice before jumping ahead to 12-club leagues in the forseeable future.

There's a lot more to it than just following population trends and taking their major league products to fat new market places.

The bickering over how to stock the four new clubs already lined up is only beginning. And that fight promises to be a beaut.

JAYHAWKER JARRED — On October 26 the University of Kansas was placed on probation by the N.C.A.A. for illegally recruiting Bert Coan, halfback seen above, and two other football players from Texas colleges. And, because Kansas used Coan in its next two games, the Big Eight now has stripped the Jayhawkers of their conference crown, with Missouri, beaten by Kansas, now the loop champ.

LONG ODDS

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) —Seldom is a thoroughbred so overmatched that he starts at odds greater than 100-1, yet in the 1958 Kentucky Derby Warren G. was 122.30-1, Martins Rullah was 245-1 and Chance It Tony was 294.40-1.

Floyd Patterson Earns Fighter Of Year Award

Heavy Champion Gets Edward Neil Memorial Plaque

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Floyd Patterson, the first man to regain the world heavyweight boxing championship, Tuesday was named winner of the Edward J. Neil memorial plaque as "fighter of the year" for 1960. The award was made by the Boxing Writers' Association.

It was the second time that Patterson, 25-year-old New Yorker, has been voted the Neil award, named in memory of The Associated Press sports writer who was killed in 1938 while covering the Spanish Civil War. The only other double winner was Carmen Basilio, in 1955 and 1957.

Patterson was the youngest to win the heavyweight crown when he knocked out Archie Moore in the fifth round, Nov. 30, 1956. That made him the Neil winner for that year.

Patterson will receive the award Jan. 17 at the writers' 35th annual dinner.

The heavyweight champion turned professional in 1952 shortly after his return from Helsinki, where he won the Olympic middleweight title. He has lost only two fights, the title to Johansson and an earlier eight-round bout to Joey Maxim on a decision.

Washington, Los Angeles Clubs Pick Players Today

Each Tosser Chosen Will Cost $75,000

Senators, Angels To Select 28 Each From List Of 120

By MILTON RICHMAN

BOSTON (UPI) — The new Washington and Los Angeles clubs dip into the bottom of the American League barrel for players Wednesday in the hope of coming up with two "respectable" teams for a rag-tag collection made up chiefly of unproven youngsters and veterans past their prime.

First choice will be determined by the toss of a coin, and the selections from an official list of 120 players will begin in the office of American League President Joe Cronin at 10:15 a.m. EST Wednesday. The player selection was postponed one day due to a storm.

Neither club would give any hint as to its choices but such players as Bobby Shantz and Bob Cerv of the New York Yankees; Gene Woodling of the Baltimore Orioles; Ken Aspromonte and Johnny Klippstein of the Cleveland Indians; Willie Tasby of the Boston Red Sox, and Eddie Yost of the Detroit Tigers were expected to be among the first chosen.

Managers Will Choose

General Manager Ed Doherty and Manager Mickey Vernon will pick the players for the new Washington club, which is headed by Lt. Gen. Elwood (Pete) Quesada, while the choices for the Los Angeles club, owned by cowboy singer Gene Autry and former Stanford football star Bob Reynolds, will be made by General Manager Fred Haney and newly-named Manager Bill Rigney.

Both Vernon and Haney had to get most of their information second - hand, regarding the A.L. players they will have to choose from. Vernon, a one-time Washington first baseman, wound up his active career with Milwaukee in 1959 and was a coach with Pittsburgh last season. Haney was a TV baseball broadcaster last year after quitting as Milwaukee manager at the end of 1959.

Following Wednesday's selection of players by the American League's two new clubs, they will be permitted to engage in inter-league deals, exactly like the 16 other major league teams, until the Dec. 15 deadline.

Will Cost $2,100,000

Each player selected Wednesday will cost $75,000 and since the two new A.L. clubs must buy 28 players apiece, each will have to pay a total of $2,100,000.

In addition, the Los Angeles and Washington clubs will be permitted to draft one player off the farm roster of each A.L. club for prices ranging up to $25,000 a ball player.

Los Angeles and Washington will begin selecting from a master list to which each of the other eight A.L. clubs have named 15 players. No more than seven players may be chosen from any one club.

Each of the new teams must pick at least 10 pitchers, two catchers, six infielders and four outfielders. After that each club can choose players irrespective of position.

Cronin, who will act as referee, said only the players chosen by Los Angeles and Washington will be made public. The others on the list will not be identified. That's so they won't feel "unwanted" when they remain with their old clubs.

Alumni To Honor Beall Champions

Beall High School's championship football, soccer and cross country teams will be honored at a fried chicken dinner sponsored by the Beall Alumni Association Thursday at 6:30 p. m., at the school cafeteria.

Dr. Albert Cook will be the toastmaster and Kenneth Babcock, athletic director of Frostburg State Teachers College, will be the speaker.

Beall won the W.M.I. Soccer League title, the P.V.C. and Allegany county cross country championships and the P.V.C. football crown this year.

Mountaineer Frosh Win Over Richmond

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — The unbeaten West Virginia University freshman basketball team turned back the University of Richmond Frosh 87-82 Tuesday night for its fourth consecutive victory.

Bob Camp, 6-foot-9 Charleston product, led the Little Mountaineers with 20 points. Tom Lowry and Mike Barger followed with 19 each. Bill Maphis had 12 and Jay Deitz 10 for West Virginia.

However, Richmond's Bill Burton had 26 points to lead all scorers. John Telepo added 15, Bill Hoag 12 and Buddy Crone 11 for the Spiders.

Baumann Has Best Average In American

Chicago Southpaw's 2.68 ERA Is Lowest

BOSTON (UPI)—Four pitchers who average a mere 25 years of age claimed the American League's major mound honors in 1960.

Frank Baumann, 27 - year old left-handed fast-baller of the Chicago White Sox, compiled a 2.68 earned run average that made him the league's most effective pitcher.

Jim Coates, skinny-as-a-rail 28-year old New York Yankee righthander, had a 13-3 won-lost record and an .813 percentage that ranked him No. 1 in that department.

Chuck Estrada, 22, of the Baltimore Orioles and Jim Perry, 24, of the Cleveland Indians each won 18 games to share the lead in that category. It marked only the second time in AL history that no pitcher won 20 games.

NFL Championship Game Is Sellout

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The Philadelphia Eagles Tuesday announced that the National Football League championship game is sold out and they are not accepting any more mail orders for tickets.

The Eagles, who have already sewed up the Eastern Division title, will meet the yet-to-be determined Western Conference winner here at Franklin Field.

The championship game is scheduled for Dec. 26 unless a playoff is necessary in the Western Conference, which would push the title game back to a later date.

An Eagles spokesman said the club is already oversubscribed in ticket orders.

THIS STOPPED COLTS — The Rams' quarterback, Billy Wade, is on his 66-yard ramble for a TD here, a score which upset the Baltimore Colts, two-time champs in the NFL. It was the first time in 48 games that Johnny Unitas of the Colts failed to throw a touchdown pass. Game was played before 75,461 in Los Angeles.

Freed Denies Beer-Drinking Rampage Story

U.S. Netmen Charged With Rowdy Tactics

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — Three members of the vanquished United States Davis Cup team left for home Tuesday, leaving their captain behind to deny reports that they went on a beer-drinking rampage at Perth.

A writer for the Sydney Sun, Ernie Christensen, charged that the Yanks smashed windows and hurled beer bottles against the walls of their dressing room in a wild demonstration after their loss to Italy Monday in the interzone final.

"The guys did engage in a little rough-house but the only damage was two small holes in the fibreboard wall which would cost about one pound ($2.24) to fix," said David Freed, the U.S. captain.

"The whole thing was blown out of proportion," he added. "As a matter of fact, when we arrived in Perth, I had to ask the officials to clean out our dressing room. It was a mess."

Chuck McKinley of St. Louis, Bernard (Tut) Bartzen of Dallas, and Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., were the first U.S. players to depart for home. They left Sydney by plane Tuesday afternoon.

It was learned the other two members of the American squad —Barry Mackay of Dayton, Ohio and Earl Buchholz of St. Louis— might accept offers to turn professional "within the next 24 hours."

Kid Berg Is Broke, Gold Belt For Sale

LONDON (UPI) — Jack (Kid) Berg, one of the greats of the British ring, is broke. Tuesday one of his treasured possessions—an American trophy—goes on sale at Christie's auction rooms.

Berg, British and European lightweight champion in the 1930's puts up a "gold belt" awarded him by the National Boxing Association of America when he won the world junior welterweight championship in 1931. The belt is valued at 650 pounds ($1,820).

The British battler earned more than 300,000 pounds ($840,000) from 258 fights. Monday he said he had lost most of his fortune.

Berg hopes someone with an interest in boxing will buy the belt for competition in Britain.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The major league baseball map still has a curious shape despite the recent expansion moves adding four new clubs by 1962.

According to 1960 cenus figures, the nation's 13 largest cities all will have teams within two years with two clubs each in the three cities boasting the largest populations—New York, Chicago and Los Angeles.

That's as it should be. But thereafter, things get a trifle hazy.

Two cities still without a promise of major league baseball are larger than Pittsburgh, home of a valuable National League franchise as well as the current world championship.

Texans Have Beef

Six cities outside projected major league boundaries are bigger than Cincinnati and nine are larger than Kansas City.

Any expansion may be better than no expansion at all but the by-passed natives of Dallas-Fort Worth have a beef coming after recent moves failed to give them major league baseball.

The '60 census shows Dallas is America's 14th largest city with a population of 679,684. That puts Dallas two notches up the list from Pittsburgh, seven ahead of Cincy and 13 up on Kansas City.

Add the population of nearby Fort Worth to the Dallas total and the combination rises to more than a million or larger than 12 of the 17 cities on the major league map for 1962.

New Orleans Heads Pittsburgh

The new census also ranks New Orleans ahead of Pittsburgh, San Antonio, Tex., San Diego, Seattle and Buffalo are ahead of Cincinnati, Memphis, Denver, Atlanta and Indianapolis, as well as the others listed above, out-rank Kansas City.

The National League, which stole a march on its rival in 1957 with a two-club move to California, proceeded in orderly fashion with its current expansion by returning a club to New York in 1962 and adding Houston, a boom town that leaped from 14th in 1950 to seventh in population in 1960.

A hopeful group from Dallas-Fort Worth made a pitch at one of the numerous American League Expansion meetings but failed.

Forecasts Additional Expansion

Clubowners voted to switch Cal Griffith's club from Washington to Minneapolis-St. Paul and added new ones in Los Angeles and Washington. It took a hot debate with the National League to make those moves stick but stick they did.

Commissioner Ford Frick forecast additional expansion soon but this winter's hassle over territorial rights is likely to make them all think twice before jumping ahead to 12-club leagues in the forseeable future.

There's a lot more to it than just following population trends and taking their major league products to fat new market places.

The bickering over how to stock the four new clubs already lined up is only beginning. And that fight promises to be a beaut.

LONG ODDS

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) —Seldom is a thoroughbred so overmatched that he starts at odds greater than 100-1, yet in the 1958 Kentucky Derby Warren G. was 122.30-1, Martins Rullah was 245-1 and Chance It Tony was 294.40-1.

JAYHAWKER JARRED — On October 26 the University of Kansas was placed on probation by the N.C.A.A. for illegally recruiting Bert Coan, halfback seen above, and two other football players from Texas colleges. And, because Kansas used Coan in its next two games, the Big Eight now has stripped the Jayhawkers of their conference crown, with Missouri, beaten by Kansas, now the loop champ.

Buckeyes Draw 35 Of 36 First Place Ballots

Ohio State Cagers Top First AP Poll

By The Associated Press

Jerry Lucas and Co. from Ohio State hold a commanding lead in the first weekly basketball poll by The Associated Press' panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

With the All-America star of last season rolling along with a 27-point average in three winning games, Ohio State already is being boomed for second straight NCAA title. The Buckeyes are idle until Saturday when they play Wichita.

Ohio State drew 35 of the 36 first place ballots in the season's first poll. The other first went to Detroit, No. 3, which was knocked out of the ranks of the unbeaten Monday night by Purdue 83-64. Ali voting was based on the result of games played through Saturday, Dec. 10

Unbeaten Bradley, the No. 2 team, finished last week with a 3-0 record and added its fourth of the year by drubbing Northern Michigan 105-77 Monday. Bradley plays Nevada Wednesday and Wisconsin Saturday. Detroit's only other game this week is a Saturday date with Nebraska.

The leaders with won-lost records and first place votes in parentheses with points on a 10-9-8 etc. basis. (Records through games of Saturday, Dec. 10)

Floyd Patterson Earns Fighter Of Year Award

Heavy Champion Gets Edward Neil Memorial Plaque

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Floyd Patterson, the first man to regain the world heavyweight boxing championship, Tuesday was named winner of the Edward J. Neil memorial plaque as "fighter of the year" for 1960. The award was made by the Boxing Writers' Association.

It was the second time that Patterson, 25-year-old New Yorker, has been voted the Neil award, named in memory of The Associated Press sports writer who was killed in 1938 while covering the Spanish Civil War. The only other double winner was Carmen Basilio, in 1955 and 1957.

Patterson was the youngest to win the heavyweight crown when he knocked out Archie Moore in the fifth round, Nov. 30, 1956. That made him the Neil winner for that year.

Dethroned by Ingemar Johansson, June 26, 1959, in a shocking upset, Patterson bounced back from that third round knockout and flattened the previously unbeaten Swede in the fifth round of their rematch last June 20.

Patterson will receive the award Jan. 17 at the writers' 35th annual dinner.

The heavyweight champion turned professional in 1952 shortly after his return from Helsinki, where he won the Olympic middleweight title. He has lost only two fights, the title to Johansson and an earlier eight-round bout to Joey Maxim on a decision.

Prim Flower Cops Feature At Tropical

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 13 (AP)—Jockey Braulio Baeza, who rode five winners yesterday, won the featured sixth race at Tropical Park today aboard Hasty House Farm's Prim Flower, a 10-1 shot.

It was Baeza's only victory of the day, and his 21st of the meeting. John Rotz, runner-up to Baeza, won two races, bringing his total to 17.

Prim Flower, in fourth place on the far turn, challenged the leaders at the quarter pole, got the lead at the sixteenth pole and withstood the furious closing rush of Briar Close to win by one length. Marikay was third, two lengths behind Briar Close and two lengths in front of Helio Deb.

Prim Flower, a 3-year-old filly by Primate, was making her first start at Tropical. She had finished third in the Cleopatara Handicap at Arlington Park last August 3 and had won two of 18 starts with two seconds and four thirds.

Prim Flower ran six furlongs in 1:11 2/5 and paid $22.60, 11.60 and $6. Briar Close paid $15.90 and $8.20. Marikay paid $3.40.

A X Y D L B A A X B is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Track To Operate Through Saturday

BALTIMORE (AP)—Horse racing will resume Wednesday at Pimlico after a two-day suspension on account of the snow storm.

The track will try to make up the lost days by operating through Saturday. It was scheduled to end its 28-day meeting Thursday.

The extension has the effect of providing the owners of Pimlico with having the only "game" in the East going at two places Friday and Saturday.

Horse racing also is to start Friday at a track in Charles Town, W. Va., which the owners of Pimlico also operate.

The Charles Town track will offer racing until Jan. 1.

Maryland will pick it up again Jan. 21 at Bowie.

Prim Flower Cops Feature At Tropical

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 13 (AP)—Jockey Braulio Baeza, who rode five winners yesterday, won the featured sixth race at Tropical Park today aboard Hasty House Farm's Prim Flower, a 10-1 shot.

It was Baeza's only victory of the day, and his 21st of the meeting. John Rotz, runner-up to Baeza, won two races, bringing his total to 17.

Prim Flower, in fourth place on the far turn, challenged the leaders at the quarter pole, got the lead at the sixteenth pole and withstood the furious closing rush of Briar Close to win by one length. Marikay was third, two lengths behind Briar Close and two lengths in front of Helio Deb.

Prim Flower, a 3-year-old filly by Primate, was making her first start at Tropical. She had finished third in the Cleopatara Handicap at Arlington Park last August 3 and had won two of 18 starts with two seconds and four thirds.

Prim Flower ran six furlongs in 1:11 2/5 and paid $22.60, 11.60 and $6. Briar Close paid $15.90 and $8.20. Marikay paid $3.40.

Market Closes Lower Despite Late Recovery

NEW YORK (UPI)—Profit-taking upset the stock market Tuesday but a strong recovery near the close wiped out a good portion of the losses and carried many of the specialty issues well into higher ground.

The Dow-Jones industrial average was nicked slightly for its first loss in six sessions while declines outnumbered advances by only a small amount. Rail stocks suffered the largest declines.

Volume was on the moderate side all day except for a late tape at the close when the recovery movement was at its peak. Trading amounted to 3,500,000 shares compared with 3,020,000 Monday when the market opened an hour late because of the snow storm.

Interest was generated by a large number of individual corporate developments. General Tire which has been granted a patent for a cheaper synthetic rubber widely used in making tires and other rubber products soared 6⅞. Baltimore & Ohio dropped 1¾ on the news that the government plans to investigate the take-over bids by the C&O and New York Central. C&O rose 1⅛ and Central lost ¾.

Polaroid dropped another 7 points on rumors that Bell & Howell would soon have available a competitive fast film. Bell & Howell rose 2⅝ and American Photocopy gained 4 points.

Market Closes Lower Despite Late Recovery

NEW YORK (UPI)—Profit-taking upset the stock market Tuesday but a strong recovery near the close wiped out a good portion of the losses and carried many of the specialty issues well into higher ground.

The Dow-Jones industrial average was nicked slightly for its first loss in six sessions while declines outnumbered advances by only a small amount. Rail stocks suffered the largest declines.

Volume was on the moderate side all day except for a late tape at the close when the recovery movement was at its peak. Trading amounted to 3,500,000 shares compared with 3,020,000 Monday when the market opened an hour late because of the snow storm.

Interest was generated by a large number of individual corporate developments. General Tire which has been granted a patent for a cheaper synthetic rubber widely used in making tires and other rubber products soared 6⅞. Baltimore & Ohio dropped 1¾ on the news that the government plans to investigate the take-over bids by the C&O and New York Central. C&O rose 1⅛ and Central lost ¾.

Polaroid dropped another 7 points on rumors that Bell & Howell would soon have available a competitive fast film. Bell & Howell rose 2⅝ and American Photocopy gained 4 points.

Area Weather To Be Slightly Warmer Today

Road Crews Still Cleaning Up Storm

Slightly warming temperatures are expected today following overnight lows of near zero weather in Western Maryland and nearby Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

No new snow fell yesterday in the wake of Sunday's severe winter storm, but the sub-freezing temperatures of Monday continued.

Garrett County reported an accumulation of 12 inches of snow on the ground with slight winds of 8 to 12 miles per hour. Some early morning drifting yesterday ceased as the sun shone sporadically but brightly in late afternoon.

Visibility was good yesterday and most of the main highways in Garrett County were cindered. However, caution is still being urged for motorists and chains or snow treads are advisable.

Flurries Are Noted

Wind-whipped flurries were noted in the morning in the Oakland and Grantsville areas but not much drifting was reported. Garrett's official high reached 10 degrees yesterday following the overnight low of zero. At 5 p. m. yesterday the mercury had again dropped to 6 degrees above and sub-zero temperatures were forecast for today. The mercury, however, is expected to climb to the mid-20s sometime today in Garrett County.

Allegany County had southwest and westerly winds yesterday as the temperatures reached a high of 17 degrees. Yesterday's low at Constitution Park was registered at 7 above. Winds in the Cumberland area were in the neighborhood of 3 to 5 miles per hour and no drifting was reported throughout the county.

Harry Skelly, Allegany County roads department supervisor, said that all Allegany County secondary roads appeared in good shape last night with the possible exceptions of Steele Road, Lonaconing; Ocean Hill between Midland and National; and Horserock Hill Road, Westernport.

The roads have been plowed and cindered and are bare in spots, although many icy areas have been noted, he said.

Mr. Skelly said county crews worked overtime last night and Monday clearing and widening secondary roads. He reported other roads will be widened further today.

Drifting Expected

Some drifting was expected overnight in the higher elevations and crews will make an early check of Bald Knob Road, Mt. Savage; Dan's Rock Road, Midland; Fairview Road and Oliver Beltz east of Cumberland, and others. Chains and snow tires are still recommended for travel on all county roads.

Mr. Skelly said their were eight breakdowns of equipment during the heavy snow, but he added that all but one of the vehicles were serviceable yesterday.

City Street Department crews were salting and cindering yesterday and reported progress in clearing the heavy snowfall in the downtown area.

Traffic was much heavier in the city yesterday, but higher elevations still reported trouble. Many hilly streets were cindered and salted yesterday by city crews.

The lowest reading reported yesterday was at Big Savage Mountain where the unofficial low got down to eight below zero.

Parsons, W. Va., had six below, while Frostburg's minimum was two degrees above.

Forecast for the area today is slightly warmer, cloudy with temperatures in the 20s.

Ensign Ronald T. Mears, 23, son of Mr. and Thomas B. Mears, 1138 Shade's Lane, recently completed a cadet course in air intelligence at the Naval Intelligence School, Washington, D. C.

It included photographic interpretation and radar target analysis.

Ensign Mears, who is stationed at the Naval Air Station at Whidbey Island, Washington, was commissioned last February after completing officer candidate school at Newport, R. I.

He graduated from Fort Hill High School in 1955 and received a bachelor of arts degree in horticulture at the University of Maryland in 1959.

Plan CIDC Activities

Members of the Planning committee of the Cumberland Industrial Development Company are seen at a luncheon meeting here this week. In the group, left to right, are Lynn C. Lashley, treasurer; Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey, secretary; Garland L. Johnston, president; C. William Gilchrist, finance committee chairman; Harold D. Barber, advertising and publicity committee chairman, and Leonard C. Neff Jr., CIDC director. The group met to plan future activities.

State Policemen Learning To Check Nuclear Fallout

A program to train all members of the Maryland State Police in radiological monitoring is underway, according to a joint announcement by Col. Carey Jarman, superintendent of the state police, and Sherley Ewing, director of the Maryland Civil Defense Agency.

Lt. William E. O'Hara, commander of the LaVale Barracks, said the training was completed earlier this year by the civilian personnel at the barracks and by Sgt. William F. Baker, criminal investigator, and Sgt. Harry S. Bosley.

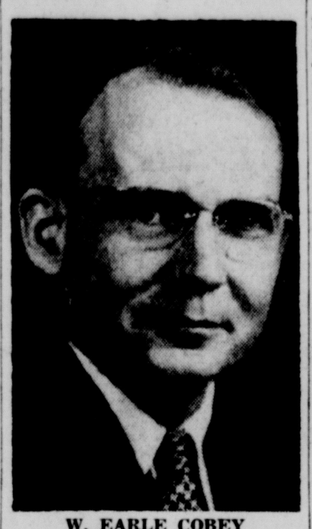
This past week, First Sgt. Harry A. Holsinger completed the training at Pikesville. Eventually all troopers assigned to the LaVale Barracks will undergo the training, said Lt. O'Hara.

In January the new police recruit class will undergo such training and within a year all personnel will be experts in the monitoring.

With all the state police being trained, the state's capability of monitoring radiological fallout in the event of enemy attack, will be greatly enhanced.

In addition, the troopers will have training in what to do in case of a peacetime nuclear accident.

Radiological monitoring instruments will be stockpiled at all state police barracks and outposts so that prompt reading and reports can be obtained if the necessity arises.



W. EARLE COBEY

Cobey Is Named New Judge Of Fourth Circuit

Allegany County once again has two judges sitting on the bench in the Fourth Judicial Circuit with the appointment yesterday of W. Earle Cobey, prominent Cumberland attorney, to fill the second judgeship created by the 1959 legislature and ratified by the voters in the November 8 election.

Mr. Cobey, a native of Frostburg who now resides at 19 Windsor Road, The Dingle, and State Senator George B. Rasin Jr., Kent County Democrat who was named to the judgeship in the Second District, were appointed associate judges by Gov. J. Millard Tawes yesterday.

The appointments became effective immediately. Both men will serve until the 1962 general election when they may run for the full 15-year terms.

Mr. Cobey's commission is expected to arrive in Cumberland today, according to Gov. Tawes' secretary, who said the commissions of the new circuit judges were mailed yesterday. Swearing-in ceremonies for Mr. Cobey will be held later this week.

Two Men Endorsed

Mr. Cobey will serve as an associate judge in Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties. A Democrat, he and William A. Gunter, local Republican attorney, were endorsed for the position last week by the Allegany County Bar Association.

Mr. Gunter, a member of the bar for 45 years, notified Cobey's appointment, said:

"I think the Governor's selection of Cobey is an excellent one; and I am glad the judgeship came to Allegany County. I appreciate the action of my fellow members of the bar in also submitting my name for the position; but, in view of the fact that I will have reached the compulsory retirement age before the next general election in 1962, it would not have been practicable for me to abandon my present law practice for 18 months of service, even though it had been offered me."

The new judge, who will serve with Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris of this county; and Associate Judges Neil C. Fraley of Garrett County and D. Kenneth McLaughlin of Washington County, was also recommended for the position by the Maryland Bar Association.

Mr. Cobey was born in Frostburg, the son of the late Dr. James C. Cobey, one of that city's best known physicians, and Mrs. Cobey, who was one of Frostburg's civic leaders for many years until her death April 27.

Practices Law Here

He attended Beall High School Mercersburg Academy and was graduated from Princeton University in 1929. He received his bachelor of laws degree from Harvard University School of Law in 1932.

Mr. Cobey was associated in the practice of law with A. Taylor

Evaluation Of School Science Study Planned

Preparations for a summer workshop for an extensive review of the science curriculum in Allegany County public high schools were approved yesterday by the County Board of Education.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster outlined tentative plans for the review, which would take from four to six weeks to complete during the summer of 1961. He said that there had been no such fill-scale evaluation of the science program of the county since about 1948.

Mr. Webster explained that some of the county's outstanding science teachers would be called upon to assist in the review along with qualified advisers from the State Department of Education and several outside consultants.

Would Help Progress

Some new materials on science education, including films, would be used in the evaluation. All five members of the board expressed belief that such a program should be worthwhile in changing the curriculum as needed to take advantage of new emphasis.

The Board of Education also approved a proposal for the closing of the public elementary schools for one day in mid-February to enable all of the county elementary teachers to attend a social studies conference.

Dr. George Manolakes, chairman of the Department of Early Childhood and Elementary Education at New York University, has been invited to return to Allegany County in February to conduct the conference. He was in the county on October 18 and held three different meetings for the county teachers.

Schools' Use Permitted

Use of facilities at Fort Hill High School by three different groups also was approved by the school board. The Cumberland Lions Club received permission to use the auditorium there for the annual concert by the Tulsa University choir on Saturday, January 28.

The Girl Scouts obtained permission for use of the same auditorium for a roundup on Saturday, February 18. G. Wyatt Brenaman was granted permission for use of a Fort Hill classroom for an aeronautic ground school instruction for pilots each Wednesday from 7 until 9 p.m. for 20 weeks.

Robert E. Pence, supervisor of physical education in the county public schools, will be invited to attend the board's January meeting to explain his efforts to encourage greater physical fitness among the boys and girls of the county.

All five members of the County Board of Education attended yesterday's session. They are J. Goodloe Jackson, president; Mrs. Albert C. Cook, Mrs. Richard Winer, T. Donald Shires and Kenneth R. Malcolm. Robert MacDonald Bruce, attorney to the board, also attended.

Fractures Wrist

Miss Mary Yacenak, 313 Dorn Avenue, was admitted to Memorial Hospital early last night suffering from a fractured left wrist sustained when she fell coming out of work at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant.

Absenteeism At Schools Variable

Many Missing As Classes Start

Absenteeism in 11 representative Allegany County public schools yesterday ranged from a low of 8.7 per cent at Beall High School in Frostburg to a high of 24.8 per cent at Oldtown Elementary School, according to Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel in the county public schools.

The following percentages of absenteeism were reported to Mr. Higgins' office:

Oldtown Elementary School, 24.8 per cent; Oldtown High School, 22.5 per cent; Bruce High School, 16.8 per cent; Beall High School, 8.7 per cent; Valley High School, 18.4 per cent; Fort Hill High School, 13.2 per cent; Allegany High School, 16 per cent; West Side School, 19.3 per cent; Columbia Street School, 18.1 per cent; East Side School, 23.4 per cent; Cresaptown School, 12.9 per cent; Mt. Savage Elementary School, 24.2 per cent, and Mt. Savage High School, 17.4 per cent.

These figures represent a sharp drop from the month of November when the county school attendance averaged 95.6 per cent. Elementary schools averaged 95.5 per cent, third best in five years; junior high schools, 95.5 per cent, third best in five years; and junior-senior high schools, 95.7 per cent, best in five years for November.

However, Mr. Higgins pointed out that attendance had begun to drop even before the weekend snow. He pointed out that too many pupils are missing school for no good reason during the deer hunting season, especially in areas served by Flintstone, Oldtown, Bruce and Valley high schools.

Despite the fact that there are two Saturdays for hunting deer in Maryland, a number of school boys miss anywhere from one to five days during the deer hunting season each year. Last week there were 125 boys who missed one day, 35 two days, eight three days, eight four days and 10 the entire week, all apparently deer hunting.

School authorities stress that these absences are illegal. They emphasize that parents must realize that the primary responsibility is for their children to attend school, leaving their days off for hunting. Parents of these pupils will be counselled by Mr. Higgins and the three visiting teachers of the county. There must be a firm understanding on the part of parents, Mr. Higgins added.

The authorities explain that school attendance comes first and is the major job of all pupils. The legal excuses for absences are spelled out in the law and hunting is not a legal excuse.

Mr. Higgins emphasized that most parents in Allegany County are insistent that their children attend school regularly and for that reason Allegany County maintains the best school attendance records in Maryland.

Bowling Green Firemen To Vote

Sanitary Unit For County Is Created

Commissioners Adopt Resolution

A formal resolution establishing the Allegany County Sanitary District, effective January 1 and designating the three commissioners for staggered terms of two, four and six years, was unanimously approved by the Board of County Commissioners yesterday morning.

Playford S. Aldridge, RFD 3, Bedford Road, was appointed for six years, Robert A. Reinhard, 310 National Highway, LaVale, four years and Alvin H. Rankin, 175 Maple Street, Frostburg, for two years.

Under terms of the resolution as each term comes to an end the county commissioners will appoint a sanitary commissioner for a six-year term.

On November 29, Commissioners John T. Mason and William A. Wilson agreed that the sanitary commission should be created but Commissioner John J. Rowan voted against the plan then. At that time Mr. Mason said he would appoint Mr. Reinhard to the commission and Mr. Wilson named Mr. Rankin. Last week, Mr. Rowan decided to designate Mr. Aldridge as his appointee. Yesterday Mr. Rowan recorded the motion for the resolution.

The creation of the Sanitary District now must obtain the approval of the State Tax Commission.

For some time it has been contended that a sanitary commission for the entire county is necessary to solve the sewage disposal problems facing a large area of the county. Only Cumberland, Westernport and Luke have sewage disposal facilities.

The resolution explained that the sanitary district is being created to "acquire, construct, reconstruct, extend, repair and improve, maintain and operate water systems, sewage systems and other related projects within Allegany County."

The county commissioners also named two temporary employes at Sylvan Retreat. Audrey M. Twigg, 700 Hill Top Drive, was appointed a cook and Norma M. Harris a practical nurse.

LaVale Board Issues Five Home Permits

Five building permits were approved during a recent meeting of the LaVale Zoning Board which disapproved the location of a trailer on B street in that community.

Permits were issued to Betty Jean Richards of Bowling Green who plans to erect a dwelling on Miller Street at an estimated cost of $8,000; Mrs. William H. Steele, 18 National Highway, who plans to construct a home on Arlington Street at a cost of about $9,000; C. Martin Stickley, LaVale Tourist Court, who plans to build a home on Mary Street at a cost of about $9,000; F. E. Wright, 149 Polk Street, a dwelling on Club House Road at a cost of about $8,000 and Paul L. Evans, Frostburg, who plans to build a dwelling on Atlantic Avenue at a cost of about $8,000.

Lloyd H. Buchanan, chairman of the board, said James Lambert, 542 Central Avenue, was issued a business permit to operate the LaVale Taxi Cab Company from the Grand Motel on National Highway.

A request for a trailer on B Street was disapproved since this is a residential A Zone and trailers are not permitted, said Mr. Buchanan.

Applications for building permits, he added, may be secured at the LaVale Sanitary Commission office at the fire hall. Building permits will be issued within 48 hours after receipt of the application, provided the application conforms with the zoning ordinance.

Where applications do not conform to the ordinance, the applicant will be promptly advised, said Mr. Buchanan.

The zoning map which indicates how the various areas of LaVale are zoned will be permanently displayed soon and further announcements will be made as to location.

The Zoning Board said it will appreciate the cooperation of LaVale residents in reporting any possible violations. The board will investigate any suspected violation promptly and take appropriate action.

John Charles Thomas, 69, Dies At California Home

Famed Baritone Was Native Of Meyersdale, Pa.

Internationally famed baritone John Charles Thomas, star of opera, concerts and radio, who was a native of Meyersdale, Pa., and a former resident of this county, died yesterday of cancer at his home in Apple Valley, Calif. He was 69.

A son of the late Rev. Milson and Anna Dorothea Schnaebel) Thomas, he was educated in area high schools, attended Mount Street College of Homeopathy of Baltimore; studied music at Peabody Conservatory of Music from 1910 to 1913; and studied voice with Blanche Sylvania Blackman and Adelin Fermin. He was awarded a master of music at Dickinson College.

Mr. Thomas had been ill for months and in a coma for days. He underwent surgery, described at the time as minor, at the UCLA Medical Center March 18, 1959. His death was attributed to intestinal cancer.

In his 45-year musical career, Mr. Thomas retained his interest in Maryland and particularly this area. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity and was a Knight Templar. He held membership in the Talbot Country Club, Miles River Yacht Club, Chesapeake Bay Yacht Club at Easton; and also belonged to a number of actors', players' and professional organizations.

Voice Was Rich, Virile

Thomas, one of the most popular singers of his day, was known for the deep, rich quality of his voice. It matched his manly appearance —broad shoulders, huge chest. On his many concert tours he held audiences rapt for two hours or more, working through a repertoire ranging from operatic arias to Negro spirituals.

Part of his charm was his dramatics. His experience on the stage gave him background for convincing enactment of the stories he sang.

Thomas and his wife, Dorothy, moved to Apple Valley, a desert community northeast of Los Angeles in 1954. For a time he managed a radio station there.

In 1957 they built a fashionable, ranch-type home overlooking the Apple Valley Golf Course.

Made Last Tour in '52-'53

Thomas made his farewell concert tour, although it was not billed as such, when he appeared in about 50 cities in 1952-53. For several years prior to that he had been devoting himself to teaching in Los Angeles.

He made his first professional appearance with a Henry W. Savage road company in London, Ont., in late 1912. He soon became a matinee idol in Broadway musicals with many women admirers who exclaimed over his blond hair, fine features and athletic build.

But Thomas complained that singing the same music day after day was distasteful and said that he only stayed in musicals to get enough money to do concerts.

Thomas died in his sleep at 6:30 p.m. EST yesterday. His wife, the former Dorothy Mae Kaehler, whom he married on March 5, 1924, was at his bedside.

Funeral services will be held at St. Timothy's Episcopal Church in Apple Valley at 10:30 a.m. Friday.

Traffic Light System Slated In South End

Fleming Issues Proceed Notice

A traffic light system for the intersection of Laing Avenue and Fifth Street with Virginia Avenue will be installed by mid-March, according to Police Commissioner Philmore Fleming.

Mr. Fleming yesterday afternoon authorized the Queen City Electric Company to proceed with the project after plans and specifications were reviewed by the State Roads Commission.

Approves Plans

The Mayor and Council early this month accepted the $12,900 bid of the local firm for installing the traffic light system but deferred giving the proceed notice until detailed plans and specifications were approved by George N. Lewis Jr., chief of the SRC's Traffic Bureau.

The suggestions made by the SRC for the traffic lights, based on the type used on Henderson Avenue, were minor.

One suggestion was that a double light be installed at the south entrance of the B & O Subway on Virginia Avenue so traffic would not be snarled if one of the lights went out.

It is considered unlikely that the additional light will be included in the plans, however, since traffic coming out of the subway will be controlled at all times by the lights at intersection of the Industrial Boulevard and Virginia Avenue.

Contract Readied

The proceed notice was sent to the contractor yesterday by City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery, who added that a formal contract was being prepared for the work.

Installation of the system was termed urgent recently by the South Cumberland Business and Civic Association, which warned of the traffic hazards and dangers to pedestrians at the uncontrolled intersections.

Two Fires Checked At Hyndman, Pa.

Volunteer firemen from Corriganville and Ellerslie last night assisted firefighters of Hyndman who quenched a flue fire in a home and a church in that Pennsylvania community

The Hyndman volunteers got a call about 8:15 when a fire started in the flue of the two-story home of Unger Mellott on First Avenue. The flames burned some rafters around the flue and part of the roof.

About 15 minutes later a flue fire occurred at the Methodist church across the street from the home. Volunteers had to break in to fight the fire.

Later last night they returned to the Mellott home to recheck on the dwelling.

Players Actor Takes Cold Walk Because Of Costume

The "character" with the lead role in the Algonquin Players' production, "The Great Big Doorstep" which opens tonight at the Maryland Theater learned Sunday that motorists are leery of husky hitchhikers in shoddy clothes.

Clark Fales, an employe at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, donned his costume Sunday and drove from his home in Potomac Park to the Maryland Theater for a dress rehearsal.

After the rehearsal he got into his car and drove toward home, but got stuck in the snow in the vicinity of the Dingle. After he was unable to go any farther in the car he decided to get out and hitchhike.

But no one would pick up the husky man dressed in faded denims and a bowler cap. So he had to walk all the way home and change clothes.

The three-act comedy will be presented tonight and tomorrow night at 8:15. The setting for the comedy is the bayou country of Louisiana.

There are a number of new faces in the final production of the third season of the Algonquin Players, who have staged 12 plays during that period.

Season tickets for next year's performances will be on sale tonight in the lobby of the theater.

School Board Laments Death Of Z. M. Hewitt

A resolution lamenting the death Monday night of Zebulon M. Hewitt, 81, of 524 Cumberland Street, was adopted unanimously yesterday afternoon by the Allegany County Board of Education.

Mr. Hewitt, who had been a patient in the County Infirmary for more than three years, had served as auditor for the County Board of Education for more than 30 years before ill health forced his retirement.

Right in the room where the school board took its action was a reminder of Mr. Hewitt. In 1955 he gave to Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster an American flag which he had been given by his father. The flag was draped over President Abraham Lincoln's coffin for the trip from New York City to Springfield, Ill., where the Civil War President was buried. The framed flag hangs in Mr. Webster's office.

Mr. Hewitt's father, whose name also was Zebulon, operated a livery stable in New York City during the Civil War. He drove the caisson carrying President Lincoln's body around New York City before it was placed on a train for shipment to Illinois.

Some drifting was expected overnight in the higher elevations and crews will make an early check of Bald Knob Road, Mt. Savage; Dan's Rock Road, Midland; Fairview Road and Oliver Beltz east of Cumberland, and others. Chains and snow tires are still recommended for travel on all county roads.

Mr. Skelly said their were eight breakdowns of equipment during the heavy snow, but he added that all but one of the vehicles were serviceable yesterday.

City Street Department crews were salting and cindering yesterday and reported progress in clearing the heavy snowfall in the downtown area.

Traffic was much heavier in the city yesterday, but higher elevations still reported trouble. Many hilly streets were cindered and salted yesterday by city crews.

The lowest reading reported yesterday was at Big Savage Mountain where the unofficial low got down to eight below zero.

Parsons, W. Va., had six below, while Frostburg's minimum was two degrees above.

State Policemen Learning To Check Nuclear Fallout

A program to train all members of the Maryland State Police in radiological monitoring is underway, according to a joint announcement by Col. Carey Jarman, superintendent of the state police, and Sherley Ewing, director of the Maryland Civil Defense Agency.

Lt. William E. O'Hara, commander of the LaVale Barracks, said the training was completed earlier this year by the civilian personnel at the barracks and by Sgt. William F. Baker, criminal investigator, and Sgt. Harry S. Bosley.

This past week, First Sgt. Harry A. Holsinger completed the training at Pikesville. Eventually all troopers assigned to the LaVale Barracks will undergo the training, said Lt. O'Hara.

In January the new police recruit class will undergo such training and within a year all personnel will be experts in the monitoring.

With all the state police being trained, the state's capability of monitoring radiological fallout in the event of enemy attack, will be greatly enhanced.

In addition, the troopers will have training in what to do in case of a peacetime nuclear accident.

Radiological monitoring instruments will be stockpiled at all state police barracks and outposts so that prompt reading and reports can be obtained if the necessity arises.

W. EARLE COBEY

Cobey Is Named New Judge Of Fourth Circuit

Allegany County once again has two judges sitting on the bench in the Fourth Judicial Circuit with the appointment yesterday of W. Earle Cobey, prominent Cumberland attorney, to fill the second judgeship created by the 1959 legislature and ratified by the voters in the November 8 election.

Mr. Cobey, a native of Frostburg who now resides at 19 Windsor Road, The Dingle, and State Senator George B. Rasin Jr., Kent County Democrat who was named to the judgeship in the Second District, were appointed associate judges by Gov. J. Millard Tawes yesterday.

The appointments became effective immediately. Both men will serve until the 1962 general election when they may run for the full 15-year terms.

Mr. Cobey's commission is expected to arrive in Cumberland today, according to Gov. Tawes' secretary, who said the commissions of the new circuit judges were mailed yesterday. Swearing-in ceremonies for Mr. Cobey will be held later this week.

Two Men Endorsed

Mr. Cobey will serve as an associate judge in Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties. A Democrat, he and William A. Gunter, local Republican attorney, were endorsed for the position last week by the Allegany County Bar Association.

Mr. Gunter, a member of the bar for 45 years, notified Cobey's appointment, said:

"I think the Governor's selection of Cobey is an excellent one; and I am glad the judgeship came to Allegany County. I appreciate the action of my fellow members of the bar in also submitting my name for the position; but, in view of the fact that I will have reached the compulsory retirement age before the next general election in 1962, it would not have been practicable for me to abandon my present law practice for 18 months of service, even though it had been offered me."

The new judge, who will serve with Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris of this county; and Associate Judges Neil C. Fraley of Garrett County and D. Kenneth McLaughlin of Washington County, was also recommended for the position by the Maryland Bar Association.

Mr. Cobey was born in Frostburg, the son of the late Dr. James C. Cobey, one of that city's best known physicians, and Mrs. Cobey, who was one of Frostburg's civic leaders for many years until her death April 27.

Practices Law Here

He attended Beall High School Mercersburg Academy and was graduated from Princeton University in 1929. He received his bachelor of laws degree from Harvard University School of Law in 1932.

Mr. Cobey was associated in the practice of law with A. Taylor

Evaluation Of School Science Study Planned

Preparations for a summer workshop for an extensive review of the science curriculum in Allegany County public high schools were approved yesterday by the County Board of Education.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster outlined tentative plans for the review, which would take from four to six weeks to complete during the summer of 1961. He said that there had been no such fill-scale evaluation of the science program of the county since about 1948.

Mr. Webster explained that some of the county's outstanding science teachers would be called upon to assist in the review along with qualified advisers from the State Department of Education and several outside consultants.

Would Help Progress

Some new materials on science education, including films, would be used in the evaluation. All five members of the board expressed belief that such a program should be worthwhile in changing the curriculum as needed to take advantage of new emphasis.

The Board of Education also approved a proposal for the closing of the public elementary schools for one day in mid-February to enable all of the county elementary teachers to attend a social studies conference.

Dr. George Manolakes, chairman of the Department of Early Childhood and Elementary Education at New York University, has been invited to return to Allegany County in February to conduct the conference. He was in the county on October 18 and held three different meetings for the county teachers.

Schools' Use Permitted

Use of facilities at Fort Hill High School by three different groups also was approved by the school board. The Cumberland Lions Club received permission to use the auditorium there for the annual concert by the Tulsa University choir on Saturday, January 28.

The Girl Scouts obtained permission for use of the same auditorium for a roundup on Saturday, February 18. G. Wyatt Brenaman was granted permission for use of a Fort Hill classroom for an aeronautic ground school instruction for pilots each Wednesday from 7 until 9 p.m. for 20 weeks.

Robert E. Pence, supervisor of physical education in the county public schools, will be invited to attend the board's January meeting to explain his efforts to encourage greater physical fitness among the boys and girls of the county.

All five members of the County Board of Education attended yesterday's session. They are J. Goodloe Jackson, president; Mrs. Albert C. Cook, Mrs. Richard Winer, T. Donald Shires and Kenneth R. Malcolm. Robert MacDonald Bruce, attorney to the board, also attended.

School Board Laments Death Of Z. M. Hewitt

A resolution lamenting the death Monday night of Zebulon M. Hewitt, 81, of 524 Cumberland Street, was adopted unanimously yesterday afternoon by the Allegany County Board of Education.

Mr. Hewitt, who had been a patient in the County Infirmary for more than three years, had served as auditor for the County Board of Education for more than 30 years before ill health forced his retirement.

Right in the room where the school board took its action was a reminder of Mr. Hewitt. In 1955 he gave to Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster an American flag which he had been given by his father. The flag was draped over President Abraham Lincoln's coffin for the trip from New York City to Springfield, Ill., where the Civil War President was buried. The framed flag hangs in Mr. Webster's office.

Mr. Hewitt's father, whose name also was Zebulon, operated a livery stable in New York City during the Civil War. He drove the caisson carrying President Lincoln's body around New York City before it was placed on a train for shipment to Illinois.

Absenteeism At Schools Variable

Many Missing As Classes Start

Absenteeism in 11 representative Allegany County public schools yesterday ranged from a low of 8.7 per cent at Beall High School in Frostburg to a high of 24.8 per cent at Oldtown Elementary School, according to Homer S. Higgins, supervisor of pupil personnel in the county public schools.

The following percentages of absenteeism were reported to Mr. Higgins' office:

Oldtown Elementary School, 24.8 per cent; Oldtown High School, 22.5 per cent; Bruce High School, 16.8 per cent; Beall High School, 8.7 per cent; Valley High School, 18.4 per cent; Fort Hill High School, 13.2 per cent; Allegany High School, 16 per cent; West Side School, 19.3 per cent; Columbia Street School, 18.1 per cent; East Side School, 23.4 per cent; Cresaptown School, 12.9 per cent; Mt. Savage Elementary School, 24.2 per cent, and Mt. Savage High School, 17.4 per cent.

These figures represent a sharp drop from the month of November when the county school attendance averaged 95.6 per cent. Elementary schools averaged 95.5 per cent, third best in five years; junior high schools, 95.5 per cent, third best in five years; and junior-senior high schools, 95.7 per cent, best in five years for November.

However, Mr. Higgins pointed out that attendance had begun to drop even before the weekend snow. He pointed out that too many pupils are missing school for no good reason during the deer hunting season, especially in areas served by Flintstone, Oldtown, Bruce and Valley high schools.

Despite the fact that there are two Saturdays for hunting deer in Maryland, a number of school boys miss anywhere from one to five days during the deer hunting season each year. Last week there were 125 boys who missed one day, 35 two days, eight three days, eight four days and 10 the entire week, all apparently deer hunting.

School authorities stress that these absences are illegal. They emphasize that parents must realize that the primary responsibility is for their children to attend school, leaving their days off for hunting. Parents of these pupils will be counselled by Mr. Higgins and the three visiting teachers of the county. There must be a firm understanding on the part of parents, Mr. Higgins added.

The authorities explain that school attendance comes first and is the major job of all pupils. The legal excuses for absences are spelled out in the law and hunting is not a legal excuse.

Mr. Higgins emphasized that most parents in Allegany County are insistent that their children attend school regularly and for that reason Allegany County maintains the best school attendance records in Maryland.

Players Actor Takes Cold Walk Because Of Costume

The "character" with the lead role in the Algonquin Players' production, "The Great Big Doorstep" which opens tonight at the Maryland Theater learned Sunday that motorists are leery of husky hitchhikers in shoddy clothes.

Clark Fales, an employe at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, donned his costume Sunday and drove from his home in Potomac Park to the Maryland Theater for a dress rehearsal.

After the rehearsal he got into his car and drove toward home, but got stuck in the snow in the vicinity of the Dingle. After he was unable to go any farther in the car he decided to get out and hitchhike.

But no one would pick up the husky man dressed in faded denims and a bowler cap. So he had to walk all the way home and change clothes.

The three-act comedy will be presented tonight and tomorrow night at 8:15. The setting for the comedy is the bayou country of Louisiana.

There are a number of new faces in the final production of the third season of the Algonquin Players, who have staged 12 plays during that period.

Season tickets for next year's performances will be on sale tonight in the lobby of the theater.

Sanitary Unit For County Is Created

Commissioners Adopt Resolution

A formal resolution establishing the Allegany County Sanitary District, effective January 1 and designating the three commissioners for staggered terms of two, four and six years, was unanimously approved by the Board of County Commissioners yesterday morning.

Playford S. Aldridge, RFD 3, Bedford Road, was appointed for six years, Robert A. Reinhard, 310 National Highway, LaVale, four years and Alvin H. Rankin, 175 Maple Street, Frostburg, for two years.

Under terms of the resolution as each term comes to an end the county commissioners will appoint a sanitary commissioner for a six-year term.

On November 29, Commissioners John T. Mason and William A. Wilson agreed that the sanitary commission should be created but Commissioner John J. Rowan voted against the plan then. At that time Mr. Mason said he would appoint Mr. Reinhard to the commission and Mr. Wilson named Mr. Rankin. Last week, Mr. Rowan decided to designate Mr. Aldridge as his appointee. Yesterday Mr. Rowan recorded the motion for the resolution.

The creation of the Sanitary District now must obtain the approval of the State Tax Commission.

For some time it has been contended that a sanitary commission for the entire county is necessary to solve the sewage disposal problems facing a large area of the county. Only Cumberland, Westernport and Luke have sewage disposal facilities.

The resolution explained that the sanitary district is being created to "acquire, construct, reconstruct, extend, repair and improve, maintain and operate water systems, sewage systems and other related projects within Allegany County."

The county commissioners also named two temporary employes at Sylvan Retreat. Audrey M. Twigg, 700 Hill Top Drive, was appointed a cook and Norma M. Harris a practical nurse.

LaVale Board Issues Five Home Permits

Five building permits were approved during a recent meeting of the LaVale Zoning Board which disapproved the location of a trailer on B street in that community.

Permits were issued to Betty Jean Richards of Bowling Green who plans to erect a dwelling on Miller Street at an estimated cost of $8,000; Mrs. William H. Steele, 18 National Highway, who plans to construct a home on Arlington Street at a cost of about $9,000; C. Martin Stickley, LaVale Tourist Court, who plans to build a home on Mary Street at a cost of about $9,000; F. E. Wright, 149 Polk Street, a dwelling on Club House Road at a cost of about $8,000 and Paul L. Evans, Frostburg, who plans to build a dwelling on Atlantic Avenue at a cost of about $8,000.

Lloyd H. Buchanan, chairman of the board, said James Lambert, 542 Central Avenue, was issued a business permit to operate the LaVale Taxi Cab Company from the Grand Motel on National Highway.

A request for a trailer on B Street was disapproved since this is a residential A Zone and trailers are not permitted, said Mr. Buchanan.

Applications for building permits, he added, may be secured at the LaVale Sanitary Commission office at the fire hall. Building permits will be issued within 48 hours after receipt of the application, provided the application conforms with the zoning ordinance.

Where applications do not conform to the ordinance, the applicant will be promptly advised, said Mr. Buchanan.

The zoning map which indicates how the various areas of LaVale are zoned will be permanently displayed soon and further announcements will be made as to location.

The Zoning Board said it will appreciate the cooperation of LaVale residents in reporting any possible violations. The board will investigate any suspected violation promptly and take appropriate action.

John Charles Thomas, 69, Dies At California Home

Famed Baritone Was Native Of Meyersdale, Pa.

JOHN CHARLES THOMAS

Internationally famed baritone John Charles Thomas, star of opera, concerts and radio, who was a native of Meyersdale, Pa., and a former resident of this county, died yesterday of cancer at his home in Apple Valley, Calif. He was 69.

A son of the late Rev. Milson and Anna Dorothea Schnaebel) Thomas, he was educated in area high schools, attended Mount Street College of Homeopathy of Baltimore; studied music at Peabody Conservatory of Music from 1910 to 1913; and studied voice with Blanche Sylvania Blackman and Adelin Fermin. He was awarded a master of music at Dickinson College.

Mr. Thomas had been ill for months and in a coma for days. He underwent surgery, described at the time as minor, at the UCLA Medical Center March 18, 1959. His death was attributed to intestinal cancer.

In his 45-year musical career, Mr. Thomas retained his interest in Maryland and particularly this area. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity and was a Knight Templar. He held membership in the Talbot Country Club, Miles River Yacht Club, Chesapeake Bay Yacht Club at Easton; and also belonged to a number of actors', players' and professional organizations.

Voice Was Rich, Virile

Thomas, one of the most popular singers of his day, was known for the deep, rich quality of his voice. It matched his manly appearance —broad shoulders, huge chest. On his many concert tours he held audiences rapt for two hours or more, working through a repertoire ranging from operatic arias to Negro spirituals.

Part of his charm was his dramatics. His experience on the stage gave him background for convincing enactment of the stories he sang.

Thomas and his wife, Dorothy, moved to Apple Valley, a desert community northeast of Los Angeles in 1954. For a time he managed a radio station there.

In 1957 they built a fashionable, ranch-type home overlooking the Apple Valley Golf Course.

Made Last Tour in '52-'53

Thomas made his farewell concert tour, although it was not billed as such, when he appeared in about 50 cities in 1952-53. For several years prior to that he had been devoting himself to teaching in Los Angeles.

He made his first professional appearance with a Henry W. Savage road company in London, Ont., in late 1912. He soon became a matinee idol in Broadway musicals with many women admirers who exclaimed over his blond hair, fine features and athletic build.

But Thomas complained that singing the same music day after day was distasteful and said that he only stayed in musicals to get enough money to do concerts.

Thomas died in his sleep at 6:30 p.m. EST yesterday. His wife, the former Dorothy Mae Kaehler, whom he married on March 5, 1924, was at his bedside.

Funeral services will be held at St. Timothy's Episcopal Church in Apple Valley at 10:30 a.m. Friday.

Traffic Light System Slated In South End

Fleming Issues Proceed Notice

A traffic light system for the intersection of Laing Avenue and Fifth Street with Virginia Avenue will be installed by mid-March, according to Police Commissioner Philmore Fleming.

Mr. Fleming yesterday afternoon authorized the Queen City Electric Company to proceed with the project after plans and specifications were reviewed by the State Roads Commission.

Approves Plans

The Mayor and Council early this month accepted the $12,300 bid of the local firm for installing the traffic light system but deferred giving the proceed notice until detailed plans and specifications were approved by George N. Lewis Jr., chief of the SRC's Traffic Bureau.

The suggestions made by the SRC for the traffic lights, based on the type used on Henderson Avenue, were minor.

One suggestion was that a double light be installed at the south entrance of the B & O Subway on Virginia Avenue so traffic would not be snarled if one of the lights went out.

It is considered unlikely that the additional light will be included in the plans, however, since traffic coming out of the subway will be controlled at all times by the lights at intersection of the Industrial Boulevard and Virginia Avenue.

Contract Readied

The proceed notice was sent to the contractor yesterday by City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery, who added that a formal contract was being prepared for the work.

Installation of the system was termed urgent recently by the South Cumberland Business and Civic Association, which warned of the traffic hazards and dangers to pedestrians at the uncontrolled intersections.

About 15 minutes later a flue fire occurred at the Methodist church across the street from the home. Volunteers had to break in to fight the fire.

Later last night they returned to the Mellott home to recheck on the dwelling.
